$67,000,000 ECONOMIES REMOVED FROM HOUSE OMNIBUS SAVINGS BILL

Army, Navy and Panama Transport Services Are Retained.

REORGANIZING PLANS OF PRESIDENT SAVED

Curtailments Approved to Date Reach Total of $30,000,000.

By ROBERT C. ALLBRIGHT.

Congressional reaction against incisive economy methods gained headway in the House yesterday when savage assaults on the Democratic omnibus savings bill brought items rejected to $67,000,000.

Helpless before the attack, leaders saw whole sections lifted from their measure. Members refused to discontinue vocational education allowances, balked at abolishing Army, Navy and Panama transport services, and wrote a $1,000,000 printing appropriations increase into the bill.

One substantial economy was retrieved from the debris, and this could not be estimated in terms of immediate savings. Members approved omnibus authority for the President to reorganize the Government, subject to congressional veto.

Shipping Board Slashed.

As any plan of reorganization submitted by the President would have to lie 60 days before Congress, which might at discretion disapprove it, no possible economies could result until early next year.

Other savings of smaller scope were authorized yesterday, bringing curtailments approved to date to $30,000,000. These included $2,500,000 from Shipping Board reorganization, $750,000 from discarded plans for the West Potomac Park heating plant, and $725,000 from increased service charges by the Bureau of Mines, the Bureau of Standards and the Commerce Department.

Thus, projected economies of the omnibus measure, originally estimated at $200,000,000, have been cut to $133,000,000, with prospect of further merciless slashings when such controversial proposals as the Army-Navy merger and cuts in veterans' allowances come up today and next week.

McDuffie Sure of Bill.

In the face of this wholesale emasculation, Economy Chairman John McDuffie refuses to admit his bill is "done for." He plans a record vote

Medal Is Awarded Prison Riot Hero

Carnegie Group Rewards Alabaman; 22 Others Get Recognition.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 29 (U.P.).—Patrick P. O'Neill's heroism during the State Penitentiary riot at Canon City, Colo., on October 3, 1929, which cost thirteen lives, was rewarded today by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission.

A bronze medal, signifying his valor in carrying two charges of dynamite to the side of a building in which the rebellious prisoners were barricaded, was awarded O'Neill, whose home is in St. Bernard, Ala.

Twenty-two other persons received hero's recognition from the commission. Five of the awards were posthumous, their intended recipients having lost their lives in heroic attempts. Pennsylvania received the most awards, with six. Ohio had three, West Virginia and Oklahoma two each, and one each for Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Michigan, New York, New Jersey, Missouri, Illinois, Maine and Ontario, Canada.

Cotton Shippers Assail Farm Board as Useless

Memphis, Tenn., April 29 (A.P.).—The American Cotton Shippers Association, in a report adopted here today, criticized the Federal Farm Board and allied agencies as "useless, harmful and costly nostrums," and asserted that "organized taxpayers and citizens generally desire the elimination of all such functions of government."

The report, prepared by the economy committee and addressed to President Hoover, members of Congress, governors, legislatures and bankers, said the issue with regard to farm relief is, "Shall the Federal Government be permitted to waste hundreds of millions of the taxpayers' money and utilize to the full the legislative powers of Congress in futile attempts to set nature aside?"

Senate Group Places Levy on Race Betting

$25,000,000 Is Estimated Annual Yield; Replaces Items Killed; Committee Adjourns to Await New Revenue Estimates.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

A 10 per cent tax on pari-mutuel race track tickets was voted yesterday by the Senate finance committee in course of a day in which it made several changes in the provisions of the House bill and adjourned until Monday to give Treasury experts opportunity to prepare estimates of the revenue the revised bill will produce in the next fiscal year.

The race bet tax was proposed by Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah, chairman of the committee, who estimated it would raise approximately $25,000,000 annually. It was proposed as a means of getting back some of the revenue lost from the bill by changes which had previously been made in the House bill. A tax on race track betting, incidentally, was one of the proposals made by William A. Brady, New York theatrical producer, when he appeared before the committee to protest against the admission tax on the legitimate theater. The tax would be collected at the race track and paid by the better.

The tariff war rumbled yesterday but the committee left the bill as it stood with the embargo tariffs stricken out by the votes of Thursday. Senator James E. Watson (Republican), of Indiana, party leader, prophesied the tariffs would be put back.

Warning that he would filibuster so long that the Senate would be sitting in the fall with the tax bill unpassed, if the oil tariff was not reinserted, was given by Senator Elmer Thomas (Democrat), of Oklahoma. He said he wasn't a high tariff man, but nonetheless he was emphatic in making it plain that he proposed to have put in the tax bill an embargo tariff on oil. Oklahoma is a large producer of oil, and Senator Thomas P. Gore (Democrat), of Oklahoma, fought for the oil tariff in the committee sessions. Coal, copper and lumber are the other three commodities which have the strongest support behind demands for tariff protection in the tax bill. A tariff on rubber may be approved to raise $50,000,000.

Several changes made in the bill yesterday were estimated roughly to have added something like $30,000,000 to the reduced total, the race-betting tax, of course, comprising most of this gain.

The House rate on near beer was reduced from 2 cents a gallon to 1¼ cents a gallon. The tax on uncar-

CURTIS STILL ABSENT IN LINDBERGH HUNT

Norfolk Tenseness Grows; New York Police Tracing Fleischer Message.

Norfolk, Va., April 29 (A.P.).—The air of tenseness surrounding efforts of three Norfolk men to recover the kidnaped child of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was increased noticeably tonight as John Hughes Curtis, chief of the intermediaries, remained away on his eighth mystery trip since the lengthy negotiations were begun.

The yacht Marcon, used by the negotiators on previous trips, sailed this afternoon from its berth at the naval base. The departure of the vessel was shrouded in secrecy while sentries stood guard near the piers. It could not be learned who went aboard the yacht, nor what direction it took after leaving the naval base. Neither Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, nor the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, the other two intermediaries, would comment regarding the departure of the yacht.

It was apparent that the three in-

ACCOUNTANTS HIRED IN MARKET INQUIRY

Senate Banking Committee Will Search Books of Stock Brokerages.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate banking committee yesterday authorized the employment of trained accountants and experts to search the books of the New York Stock Exchange and brokerage houses in quest of any improper or illegal manipulations of the market.

Abandoning its "hit or miss" method of questioning witnesses blindly, the committee has approved a plan for sending investigators to New York to get the facts of stock market operation.

Secret plans for the inquiry mapped out by William A. Gray, committee counsel, were approved, but not made public. Gray announced, however, that the committee had authorized him to retain George K. Watson & Co., of New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, accountants, to supervise the work. In addition, at least four special investigators will be employed.

As an indication of the thorough-

Archeologists of Carnegie Find Unknown Mayan City

Site Declared of Enormous Size and of Great Importance; Is Located in Yucatan Peninsula; Sculptures and Hieroglyphs Studied.

Carnegie Institution, of Washington, announces that an expedition sent into the jungles of the Southeastern corner of Campeche, peninsula of Yucatan, to investigate the report of the existence of an unknown Mayan city, has returned to its base with full confirmation of the report.

Dr. Sylvannus Morley, leader of the expedition, states that the site is of enormous size and that it is of great archeological importance.

It was first seen by a white man, C. L. Lundell, in December, 1931, who named it Calakmul—"Ca," meaning, in Mayan, "two;" "Lak," meaning "together" or "nearby," and "Mul," meaning "hills." "The two adjacent hills" would be a fairly good translation of the name.

Mr. Lundell, a young American botanist, connected with the American Chicle Development Co., which operates in the region, spent four days in the examination of the ruins when he first came upon them. During the time he located a number of sculptured stelae, tablets — monuments, some fallen and some still standing, and charted their locations. It was his account of what he had seen that led Dr. Morley, in the name of Carnegie Institution, to ask officials of the Mexican government in charge of archeological sites, for the privilege of visiting the site and of studying it in detail.

Having received permission, Dr. Morley set out for the locality on April 3 with a party of five. Dr. Morley's report of a two-week period of study follows:

"Calakmul exceeds our expectations. It contains the tremendous total of 103 stelae with sculptured figures and hieroglyphs, many more sculptured monuments than any Mayan city hitherto known. Some of the stelae are of high esthetic merit while 51

ENGLAND BACKS U. S. FOR FLEET OF BATTLESHIPS

ABOLITION IS URGED BY SMALL NATIONS

Swanson Asserts Craft Are Defensive; Conference Reaches Deadlock.

Geneva, April 29 (U.P.).—The United States and Great Britain fought for their battleships at the arms conference today, forming a defensive alliance against an organized offensive of the small powers who wish to classify all ships over 10,000 tons as aggressive.

The small powers would abolish battleships or internationalize them within the league.

The United States and Britain received moderate support from Japan and lukewarm encouragement from France.

Senator Claude A. Swanson, of Virginia, announced at the meeting of the Naval Commission that the United States unequivocally opposed classifying battleships as offensive weapons. "They are the backbone of the United States defense system," he said, "and a threat to no nation, since we covet no one's territory." He stressed the United States' obligation to keep the Panama Canal open in peace and war and to defend its Far Eastern possessions.

Briton Supports Swanson.

Vice-Admiral A. D. P. R. Pound, of Great Britain, supported Senator Swanson, declaring that general naval superiority, not capital ships enables attacks on trade. Similarly, he continued, it is not fair to claim that battleships are destined for carrying out invasions.

"The capital ships of the world can now almost be numbered on the fingers of the two hands," he said. "They are more precious than rubies to the countries possessing them. No nation is going to risk them by pitting them against coastal fortifications."

Baron Von Rheinbaben, of Germany, announced that Germany is willing to sacrifice her powerful and efficient "pocket" battleship on the altar of disarmament if others scrap battleships over 10,000 tons. He also criticized the American thesis of the defensive nature of battleships, saying:

"What about the blockade of our

President Advised To Order 4 Home

Malone Wires That Family Should Be Brought to Mainland.

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—Dudley Field Malone, attorney who at first considered going to Honolulu with Clarence Darrow, tonight was informed of the Massie case verdict and immediately wired President Hoover:

"I most respectfully submit that you do now what you should have done at the beginning, namely: Order Lieut. Massie, his wife, his mother-in-law and the two enlisted men on board a warship and bring them to the first port of jurisdiction on the mainland, namely San Francisco, where they can get a fair trial and the protection American citizens should be properly entitled to."

Maj. Granville Fortescue, husband of Mrs. Fortescue, received the news of the verdict as if it stunned him.

"What?" he asked after it had been read to him. A moment later he hung up the telephone receiver with a brief: "Nothing to say now—thanks."

Carroll B. Price to Run For Former House Seat

(Associated Press.)

Former Representative Carroll B. Reece of Butler, Tenn., yesterday announced his candidacy for Congress again from the First Congressional District, of Tennessee. He will oppose Oscar B. Lovette, of Greenville, Tenn., Independent Republican, who was elected to the Seventy-second Congress.

Mr. Reece, a Republican, indorsed by President Hoover, was defeated by Lovette in a last minute campaign in 1930 after serving 10 years in the House. He has been indorsed by 10 of the 12 counties in his district for the Republican nomination.

DAIL APPROVES BAN ON OATH TO CROWN

British Secretary Calls It Treaty Violation; De Valera Denies Charge.

Dublin, April 29 (A.P.).—The government bill to abolish the oath of allegiance to the British crown was passed on second reading by the Dail Ireann tonight after prolonged debates in which President Eamon de Valera declared: "We propose to get the last letter of our legal rights."

The vote on the measure, which has been assailed as repudiation of the Anglo-Irish treaty by J. H. Thomas, dominions secretary of Great Britain, was 77 to 71. Passage on second reading virtually amounted to final adoption of the measure.

"I do not fear negotiation with England," President de Valera told the Dail, "but when we negotiate we will negotiate about a united Ireland and not before.

"No negotiation is needed about this oath bill. My word and our word is as good as Thomas'.

"At one time Thomas did not say that removal of the oath was a violation of the treaty. He is beginning to say it now, but we deny it is a violation."

Before the measure was approved tonight its way was made clear when the Republican-Labor combination put through a motion to keep the Dail in session continuously until midnight Saturday, if necessary, in order that the oath question might be disposed of. The vote on this motion was 78 to 62.

Nine Wet Democrats Indorsed in Minnesota

St. Paul, Minn., April 29 (A.P.).—Nine candidates at large for members of Congress, represented as out-and-out opponents of the eighteenth amendment, were indorsed today by the "regular" faction of the Democratic party in Minnesota, a referendum on prohibition was recommended.

200 Arrested in Revolt On Spanish Government

Madrid, Spain, April 29 (A.P.).—Newspaper dispatches from Lisbon tonight said that more than 200 persons had been arrested in connection with a conspiracy against the government.

One of those taken into custody, the dispatches reported, was Dr. Lingo Gameiro, former director of public health.

C. E. Banks, 80, Friend Of Darrow, Auto Victim

Irish Free State Shows Deficit of $5,120,000

Dublin, Irish Free State, April 29 (A.P.).—President Eamon De Valera informed the Dail Eireann today that the financial position of the Free State, viewed from the simple budgetary principles of revenue and expenditure, showed a deficit of £1,400,000 (currently $5,120,000). Action on the budget was postponed until May 11.

The new duty of £1 (currently $3.66) a ton on maize and meal of all kinds becomes effective tomorrow morning. Products of entirely commonwealth origin are exempt.

ONE OF 5 SHANGHAI BOMB VICTIMS DIES

4 Other High Tokyo Leaders Near Death; Police Say Korean Was Thrower.

Shanghai (Saturday), April 30 (A.P.).—Y. Kawabata, president of the Shanghai Japanese Residents Association and one of five high Japanese officials injured in a bomb explosion at Hongkew yesterday, died early this morning.

Physicians operated on Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, second in command of the Japanese army contingent here, removing the toes of his right foot.

Mamoru Shigemitsu, the Japanese minister to China, who was in a critical condition with 32 pieces of the hand-grenade bomb thrown by the Hongkew assassin in his body, passed a fairly good night and was reported to be bearing up as well as might be expected.

Police identified the bomb thrower as Yin Kitsu, a Korean revolutionary from Manchuria and a member of a Chinese-Korean revolutionary society functioning in various Oriental countries.

Meanwhile the peace conferences which have for months been going

LONG RAPS LEADERS; QUITS COMMITTEES

Action Follows Clash With Robinson on Proposal to "Soak Rich."

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Senator Huey Long, the "kingfish" of politics, leaped clear of the Democratic reservation yesterday and swam away alone.

The red-headed senator, political boss of Louisiana at 38, announced that he had split with Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, and he therefore resigned from the four Senate committees to which he has been assigned.

His action was unprecedented.

Robinson accused Long of having made a "comic opera gesture" for publicity purposes.

Long, who, in his early days as a traveling salesman used to boast that he could "sell anybody anything," tried to "sell" Robinson a soak-the-rich resolution. The Democratic leader declined to be a customer, and the row followed.

Long's measure, popularly known at the Capitol as the "swollen fortunes" resolution, would limit the income of any one person to $1,000,000 a year, and would limit any inheritance or bequest to $5,000,000. All over such sums would be claimed by Uncle Sam.

By his performance yesterday, Huey

Chinese Balk Japanese Advances in Manchuria

Tokyo, April 29 (A.P.).—The Chinese irregulars in Eastern Kirin Province, Manchuria, were holding their own against several detachments of Japanese troops operating in that area today.

After a two-day battle near Hailin, 135 miles northwest of Kirin, 6,000 Chinese insurgents held their strongly entrenched positions 4 miles from Hailin, after losing 200 men in the encounter.

Surgeon in Plaster Cast Performs 4 Operations

Detroit, April 29 (A.P.).—A surgeon, who was himself in a plaster cast and able to move only his hands and arms, performed four delicate operations today propped face down on a table raised above the operating table.

"It wasn't anything at all," said Dr. E. J. O'Brien, chief of staff of Herman Kiefer Hospital, after he had performed the last operation. "Just a job of work that needed to be done and I happened to be the only one around handy."

Dr. O'Brien is recovering from a broken back suffered three weeks ago in an automobile accident. While in the cast he has continued working on a book on tubercular surgery.

Four such operations were set for today at the hospital. At the last minute, Dr. Norman Bethune, Montreal surgeon, who was to have performed them, telegraphed that he would be unable to come for a week. Dr. O'Brien's associates thought he was joking when he said he would perform the operations himself, but he wasn't.

As skillfully as if he had full use of his body, he carried out the operations, making an incision in the neck of each patient and cutting a nerve to alter the position of the diaphragm.

LENIENCY ASKED IN JURY VERDICT AFTER 48 HOURS

Mrs. Massie Sobs When Decision Is Announced in Tense Court.

HEAVY GUARD CALLED TO SCENE OF TRIAL

Husband of Attack Victim, Mother and Two Others May Get Ten Years.

Honolulu, April 29 (A.P.).—Twelve men of varied racial origin tonight convicted of manslaughter the four persons accused of lynching Joseph Kahahawai for vengeance. The jury recommended leniency.

The defendants, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie; his mother-in-law, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, and two Navy enlisted men, Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord, received the verdict with varying reactions.

The verdict left various possibilities for the length and manner of punishment. The maximum penalty is ten years imprisonment. The lightest sentence possible would be a ten-year suspended sentence for each. But the court can use discretion between these extremes. The Governor of the Territory has the power to pardon any or all the defendants.

Comment from Clarence Darrow, aged leader of the defense was terse: "I am very much disappointed," was all he would say.

A sob broke the tense silence when Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of the naval officer and victim of a criminal attack in which Kahahawai allegedly confessed partaking, heard the verdict which may mean ten years imprisonment for her husband, the admitted killer; her aristocratic mother, and the two Navy men.

48 Hours' Deliberation.

For 48 hours the strangely constituted jury labored on the case. Then it was suddenly called into court by the presiding jurist, Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis.

Its foreman, John Stone, American, reported there were prospects of reaching a decision "within a reasonable time," and the judge sent it back to work.

A few minutes later word spread that a verdict had been reached. Every available policeman was rushed to the judiciary building, from which Kahahawai was abducted last January 8 and where the long trial had been held.

Packed with police, the building

Massie's Mother Sobs Over Honolulu Verdict

Winchester, Ky., April 29 (A.P.).—"Convicted of manslaughter—what does that mean?"

That was the reply made by Mrs. W. S. Massie, of Winchester, when informed tonight that her son, Lieut. Thomas Massie, 24, and his codefendants in the Honolulu lynching case, had been found guilty. Mrs. Massie and her daughter, Dorothy Massie, were together when informed of the verdict. They said they had been confident of an acquittal. Mrs. Massie said she had made no plans to go to her son and did not know just what she would do. She broke down and sobbed later.

BORAH LAUDS SOVIET ON DEBT PAYMENTS

Advocate of Recognition for Nation Cites Lamont's Favorable Stand.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, yesterday told the Senate he had been "unable to find a single default" on the part of Soviet Russia in meeting its obligations for goods bought in this country.

Long an advocate of Soviet recognition, he said he had heard of "no complaints" by those from whom Russia bought, and quoted from an interview given by R. P. Lamont, jr., son of the Secretary of Commerce.

"Lamont, in Russia, investigating the cattle industry," Borah said, "is quoted as saying the sooner Soviet Russia builds herself up the better off the rest of the world will be."

The senator's talk came as he put in the Record a recent address by Charles A. Gill, an executive of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. He cited Gill's reference to Russia's increased trade with Germany while that with the United States declined and explained that his (Borah's) purpose in presenting the address was as an answer "to patriotic societies that are warning the United States against Russia."

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, asked him if he knew what connection Gill had with the Russian government, and Borah replied that he understood he had been in its employ in connection with its railroad program.

Gill made the address before a meeting of the Baltimore section, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, at Baltimore on March 17. In it he contended inability of Russia to get favorable credit terms was causing the United States to lose trade with Soviet Russia to Germany.

LONG HITS LEADERS; QUITS COMMITTEES

Long established himself as the most rampant insurgent in either party. Alongside of him, the Republican insurgents now seem tame. Could anybody imagine Norris, Brookhart, or the others resigning their committee assignments?

Long decided to take this step early in the day, following Robinson's refusal to support his "swollen fortunes" resolution. When he arose to speak, he had his resignation written out.

As submitted to Vice President Curtis, it read:

"To the President of the Senate:

"I hereby resign as a member of the committees on naval affairs, manufactures, commerce, and interoceanic canals. "HUEY P. LONG."

In his speech, a long and noisy one, Senator Long denounced the Democratic leaders in both the House and the Senate. He implied that they were friends of plutocracy and foes of the poor. He quoted from Lord Bacon to warn of the dangers of a "rebellious belly," and he borrowed from McGuffey's Reader to portray the greediness of the rich.

Meantime, he pounded his desk, waved his arms, and occasionally mopped his brow with a pink silk handkerchief.

Cites Huge Incomes.

Asserting that there were 504 men who earned more than $1,000,000 a year, Long demanded that their incomes be "sweated down." The result would be, he said, that three-quarters of a billion dollars "would be distributed among the people of this country."

"Is not a million dollars enough?" he cried. "How much do they want?"

"Here we have had a Democratic leadership over in the House and a Democratic leadership over in the Senate that imposes sales taxes. There is no such thing as cutting down swollen fortunes. Whatever is proposed by the lords of the realm—Baruch, Rockefeller, and Morgan—is going to be sponsored in the chamber of the United States Senate like it was sponsored by the leadership of the lower house."

Here Long warned that he was ready to bolt his party whenever another party espoused his views on "swollen fortunes." If a Farmer-Laborite saw it his way, he said, and a Democrat did not, then he would vote for the Farmer-Laborite.

Predicts New Leadership.

When he had sent his resignation from the committees to the desk, Long said:

"These committee assignments have been gratuitously given me. I have been a politician all my lifetime, and when the time came that any one who received anything from my political organization felt that he had to go another way, I expected him to surrender whatever the organization gave him.

"The senator from Arkansas (Robinson) does not look on it like that. I do. I think, in fairness to him, there has got to be another leadership for the Democratic party in Congress. It may take two years. It may take four. It may take six, and I hope to be here when the sixth is over. But there has got to be another kind of leadership."

Leader Robinson made a sarcastic reply.

"Any man who serves in a position of public responsibility in times like these," he said, "performs a difficult task. It is not conceivable to me that even that great genius in statesmanship, the senator from Louisiana, if given a free hand, could solve all the problems which embarrass this Government and its people.

Hits Long's Proposal.

"It is a very different thing from giving vent to expressions that are calculated to arouse class hatred and class resentment and finding an adequate remedy."

Robinson said that Long's proposal for limiting incomes to $1,000,000 by seizing all above this was "confiscation of private property," and therefore was contrary to all Democratic principles and traditions.

"The senator from Louisiana," Robinson said, "has, in dramatic fashion, tendered his resignation from the committees to which he was appointed at my suggestion. He seems to think he must do something extraordinary to get publicity.

"That was a comic opera gesture that does not do justice to the comic talents and powers of the senator from Louisiana."

Robinson offered to call a party conference whenever it was desired to choose a new leader. Senator Copeland, of New York, was quick to indorse Robinson's leadership.

When it was all over, Long seemed the calmest man in the Senate. His colleagues—Louisiana members of the House—thought he was great.

Father Lonely as Family Leaves City for Country

By JOHN J. DALY

AT THIS time of year, when spring is on the wing, the great exodus of families takes place, mothers and children going back home—to grandma's house—and leaving the head of the household on his own.

This annual trek across the countryside promotes railroad business, the experts say, but it also has the unhappy faculty of letting loose a lot of lost souls on the world.

BETWEEN the lines
There are tell-tale signs
When the folks have gone away.
The clocks have stopped,
The floors unmopped,
When the folks have gone away.

There's not a sound
Of child or hound
Throughout the night and day;
Deserted, dad
Is never glad
When the folks have gone away.

He turns in late
At the garden gate
And no one hears him say,
"Hello, hello!"
To Dick, or Joe,
For the folks have gone away.

His shoulders droop
Like a sinking sloop,
His voice is seldom gay.
He sits and dreams
And sometimes schemes
To get 'em back, his way.

The poor old wight
Is a sorry sight
With not a beaming ray
Upon his soul,
As black as coal,
When the folks are far away.

A man may read
To fill his need,
And a man may sing "Hey, hey."
But it rings untrue
If his spirit's blue

$667,000,000 SAVINGS TAKEN FROM HOUSE ECONOMY BILL

on the committee's pay cut plan, rejection of which cost the retrenchment program $55,000,000.

The vote would come after completed consideration of the bill, on a motion to recommit the measure, probably around the middle of next week. Despite their victory of three days ago, when members agreed to a $2,500 exemption in salaries cut 11 per cent, House pay cut opponents were not overjoyed at the prospect of a record vote on the issue.

Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York, who took a leading part in defeating the committee pay cut plan, predicted another conquest.

"In admitting 70 per cent of all Federal workers draw less than $2,500, economy committee members have offered the strongest argument for success of our $2,500 exemption proposal," he said.

Hoover Furlough Plan.

Representative LaGuardia said he would prefer to see the President's enforced Federal furlough plan adopted, provided the compulsory furloughs were made at half pay. The House voted down Representative John J. Cochran's "compromise" on this basis, Wednesday.

Representative C. William Ramseyer (Republican), Iowa, will call for another vote on the White House furlough proposal, when consideration of the bill is complete.

"Government employes are going to have to take a bigger cut later if they succeed in finally knocking out the committee's 11 per cent cut, with $1,000 exemption," Representative McDuffie said yesterday. He predicted a number of "flops" on his record vote.

"When a lot of members of the House begin to realize that it takes 80 bales of cotton, or 5,000 bushels of wheat, to pay the salary of one $2,500 Government employe, they are going to look at this wage-cut business in a different light," he declared.

Vocational Aid to States.

Provision for gradual diminution of vocational aid to States, estimated at $7,167,000 annually, was striken from the bill yesterday on motion of Representative Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, who was aided in the fight by Representative LaGuardia. No immediate savings would have been effected by the provision. The plan was to begin cutting down the Federal vocational contribution in 1934 until, ten years hence, they reach the vanishing point.

The major contest yesterday centered about the motion of Representative Henry E. Barbour (Republican), California, to strike sections providing for abolition of the Army and Navy Transport Service and the Panama Railroad Steamship Line.

Representative LaGuardia had promised "a scandal that would stink to high heaven" when this item came up. Yesterday he disclosed its nature. He said "a lot of rats up in New York" are trying to "steal" Government docks that would be sold under the provision.

To meet his charges, Representative McDuffie offered an amendment to provide for the five-year lease of the docks.

Physical Clash Near.

For a time it looked as though Mr. LaGuardia and Chairman McDuffie would clash physically, when the New York Progressive leader charged "there has been some pretty slimy lobbying going on in this matter."

The economy chairman advanced to within arm's length of Mr. LaGuardia.

"If the gentleman is saying any slimy lobbyists were around me, I want to know it," he said in a low tone that was threatening.

"I absolve the gentleman," Representative LaGuardia said, "but I do insist that this provision is in the bill because it has the support of a bunch of thieving lobbyists."

A provision making 15 per cent of appropriations within a department interchangeable was stricken from the bill after Appropriations Chairman Joseph W. Byrns had taken the floor to urge Congress to keep a closer watch on its funds.

"This provision would mean extravagance, not economy," he said.

On motion of Representative William F. Stevenson (Democrat), South Carolina, chairman of the printing committee, members raised the bill's restriction on printing funds from $9,000,000 to $10,000,000, with $2,500,000 allocated to the legislative branch.

Night Session Voted Down.

Mr. Stevenson said it would be impossible to get through the year on $9,000,000. An amendment was adopted setting aside $225,000 of the total for "free" Government farm bulletins.

The clerk finished reading the fifth title of the bill, providing for consolidation of public works activities. A point of order was raised against its consideration by Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, but later withdrawn. The consolidation will be passed upon when the House convenes at 11 o'clock this morning.

Authority for the President to reorganize the Government, by transfers, consolidations, and elimination of overlappings, was approved without vigorous opposition. Representative William P. Holaday (Republican), Illinois, failed in an effort to have the congressional "veto" feature of the bill removed.

Chairman McDuffie attempted to recess the House until 7:30 last night. Representative Bertrand H. Snell, New York, Republican floor leader, protested members had been "driven hard" during the week, and asked adjournment overnight. Mr. McDuffie consented to "put it up to the House" and the Snell proposal was agreed to.

Maj. Ewart Smith Is Found Suicide

World War Hero, Fearing Insanity, Shoots Self in Wilmington, N. C.

Wilmington, N. C., April 29 (A.P.).—Maj. Ewart W. Smith, V. C., retired British army officer, who was superintendent of communications for the Dominion of Canada during the World War, shot himself to death today in his home here.

Maj. Smith was 57 years old, his wife found him lying across a bed when she returned home after taking their children to school. He had shot himself through the head with an Army practice rifle. On the dresser were his insurance papers and a note, hurriedly scrawled, which said "I'm afraid I'm going crazy."

Maj. Smith was in active service overseas from the beginning of the World War until after the second battle of the Marne when he was transferred to Canada as superintendent of communications. King George Cross for bravery. His presentation presented him with the Victoria was made at Buckingham Palace. After the war, Maj. Smith came here with his brother-in-law, the late James Cruikshank, and purchased the Wilmington Dispatch. He was business manager of the newspaper until it suspended in 1923.

Group in Senate Hears Coal Commission Hit

(Associated Press.)

A. M. Liveright, Clearfield, Pa., counsel for the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers Association, contended before a Senate committee yesterday that the commission proposed in the Davis-Kelly bill stabilizing the bituminous industry would be a "dictator."

The bill is unconstitutional, he testified, pointing out that it attempts to bring mining under Federal control through the "device" of regulating interstate shipment of coal after it is produced. Liveright argued that coal does not belong in the class with commodities, which have been barred from interstate commerce, such as impure food and drugs and stolen automobiles.

Copeland Defends Radio Water's Use

Seeks to Allay Fears of "Thousands Needlessly Distressed."

(Associated Press.)

In a health talk to the Senate yesterday, Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, a physician, defended the use of radioactive water "against unreasonable fears." He recalled the "sensational report surrounding the recent death of Eben Byers, of Pittsburgh, after drinking a large quantity of radioactive water over a period of months.

"It is amazing how many members of this body and others since Byers' death are asking me about radio waters," Copeland said. "I want to allay the fears of thousands needlessly distressed."

Copeland said he had today urged the commissioner of public health of New York, Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, to make a study of the water. He said the French experts believed "that radioactive waters should be used in certain doses and not indiscriminately."

House Speeds Bill On Muscle Shoals

Hill Measure Expected to Be Considered Late Next Week.

(Associated Press.)

The House rules committee yesterday granted authority to speed consideration of the Hill bill which provides for Government operation of Muscle Shoals properties in Alabama, if a lessee can not be found within 18 months.

The bill likely will not be brought up until late next week, after disposition of the economy measure.

Republican members of the military committee oppose the bill on the ground that it commits the Government to the "socialistic principle of Federal operation of business."

Chairman McSwain of the military committee, however, insisted before the rules committee that although the Republicans did oppose the principle of the bill, they should not object to its consideration on the floor.

FISHER AND O'NEILL OPPOSE BONUS BILL

Former Hits New Money Plan While Latter Urges Aid for ~~Needy~~ Soldiers.

(Associated Press.)

A famous economist and a distinguished veteran of the World War fought together yesterday against cash payment of the $2,400,000,000 soldiers bonus—but for very different reasons.

To Prof. Irving Fisher, Yale University economist, the new-money plan seemed a blow to business confidence.

To Richard W. O'Neill, holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor, it meant eventual harm to the veterans themselves.

Both had advice to offer the House ways and means committee.

Prof. Fisher said business hopes rested in Congress and urged passage of legislation to stabilize prices, to guarantee bank deposits and to avoid wide fluctuations in money circulation.

Urged Aid for Needy.

Mr. O'Neill, who said: "I have 11 holes in my body," urged special assistance to needy veterans, lower interest charges on bonus loans and a high standard of Federal help for the disabled soldier.

On Monday, the opposition expects to close and then sponsors of the bonus payment will have an opportunity for rebuttal before the committee takes final action.

Mr. O'Neill had just resigned as New York State commander of the disabled American veterans because that group voted for cash payment.

"If the bonus is paid now," he said, "the veteran will be living in a fool's paradise for a couple of months. Then he will realize he is worse off than before, with nothing to look forward to for himself and family.

"Two-thirds of the certificate holders don't need the cash now, but something should be done to help those veterans who are in dire need. The veteran wants a living wage, not a bonus.

Criticized Reserve Board.

Prof. Fisher criticized the Federal Reserve Board for not taking immediate advantage of the open market provisions of the Glass-Steagall act, and said these operations now undertaken offered the most promising business sign.

"I am opposed to the Patman (bonus) bill and I agree substantially with all that Secretary Mills and Gov. Meyer have said," Prof. Fisher testified. "I see two chief objections to the Patman bill.

"First, that it would pay what is not due, and, secondly, that it might further impair confidence, and by impairing confidence be deflationary and not inflationary."

Prof. Fisher said the Owen plan to issue Government bonds as collateral for Federal Reserve notes to retire the bonus certificates "was a perfectly sound method if it did not frighten the people."

on in an effort to end the Sino-Japanese difficulties have been indefinitely postponed and it was feared all the work accomplished might be nullified by this single disastrous incident.

Gen. Yoshinori Shirakawa, the Japanese commander in chief of land forces in the Shanghai area, was suffering from severe contusions on the upper body and had lost all his teeth.

Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, naval commander in chief of Japanese forces, had serious head wounds and one of his eyes was put out by the flying metal.

Quo Tai-Chai, the Chinese Mayor of Shanghai, sent a representative to the Japanese consulate to express the regret of the Chinese government, and several foreign diplomatic and military officials visited the hospital where the wounded were taken.

The hand grenade was thrown just as the Japanese officials prepared to address their nationals with patriotic speeches in honor of the birthday of Emperor Hirohito. Scores of foreign officials had attended a military review, but had left before the speeches, thus escaping.

A great groan went up from the throng after the bomb fell and the assassin was seized by the crowd and almost lynched before the police got their hands on him. As he was rushed away Japanese military threw a huge circle of soldiers around Hongkew and searched everybody.

A correspondent for Reuters (English) New Agency who was standing nearby when the bomb fell related how several Japanese nurses fought their way through the crowd to the wounded officials.

The women stripped off the uniforms of the injured and applied tourniquets and bandages. They probably saved M. Shigemitsu's life, at least temporarily, by preventing excessive bleeding.

Held for Questioning.

"The Japanese troops acted with amazing speed. Within ten minutes they had placed a ring around an area a mile square and no person was able to get out without questioning.

"I started running toward a telephone to call my office and thereby excited the suspicions of the soldiers, who detained and searched me and refused to let me proceed until I had been repeatedly questioned."

The Japanese military later withdrew the heavy guard around the area, but resumed military control of this section, in which many Japanese had resided before the hostilities of recent months. The investigation showed that the bomb used by the assailant was powerful enough to destroy the grand stand and another like it was reported to have been found nearby. Six Chinese have been detained for investigation. The Japanese police said the Korean had admitted throwing the missile.

In a telegram dated April 29 the American Consul General at Shanghai, Edwin S. Cunningham, reported to the Department of State that W. S. Hibbard, an American citizen, in the employ of the Shanghai Municipal Council, was arrested by Japanese authorities following his alleged protestation against the detention of two Chinese photographers who were in Hongkew Park at the time of the bombing yesterday. A request for his release was made at 3:15 p. m., upon the senior Japanese consular officer, and later the Japanese Consul telephoned to Consul General Cunningham that Mr. Hibbard had been released. Mr. Hibbard is from Chicago.

Purser Describes Suicide of Poet

Several Saw Young Ohioan Dive Off Ship; Financial Despondency Blamed.

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—The story of the death at sea of Hart Crane, young Cleveland poet and winner of the Guggenheim Foundation prize in 1931, was told today as the liner Orizaba arrived from Mexico and Havana.

He died a suicide, ship's officers and friends said, because of financial despondency and the belief that "there is no place in the world today for poetry."

Alfred G. Mason, purser, said he saw Crane pass his office, clad in pajamas and a light topcoat, at 11:45 a. m. Wednesday. He went to the top deck.

"Passengers said," Mason related, "that Crane walked aft along the play deck to the stern. He quickly dropped his coat and made a neat dive over the rail before anyone realized what he was going to do.

"The alarm was given at once, the ship was stopped, life belts were thrown into the water and a lifeboat put out. He came up once but was seen no more, though we searched at least an hour. His body was not found."

FARM BODIES SCORE BACK-TO-LAND BILLS

Private Philanthropist Urges Federal Support for $10,000,000 Scheme.

By JAMES WALDO FAWCETT.

The House labor committee is due to have a spirited session when it meets this morning to consider again two bills introduced by Representative Black (Democrat), of Brooklyn, N. Y., to authorize a $10,000,000 fund to aid former farmers stranded in industrial centers to return to the land.

The committee yesterday heard several "back to the farm" propagandists, including a New York tabloid publisher. The friends of the idea want the Departments of Labor and Agriculture, the Federal Farm Board, the banks, the universities, the organized charities and philanthropic individuals to cooperate to accomplish the end desired, but organized bodies of farmers are opposed to the scheme.

One of the difficulties in the circumstances seems to be that the former farmers who are to be aided are not particularly enthusiastic about being helped in the manner proposed. Prof. John D. Black, of Harvard University, yesterday told the committee that only about 5 per cent of the people who go back to the land remain there.

Another difficulty is to be found in the fact that the several Federal departments are not accustomed to cooperating in the style desired by the sponsors of the enterprise. Secretary of Labor Doak sent a message to the effect that he is interested in the proposition in a general way. Hugh McRae, of Wilmington, N. C., who is said to have spent a fortune in private effort to help the city poor to agricultural independence, said that unless some department backed the scheme vigorously, it would fail.

Several experts testified to the sad outcome of similar manifestations of social adjustment in the past.

CURTIS STILL ABSENT IN LINDBERGH SEARCH

termediaries were working with the industry of a beehive under cover, although they declined to discuss their plans. Lieut. George L. Richards, of the Navy, who has piloted the intermediaries on previous trips, was likewise absent today, leading to the belief that Curtis was using a plane to make a new "contact."

Reports were current today that Yorktown, village of Revolutionary War fame, had been the scene recently of activities of the intermediaries. Commonwealth's Attorney Paul Crockett, of York County, told newspapermen he was pledged to secrecy and could not comment. He refused to affirm or deny that Col. Lindbergh had recently visited that section as indicated in reports from Hopewell, N. J.

The Navy has a mine base on the York River, near Yorktown, which would serve as a well-guarded point for the landing of planes. Late this afternoon Commonwealth's Attorney D. N. Sutton of King William County was investigating a report that a strange yacht had been hiding in the Pamunkey River, a tributary of the York, during the past few days.

Hopewell, N. J., April 29 (A.P.).—The enigmatic message broadcast to Harry Fleischer, Detroit gunman, over a Newark radio station last night was being traced by New York State police today—the fifty-ninth day of the crime—in the dogged hunt for the Lindbergh kidnapers.

Washington Man's Story.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, liaison man between the home of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and the press, said that "no report" had been received yet and that the attorney mentioned, Henry A. Uterhart, of New York, had "not communicated" with him.

Fleischer, long sought in the mystery, was asked by an unidentified person to communicate with him through the lawyer and was assured there was "no danger of a tip-off." Uterhart said he was acting with the consent of "all interested parties."

As to a story that H. H. Entz, of Washington, D. C., had told Col. Lindbergh and President John Grier Hibben, of Princeton University, he was in contact with the abductors of Charles Augustus, jr., Col. Schwarzkopf said Entz had not produced "any identification" to support his assertion and that when he did he would "receive further consideration."

FILIPINOS' STRENGTH IN SENATE IS SHOWN

Independence Bill Called Up, but No Debate on It Is Found Possible.

(Associated Press.)

Friends of Philippine independence showed their strength in the Senate yesterday, but made no progress.

A motion by Chairman Bingham of the Territories committee to take up the Hawes-Cutting fifteen-year bill, which has been substituted for the eight-year independence measure passed by the House, was approved, 39 to 29.

The bill came up, however, under a limitation of time, and this period expired without even a word of debate on independence. The legislation now is back on the calendar, just where it was before.

While the 39-to-29 vote was regarded as a test of strength, the roll call showed a mixed line-up. Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, an advocate of Philippine independence, observed on the floor that "I suspect some other measures on this calendar awaiting attention had something to do with the result." He voted against the limited consideration.

Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, said he had hoped the restricted debate yesterday might give some of those opposing the legislation an opportunity to voice their views in order to speed action when the bill comes up for regular consideration.

Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, and King (Democrat), Utah, gave notice they would propose several changes and that some time would be required for action.

Because of the jammed legislative calendar in the Senate and the approaching drive for adjournment, serious doubt is held by leaders whether a vote will come before the December session.

Lamont Criticized For Budget Work

McKellar Says Action to Resist Appropriation Cuts Illegal.

(Associated Press.)

Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, asserted in the Senate yesterday that Secretary Lamont had violated the law by asking business men to resist appropriation cuts for his department.

The Tennessee Democrat read to the Senate a letter which he said the Commerce Secretary had sent to a business man in Memphis asking him to write his representative to oppose cuts in the funds for the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

Senator Johnson (Republican) California, defended Lamont, saying he merely sent telegrams asking that members of Congress be contacted on the cuts in response to protests received from various parts of the country.

"If that constitutes treason to the United States, the Senate, or the senator from Tennessee, I can only say let them make the most of it."

Women Urge U. S. To Enter League

Voters Adopt Resolution Almost Unanimously After Long Debate.

Detroit, April 29 (A.P.).—After twelve years of study within the organization, the National League of Women Voters went on record today as favoring entrance of the United States into the League of Nations. The resolution, which came at the close of the league's five-day biennial convention, was preceded by lengthy debate, but, when put before the convention as a whole was adopted with only two or three dissenting ballots.

Turning its emphasis on the campaign year and current economic conditions, the league decided to concentrate on a Nation-wide program "which meets the challenge of the present economic emergency." Planks will be presented to both the Democratic and Republican national conventions by league committees, with particular emphasis on unemployment relief, reduction in the cost of Government and disarmament.

The convention elected the slate of officers nominated earlier by the nominating committee.

Dry Agent Is Killed As He Spurns Bribe

Rumrunners Reported to Have Slain Customs Man in Florida.

(Associated Press.)

A determined man hunt was set under way yesterday by the Bureau of Customs as it received reports that one of its agents had been slain by rumrunners after he refused a bribe of $2,000. The officer was Daniel A. Romberger, whose body was found at Dania Beach, Fla., several days ago.

The Customs Bureau was told by its agents in Florida that Romberger lay in wait for a crew of 20 smugglers and boarded their boat, demanding that the craft surrender.

The chief of the crew was reported to have offered first $1,000 and then $2,000 to Romberger if he would go his way and after he refused a member of the gang struck him down. Later the body was dumped overboard. The Customs Bureau was informed the two actual slayers escaped in an airplane to the British West Indies.

F. X. A. Eble, commissioner of customs, has authorized Sidney Brown, customs collector at Miami, Fla., to use reinforced patrols in the search for the killers.

Jewelers to Open Session Tomorrow

500 Expected to Attend 3-Day Parley; G. W. U. Man to Speak.

Advance registration for Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia Jewelers Association which is holding its eighteenth annual convention here tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday, at the Mayflower Hotel, points to the largest meeting in the history of the organization, according to Arthur J. Sundlun, president of the tri-State group. Approximately 500 jewelers are expected to meet here jointly with the Virginia Retail Jewelers Association.

A feature of the program tomorrow will be an address by Dr. Thomas H. Healy, asslstant dean George Washington University School of Foreign Service, at 8 p. m. Registration will begin at 2 p. m. and an informal reception of members and buffet supper will take place at 7 p. m.

Important speakers in the business world will speak to the jewelers during their convention.

Theft of Watch Costs Ten Years

"Never-Had-Chance" Plea Unavailing in View of Former Offenses.

A fervent plea to Justice F. D. Letts that "he had never had a chance" availed James Cerreta nothing yesterday, for he was promptly given ten years in prison. He had been tried and found guilty of grand larceny.

Ceretta stole a valuable strap watch from Harris & Shafer, Connecticut avenue jewelers, took it to Alexandria and pawned it. He was arrested shortly afterward.

A lengthy record of former convictions cost Ceretta whatever chance he had of making probation. He has been convicted in New York and here on numerous charges.

UNIFIED TAX SYSTEM IS URGED BY MILLS

Suggests Commission Study of Systems; Calls Levies "Staggering Sum."

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—A commission study "to secure the coordination in our State and Federal systems of taxation which we so sorely need" was advocated tonight by Secretary Mills, in an address to the New York City Bar Association.

Proposing that President Hoover and the governors' conference join in naming the commission, he expressed confidence the necessary funds for research could be raised and called this an auspicious moment to start in view of the popular interest.

After a review of the evils of uncoordinated Federal and State taxes, he declared the aggregate tax burden "is so great as to constitute an economic factor of such prime importance as to affect directly or indirectly almost every sphere of public and private activity."

"Staggering Sum."

Statistics for 1930 showed that taxes collected by the Federal, State and local governments reached the "staggering sum" of $10,266,000,000, amounting to one-seventh of the estimated national income of $71,000,000,000. The increase from 1923 to 1930 was 42 per cent.

Property tax in 1929 amounted to 75 per cent of the total of State and local taxes and over 50 per cent of the total taxes collected by all jurisdictions.

President Hoover stressed the importance of adjustments in this and other taxation in his recent speech to the governors' conference at Richmond.

Unrelated Systems.

"Not only are our taxes too high," Secretary Mills said, "but if we view our Federal, State and local taxes as a whole, we do not find anything that faintly resembles a logical and coordinated plan, but rather a number of unrelated systems, frequently overlapping and existing in a state of confusion that gives rise to all manner of maladjustments, duplications and irregularities.

"The time has ceased when the Federal and State governments may safely chart separate and unrelated course over the troubled financial waters which they must now all traverse. The time for drifting has passed."

Two Governors Plan Capital To California Flight in Day

(Associated Press.)

The first gubernatorial dawn-to-dusk transcontinental flight attempt is set for a take-off today at daybreak—weather permitting.

Governors James Rolph of California and Fred B. Balzar of Nevada plan to eat breakfast here at 4:30 a. m. Eastern standard time, and "sit down to supper together in the Hotel Biltmore, in Los Angeles, at 7:30 Pacific standard time tonight."

"We intend to show people just how far it is across this country," said Gov. Rolph, in announcing the flight to newspapermen. The California Governor had just completed extending an invitation to President Hoover, in the form of a gold-plated chest, to attend the fifty-eighth imperial council session of the Shrine of North America in San Francisco from July 26 to 28.

He said the Chief Executive had promised to come if he made the journey to the West Coast to open the Olympic games, for which an invitation already has been accepted. Unless conditions throughout the country are improved, however, Gov. Rolph said, he doubted if the President could attend.

Gov. Rolph and Gov. Balzar will make their transcontinental trip in the low winged racing monoplane of Earl B. Gilmore, Los Angeles oil man. It will be piloted by Col. Roscoe Turner.

Col. Turner said that although he believed it would be possible to reach the West Coast by the appointed time, he would not take any chances. Should it be necessary, he said, the flight would be postponed a day.

"If we run into bad weather after starting," Turner said, "we'll just sit down and wait."

The pilot said he expected to stop about six times for refueling and that while this would slow up the flight he hoped this loss could be made up.

High Winds Delay Mooring of Akron

Two Long Test Cruises Are Completed Without Accident.

Lakehurst, N. J., April 29 (A.P.).—The Navy dirigible Akron was moved into its hangar at 10:55 p. m. (Eastern standard time) tonight after an all-day cruise over New Jersey points.

The big ship reached its mooring mast shortly before 8 p. m., but high winds prevented its being stored in the hangar at that time. The winds were similar to those which caused an accident on Washington's birthday when members of a congressional committee were scheduled to cruise to Washington to test the Akron's airworthiness.

All last night the ship cruised, came back to the mooring mast for a few minutes early this morning, and then took off again for the all-day flight. They were the first flights since the accident, but several more are planned before the Akron joins the fleet in maneuvers in the Pacific.

Fight Begins Today For Baby's Custody

Chicago Official to Defend Adoption of Foundling Claimed by Woman.

Chicago, April 29 (A.P.).—Process servers late today caught up with Samuel E. Epstein, assistant city prosecutor and bachelor foster-father of a 13-month-old girl claimed by Mrs. Agnes McConnell, of Detroit. Judge Thomas Lynch tomorrow will hear her habeas corpus petition for the baby's custody.

Epstein surrendered to the process servers late in the afternoon after they had beseiged him in his office and announced they would not leave until he was served.

Epstein declined to comment on the case, but promised to be in court with the Ntile red-haired infant whom he adopted after it had been found on the doorstep of a South Side apartment building with his card tucked into its clothing. At that time, Epstein said the baby's mother was a woman he had aided in court.

Mrs. McConnell, now employed here, denied she had abandoned the child and her lawyer said that a nursemaid to whom it was intrusted while she was looking for work in Detroit had abandoned it. She seeks to have the adoption set aside.

Banker's Daughter Won By T. Suffern Tailer, Jr.

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—The engagement of Miss Florence T. Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Baker, to T. Suffern Tailer, jr., a sophomore at Princeton University, was announced today. The marriage will be in June.

Miss Baker is a member of one of New York's wealthiest families. Her father is chairman of the board of the First National Bank, succeeding his late father, George F. Baker, sr., who was reputed to be one of the half dozen wealthiest men in the world. Tailer is a grandson of Alexander Brown, of Baltimore, and Edward N. Tailer, of New York.

Town in California Is Rocked by Quake

Brawley, Calif., April 29 (A.P.).—An earthquake of sharp and heavy intensity shook the city at 8:50 a. m. today. The city was thrown into nervous excitement, recalling that two years ago a series of quakes shook the city, tumbling buildings and causing extensive damage.

ROOSEVELT WITNESS AT CRIMINAL TRIAL

Testifies for State Banking Head Accused in Bank of U. S. Case.

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt spent a half hour on the witness stand at a turbulent criminal trial today in an effort to aid a friend and appointee.

It was one of the few times in the history of the State a governor has stepped into a criminal court in such a role.

Roosevelt traveled hundreds of miles, up from Virginia, to appear as a witness for Joseph A. Broderick, State superintendent of banking, who is charged with neglect of duty in not closing the Bank of United States, with 400,000 depositors, sooner than he did.

The governor was asked 56 questions about Broderick's ability, honesty and character; about what efforts were made to save the bank; about merger attempts and conferences of big bankers.

Legal Tilts on Testimony.

Most of the replies precipitated arguments between opposing counsel. He was cut short in the middle of many of his answers.

Once he was forced to sit silent for nearly 10 minutes while the lawyers battled over the legal propriety of allowing him to continue his line of testimony.

Max D. Steuer, famous criminal lawyer and special prosecutor in the bank case, was jumping up and down from his seat most of the half hour with objections to the governor's replies.

When Roosevelt attempted to ask the court a question, Steuer waved his arms and shouted:

"No, No, No. It is absolutely improper to deliver a lecture in the form of a question to try to fritter away the people's case."

The court sustained his objection.

Banks Refused Assistance.

What the governor had said before he was cut short was:

"The governor of the State has a positive obligation to assist and help the bank superintendent, if the bank superintendent asks for assistance. Now as part of that duty the bank superintendent was asked by me—" That was as far as he got.

After more verbal tilts between Steuer and Martin Conboy, Broderick's counsel, Roosevelt made the first official disclosure that a meeting of powerful banking interests was held at his town house the night before the bank was closed.

He said a member of J. P. Morgan & Co., and officers of several big banks were present. The governor and Broderick tried unsuccessfully to induce them to take over the Bank of United States, which at that time had deposits of $160,000,000.

Roosevelt's Lead Cut In Pennsylvania Voting

Philadelphia, April 27 (A.P.).—The big anthracite counties of Lackawanna and Luzerne today reported virtually complete but unofficial figures in the Democratic preferential presidential primary of last Tuesday and reduced the lead of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt over Alfred E. Smith.

Unofficial returns from 6,947 of the 8,181 districts in the State gave Roosevelt a lead of 13,263. The totals are: Roosevelt, 106,023; Smith, 92,760. The incomplete returns indicate that Roosevelt carried about 50 of the 67 counties, with several in the doubtful counties. The Democratic vote was generally light.

Roosevelt, Tired, Leaves For Rest in Georgia

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—With a tired smile on his face, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt boarded a train tonight for Warm Springs, Ga., where he will rest for several weeks. He said he had planned no political conferences while away, but added, "There probably will be a parade of people coming down there to see me."

He held up his hand to bar political questions and shook his head when asked for his reactions to the Pennsylvania and Massachusetts primaries last Tuesday.

Dr. Millikan Guest At Rapidan Today

Medicine Ball Cabinet Will Also Go With Hoover to Camp.

(Associated Press.)

Dr. R. A. Millikan, of Pasadena, Calif., a Nobel prize winner and chairman of the executive counsel of the California Institute of Technology, was invited by President Hoover yesterday to accompany his medicine ball cabinet on the week-end trip to his Rapidan fishing camp.

Dr. Millikan is an old friend of the President. Others who will accompany the Chief Executive and Mrs. Hoover on the trip to the Rapidan retreat today all are intimates of the White House who gather daily with the President for an early morning medicine ball game.

The formal guest list includes Associate Justice Stone, of the Supreme Court, and Mrs. Stone, the Attorney General and Mrs. Mitchell, the Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Wilbur, the Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Jahncke, the Undersecretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Ballantine, Assistant Secretary Heath of the treasury, and Mark Sullivan, writer, and Mrs. Sullivan.

Motorist Dry Wounded Given $1,000 Damages

Atlanta, April 29 (A.P.).—A motorist wounded by a deputy sheriff who sought to search the automobile for liquor without a warrant was awarded $1,000 damages today by the Georgia Court of Appeals.

Methodist Units Combine Pushed

Bishop McDowell Will Be Sponsor of Plan at Convention.

Atlantic City, N. J., April 29 (U.P.). A plan for bringing together three divisions of the Methodist Church—the Methodist Episcopal Church South, the Methodist Episcopal Church North, and the Methodist Protestant Church—will be submitted to the Board of Bishops in session tomorrow afternoon.

The plan has the support of the commission on interdenominational relations, which has been considering the schism for several months.

After consideration by the bishops, the new plan will be given to the thirty-first quadrennial conference which opens in Atlantic City Monday. Bishop William F. McDowell, of Washington, D. C., will sponsor the plan, which was approved six weeks ago by representatives of the three church bodies. Members of the commission expressed optimism tonight over prospects for a merger.

CONNECTICUT VOTES CLAIMED FOR SMITH

Six Delegates Are Already in His Column and More Are Expected.

New Haven, Conn., April 29 (A.P.). At least six of Connecticut's ten district delegates to the national Democratic convention were assured today for Alfred E. Smith, whose forces also were confident of instructing the six delegates at large in his behalf.

The delegation will be chosen at the State convention May 16 and 17. On the basis of unofficial returns from last night's town primaries and caucuses, Smith lacks only 75 votes of controlling the meeting.

He will have an opportunity to pick up further support, however, from among the 57 delegates yet to be chosen and from the 442 delegates selected without instructions.

Franklin D. Roosevelt received the pledges of only 59 delegates to Smith's 410, and would need to win the support of virtually all the uninstructed groups to obtain the State's delegates at large. His Connecticut leaders, still confident in the face of Smith's overwhelming lead, met at Hartford this afternoon to consider their next move.

Cummings Fails to Get Seat.

A majority of the delegates in the First, Third and Fifth Congressional Districts were pledged to Smith, making him certain of six national convention votes from this State. Most of the groups in the other districts were not bound either to him or Roosevelt, so that their attitude will be in doubt until they meet during the State convention.

Smith swept all but two of the larger cities. Bridgeport deferred action until May 13, and Waterbury has not yet held its caucus. Smith's supporters, however, claimed the 36 delegates from the latter city.

Even Stamford, the home of Homer S. Cummings, an advisor in Roosevelt's national campaign, instructed its 21 delegates for Smith, and Cummings himself was defeated for a seat in the State convention.

National Committee Fight.

An issue in the caucuses was the battle between Archibald McNeil, of Bridgeport, Conn., incumbent, and David M. Fitzgerald, former New Haven Mayor, for the post of national committeeman. McNeil, a Roosevelt leader, appeared to have a slight advantage over Fitzgerald in the number of pledged delegates, many towns that instructed their groups for Smith also pledging them to McNeil.

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—A claim that Alfred E. Smith's supporters will control the Connecticut Democratic State convention next month by an overwhelming majority was issued at the office of the 1928 standard-bearer today. At the same time Smith was assured by his Pennsylvania leaders that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt had gathered in only 32 convention votes out of the 76 that State has.

These claims were ridiculed at Roosevelt headquarters, where a sweeping victory for the New York Governor was being claimed, with at least 60 to 66 convention votes in his column from Pennsylvania.

Embargo Established by Canada.

Ottawa, Ontario, April 29 (A.P.).—An embargo on the importation of live stock, vegetables and related products from California, Oregon, Nevada and Arizona was announced today by the department of agriculture. The action was caused, it said, by reports of an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in California.

VIRGINIA PROGRAMS TO HONOR LEE TODAY

Four Patriotic Bodies Will Give Portraits to U. S. at Arlington House.

Richmond, Va., April 29 (A.P.).—At the two points in Virginia with which it most closely associated, the name of Lee tomorrow will be honored.

At Arlington House, historic Custis and Lee homestead, in what is now Arlington National Cemetery, overlooking the Potomac across the river from Washington, ceremonies will be held in connection with the presentation of four historical portraits to the Government by four patriotic societies.

At Stratford Hall, ancestral Lee home and birthplace of Robert E. Lee, the Robert E. Lee Memorial Foundation will hold its third annual spring celebration commemorating Lighthorse Harry Lee and Ann Carter Lee.

Hurley Will Speak.

The societies presenting the portraits at the Arlington ceremonies are the Society of the Cincinnati, the General Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, the General Society of Colonial Wars, and the General Court of the Order of the Founders and Patriots of America.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley will deliver the speech of acceptance, which will be broadcast through Station WJSV, Mount Vernon Hills, Va.

George Lytleton Upshur, of New York, the last member of the Custis and Lee families to remember Arlington as it was in the days before the Civil War, will be present at the program.

Messages From 28 States.

Mr. Upshur is the son of Rear Admiral John H. Upshur, U. S. Navy, and the grandson of Capt. William George Williams, chief of the Topographical Engineer Corps, Taylor's Army, in the Mexican War. As a boy of eight, he was taken by his mother to say good-by to the Lees and was present the day Robert E. Lee resigned his commission in the United States Army.

Maj. John V. Bouvier, jr., president of the General Society of the Sons of the Revolution, will make the address of presentation of the portrait of Light Horse Harry Lee given to Arlington by that organibation, and the same address will be given by him by proxy simultaneously at Stratford at the exercises there.

Other features of the Stratford program will be messages from the 28 States and the District of Columbia under the foundation, the ceremony of presentation of the little Washington elm by the Maryland Division, U. D. C., to Stratford, and an address on "The Need of Aristocracy in America Today," by Charles Messer Stow, editor of the antiques department of the New York Sun.

Woodring Denies National Candidacy

Kansas Governor Not Seeking Vice Presidency, He Declares.

(Associated Press.)

Gov. Harry N. Woodring, of Kansas, reiterated here yesterday that he was not seeking the Democratic vice presidential nomination.

"All I am interested in is being reelected Governor of Kansas," he said after a visit to the Capitol, where he talked with Senator McGill, of his State. He said he would file for the nomination on May 13.

A supporter of Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidential nomination, Gov. Woodring expressed the belief the results in the Massachusetts and Pennsylvania primaries would "react favorably to Roosevelt. The contest will develop whether we are going to have Roosevelt or Raskob," he said. "The Democrats will decide in favor of Roosevelt."

Woman Gets 36-Year Sentence for Murder

One of the most lengthy prison sentences ever given here was meted out yesterday when Justice James M. Proctor, in the District Supreme Court, sentenced Eva Mae Jones, colored, to serve 36 years for the murder of Delia Mosby, also colored, on December 18 last.

The woman had been indicted for murder in the first degree, but she had been allowed by Assistant United States Attorney Irvin Goldstein to plead guilty to second degree murder. The Jones woman shot and killed her victim during a fight at 2300 Thirteenth street northwest. She seemed unaffected by the sentence, though the minimum time she will have to serve before being eligible for parole is twelve years.

The guard said it had captured much ammunition nad some arms, and had suffered but a single casualty, a wounded man.

The three marine officers who led the attack were Lieut. John Hamas, of Philadelphia; Lieut. Roy Vogel, of Stockton, Calif., and Lieut. John Burns, of Burgaw, N. C.

LEVY ON RACE BETS IS PUT IN TAX BILL

bonated mineral water was left at the House rate of 2 cents a gallon, but the tax on carbonated waters was raised from 2 to 5 cents. Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), of New York, explained the committee had reduced the tax on near beer and added to the tax on the highball.

The tax on unfermented fruit juices was raised from 2 cents a gallon to 11 cents. The tax on grape concentrates was raised from 40 per cent ad valorem to 44 cents a gallon. The tax on wort was raised from 5 to 10 cents a gallon and on malt syrup from 35 cents a gallon to 4 cents a pound, which was estimated to be about 46 cents a gallon.

The committee struck out the House tax on pleasure boats and substituted a system of yearly license fees. These were graduated, based on the length of the boat. Boats from 28 to 50 feet were assessed $10; from 50 to 100 feet, $40; 100 to 150 feet, $100; 150 to 200 feet, $150, and over 200 feet, $200 annually.

Foreign-built boats, constructed after January 1, 1926, used here, would pay double fees.

Articles for religious use and all silverware were exempted from the jewelry tax.

ness with which the committee decided to follow up the many leads which have been presented. Gray said the open hearings may not be resumed for three weeks.

No intimation was given of the particular phase of the investigation to be undertaken first. Detailed plans were veiled in secrecy, and Chairman Norbeck said there would be little given out for publication before the hearings are resumed.

The committee has information on more than a score of pool operations, in many of which prominent persons participated. It will search particularly for attempts by these pools to manipulate the market.

Activities of specialists on special stocks in connection with these pools will be inquired into thoroughly.

Resume of Lynching Case Since Attack in Honolulu

Many Dramatic Scenes Have Played Part in Incidents Leading Up to Final Pleas and Retiring of Jury.

Honolulu, April 29 (A.P.).—When Mrs. Thalia Massie, blonde young wife of a Navy officer, became bored at a party one night last September and went alone for a walk toward Waikiki Beach, she involuntarily provided the start of a series of seething events which convulsed Hawaii and reverberated in Washington.

Mrs. Massie was seized, beaten and criminally attacked allegedly by five men, among them Joseph Kahahawai, young native athlete. She said Kahahawai broke her jaw and assaulted her when she prayed for mercy. The five men were brought to trial, but the jury disagreed.

Resentment sprang up in the Navy group constituting a generous portion of Honolulu's population against what was termed the hoodlum class. Naval circles charged the police with inefficiency and with being unduly friendly toward the native and Oriental elements for political reasons.

At the same time there were rumors, later brought into the court records, about the attack victim and her husband, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N. One was that Mrs. Massie had not been attacked, but merely had been seeking notoriety; another linked her name with that of a Navy officer acquaintance of her husband, and still another said it was Massie who broke her jaw and that he was getting a divorce.

Rear Admiral George T. Pettengill, commander of minecraft in this area, informed Admiral Richard H. Leigh, commander of the battle force of the United States fleet, that Honolulu was unsafe for the wives of naval officers.

Some wives reputedly armed themselves for protection. The Navy shore patrol was enlarged to preserve order.

Disorders began. Horace Ida, one of the five identified by Mrs. Massie, was seized and beaten in an attempt to get him to confess. Clashes between individuals and between groups in the streets brought extraordinary police measures.

Then Mrs. James M. O'Dowda, school teacher, was bound, beaten, gagged and criminally assaulted in her home. Lui Kaikapu, native burglar, who had escaped from Oahu Prison, was suspected. Captured, he confessed the attack and was returned to prison for life.

A week later, on January 8, while making his daily report to the court pending retrial of the Massie attack case, Kahahawai was lured into an automobile by a fake summons. An hour or two thereafter, at the end of a wild chase toward Koko Head, just outside of town, police stopped an automobile driven by Mrs. Granville Fortescue, mother of the attack victim, and containing Massie and E. J. Lord, Navy enlisted man, and the sheeted body of Kahahawai.

The three were arrested on the spot and the fourth suspect—Albert O. Jones—was arrested later at the Massie home.

Public feeling surged high. The four accused of the killing were given into the custody of naval officers at Pearl Harbor as a measure for their safety. Army and Navy enlisted men were barred from the city temporarily.

Flowers and messages of encouragement were showered upon Mrs. Fortescue. In an undertaking establishment banked with blossoms lay the body of the young native. Large crowds, mostly natives and orientals, visited the bier. Many natives were indignant. Kahahawai's weeping father said the young man had taken a native oath that he was innocent of the attack. This was accepted by many Hawaiians as conclusive proof of his innocence.

A grand jury at first refused to indict the four accused of the killing, but under the urging of Circuit Judge A. M. Cristy, which the defense later termed judicial coercion, returned an indictment charging second degree murder, the penalty for which is twenty years to life imprisonment.

In Washington a report of naval officers that about 40 women had been attacked in Hawaii within a year was made public, but was promptly denied by civilian authorities here.

The United States Senate ordered a Department of Justice investigation of law enforcement here. In special session the Territorial Legislature changed some of the criminal laws and authorized reorganization of Honolulu's police and prosecuting systems.

In his seventy-fifth year Clarence Darrow, noted criminal lawyer, came out of retirement to defend the four accused of the killing. Judge Cristy was disqualified from the trial by a defense affidavit of prejudice. John C. Kelley, new prosecuting attorney, presented the Territory's case before Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis.

As the trial started, the report of Seth W. Richardson, Assistant Attorney General who made the Justice Department investigation, was made public. He reported finding no organized crime here and said sex offenses seemed fewer proportionately than in mainland localities of similar population. He recommended, however, that the Federal Government "assume closer responsibility" for law and order in the islands.

With an array of gruesome exhibits—blood-stained sheets, rope, clothing and other articles taken from the death car and from the home of Mrs. Fortescue—Kelley swiftly built up a vivid circumstantial story of how Kahahawai was kidnaped by the four accused and taken to the Fortescue home, where he was shot to death.

Darrow called Lieut. Massie to the stand. The young officer told how he had arrived home to find his wife brutally beaten and sobbing out the story of the attack; how the case preyed on his mind and how rumors circulated after the attack case jury disagreed.

Massie said he and the three other defendants plotted and carried out the abduction. He said he confronted Kahahawai with a pistol, demanded a confession and that his mind suddenly went blank when Kahahawai said "yes, we done it."

Dr. J. Thomas Orbison and Dr. Edward Huntington Williams, Los Angeles alienists, testified Massie suffered from "shock amnesia," the moment of the tragedy

The defense case ended in a spectacular scene with Mrs. Massie on the witness stand. Between showers of tears she told of the attack and her subsequent ordeal, and how it affected her husband.

On cross-examination Kelley handed her a paper, supposedly written by herself in a psychopathic examination and purporting to contain an admission of differences with Massie a few months before the attack.

"This is a confidential paper between a physician and patient. Where did you get it?" she demanded.

Kelley insisted she say whether she wrote it.

"I refuse to answer," she stormed, and tore the paper to bits while spectators applauded.

"Thank you, Mrs. Massie," said Kelley angrily, "at last you have shown yourself in your true colors."

In rebuttal, the prosecution produced three alienists, Dr. Paul Bowers, Dr. Robert Faus and Dr. Joseph Catton, who, although barred from observing Massie because of Darrow's objection, testified that in their belief he was sane. In a caustic exchange with Darrow, Dr. Catton pictured Massie, a native of Kentucky, as a sane, normal Southerner stirred to anger and vengeance in firing the fatal shot.

In a plea of more than three hours Darrow emphasized the insanity and unwritten law aspects of the defense and asked the jurors to apply the golden rule in judging the accused.

"If these people are sent to prison it will place a blot on these fair islands that not all the waters of the Pacific can wash away," said the aged defender.

"And when people come to your beautiful isle," he went on, "the first place they shall want to see is the penitentiary. And men will marvel and wonder at the cruelty of man and the injustice that has been done here."

Kelley excoriated Massie in his closing argument and again hinted that the naval officer had not told the truth on the stand.

"He couldn't hide behind the skirts of his mother-in-law," shouted the prosecutor, "nor behind the two sailors who helped him."

Referring to Mrs. Massie's testifying, Kelley said:

"They sacrificed that girl for his ego and made a Roman holiday for the crowd that disgraced this court with applause."

"If you let these people go," Kelley argued, "they will make Massie an admiral, because he and Admiral Pratt think alike. They both believe in lynch law."

Calling each juror by name, Kelley closed with:

"Without being swayed by mercy or by admirals—for in the language of Smedley Butler I say, 'To hell with the admirals!'—there is no reason why you can not bring in a unanimous verdict of guilty. We do not ask for vengeance—only justice."

Four Entombed Miners Saved; 2 More Trapped

Shenandoah, Pa., April 29 (A.P.).—Four imprisoned miners were rescued today after fifteen hours behind a fall of coal in the Hammond collieries near Girardville. Meantime two others were trapped and probably fatally injured while working in an abandoned mine near Centralia.

The four were rescued after a crew of 20 men had werked cautiously all night lest their boring losen more coal. They kept up communication with the prisoners through a compressed air pipe. When they finally broke through they found the quartet in good spirits. They had good air all night through vent holes further along the shaft.

ports, which was the decisive turning point of the World War?"

Erik Colban, of Norway, the chairman, pleaded with the delegates to avoid too much international animosity in the debate.

The commission adjourned until Tuesday, apparently hopelessly divided between countries wishing abolition of battleships and those demanding suppression of submarines.

Meanwhile, widespread agitation for adjournment of the whole conference until a new French government takes office after the elections, probably in June, was discussed at a meeting of the five big powers at Bessingne, the chateau of State Secretary Henry L. Stimson. Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald presided. France, Germany and Italy also were represented.

The conference decided that the five-power conferences, "which have been proceding with promise of good results," should be resumed as early as possible, probably within two weeks.

Mr. MacDonald was expected to leave for Cannes tomorrow en route home.

Hoover Receives Highway Builders

They Appeal for Support of Emergency Road Construction Plan.

A plea for support of the $136,000,000 emergency highway legislation now before Congress was made by representatives of the American Road Builders Association, who called upon President Hoover yesterday.

Thomas H. Cutter, of Jefferson City, Mo., president of the association, said he reported to Mr. Hoover, "that for the first time in two years the tone of optimism prevailing at the meeting of highways officials in the Willard Hotel compares favorably with the optimism of prosperous times."

"As a result of a careful survey of highway operations," Cutter said he told the President, "we are convinced that the emergency highway appropriation at this time is not only desirable but necessary to the very life of this most important industry."

William and Mary Strike Ended by Compromise

Williamsburg, Va., April 29 (A.P.). The students' strike at the College of William and Mary came to a peaceful end tonight, when the administration granted another trial, with professional counsel, for the four students, whose suspension for hazing caused the male students to walk out yesterday.

Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, president, was firm in his refusal to allow the students to be represented by student counsel, but readily agreed to permit the retention of lawyers for their defense. The strike was ended without a dissenting vote at a meeting of the male student body tonight, after President Chandler had spoken to them.

HERRIOT OUTLASTS FOES IN CAMPAIGN

Tardieu and Blum Forced to Quit Platform as Their Voices Fail.

Paris, April 29 (A.P.).—Premier Andre Tardieu and Leon Blum, two of the "big three" in the election campaign which is winding up with a fury of speeches, have so nearly lost their voices that they have been forced to quit the platform.

Edouard Herriot, veteran mayor of Lyons, and former premier, continues his furious attacks on both the other two with undiminished vigor.

In his latest speech, replying to a query from Tardieu as to which way the radical Socialists (Liberals) were going, Herriot replied flatly that they were going toward "a truly republican government—free and alone." But he amended himself by saying whatever decisions were made would be made "when the time comes."

The aged campaigner reiterated that he would advise his party neither to lean to the right nor the left in the meantime. Tardieu represents the right and right center, and Leon Blum the straight Socialist left.

The fight has definitely become three cornered. The loosely knit Tardieu elements are centering their campaign on a "justification" of the policies of the last four years; Herriot continues to pound the government on economic issues; while the Socialists charge militarism to the other two.

More than 3,400 candidates aspire to the 615 seats in the Chamber of Deputies in Sunday's May Day voting. This will be followed a week later with a second ballot where districts failed to give a clear majority to any one candidate in the first ballot. A plurality will elect on the second ballot.

The press is widely discussing the possibility of a "concentration government" with radical (Liberal) support. A tightening of the French policy toward Germany would thus become a likelihood as a result of Hitler's successes in Prussia and elsewhere last week.

LENIENCY ASKED AS 4 IN HAWAII ARE GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

looked like a garrison as the defendants filed in to hear their fate.

Mrs. Fortescue was the first to arrive. She looked haggard. She was accompanied by her sister and brother, Mrs. Helen Ripley and Robert Bell. Then came Massie, Lord and Jones.

For the first time Lord appeared nervous. A policeman stopped him at the door and made him throw away a cigarette.

The jury, composed of five Americans, three Chinese, a Dane, a German, a Portuguese and an Hawaiian, filed in.

The tension was even greater than it had been in the many dramatic climaxes of the long trial.

Solemnly Judge Davis asked:

"Gentlemen of the jury, have you reached a verdict?"

"Yes, your honor," said John Stone, American and foreman, rising. He handed four sheets of paper, containing a verdict for each defendant, to the clerk, Monor Wond, who in turn passed them to the judge.

Courtroom Is Tense.

Massie leaned forward, breathing heavily. Judge Davis handed Wond the papers and asked him to read them. Nervously he read:

"We, the jury, find the defendant, Thomas H. Massie, guilty of manslaughter. Leniency recommended."

There was a loud sob from Mrs. Massie, interrupting the clerk, and she wept bitterly. Her convicted husband tried to comfort her by placing his hand on her shoulder while he was standing. She was seated.

The next verdict, the same as for Massie, applied to Mrs. Fortescue. She did not flinch, but turned and spoke to Jones, who stood beside her. In rapid order the clerk then read the verdicts applying to the two enlisted men. Neither Lord nor Jones showed emotion.

As Wond finished, Montgomery Winn, of the defense, arose and gave notice of appeal. Judge Davis announced the defendants would be placed in custody of Capt. Ward Wortman, a naval officer, and that sentence would be pronounced a week from today.

The climax of the long drama-charged case was over quickly, requiring only about ten minutes.

As the defendants walked out Mrs. Massie still was sobbing. Massie's lips were white and set. Mrs. Fortescue's countenance was blanched, but her eyes were dry and there was an air of defiance in her manner. Lord and Jones smiled at friends who spoke to them.

Darrow Does Not Participate.

Clarence Darrow, aged defense attorney, who came out of retirement to plead the cause of the four accused, did not arise, and took no part in any of the final proceedings. When it was over, he took out his glasses, put them on and opened a law book.

Mr. Darrow's associate, Charles S. Leisure, said that on the appeal the case would go to the Territorial Supreme Court and then to the Ninth District United States Circuit Court of Appeals in California, if necessary.

Thus did the aged defender's double plea of insanity on the part of Massie and his reference to the unwritten law phases of the case come to naught.

And likewise came victory for John C. Kelley, young Irish lawyer, who was named public prosecutor for Honolulu in the political shake-up which followed the lynching.

Spectacular Prologue.

The final scene of the trial had a spectacular prologue in a meeting of Kelley, Lieut. and Mrs. Massie and Lord, in which the Naval officer's wife unleashed a storm of angry words at the prosecutor.

It came just after the jury had first been called into court. Upon leaving the courthouse Lord, always good natured, approached Kelley and pumped his hand.

"No hard feelings," said the sailor.

Massie then stepped up and shook hands with Kelley. He had been the object of a blistering attack by the prosecutor in the closing argument to the jury.

"If I ever had anything against you, Mr. Kelley——" Massie began.

"I haven't anything against you personally," said Kelley, "nor against your wife."

Mrs. Massie, boiling with anger, turned upon the prosecutor.

"No, you haven't anything against me!" she hissed.

"Now, Thalia," said her husband, leading her away to an automobile, where she burst into tears.

Second Clash.

It was the second clash between Kelley and Mrs. Massie. On the witness stand for the defense she angrily tore up a paper in her own handwriting which allegedly contained an admission of differences with her husband a few months before the attack. Kelley replied hotly as applause swept the spectators.

The positions of Kelley and Mrs. Massie are unusual in that they were on opposite sides of the present case, but will be allies if the prosecutor conducts the territory's case in the retrial of the four remaining men accused of attacking her.

A curious crowd gathered outside the judiciary building as the convicted defendants left it to go to Pearl Harbor in custody of Capt. Wortman. There was no demonstration.

Chief of Police A. L. Weeber cleared the courthouse of all spectators before the jury reported, and likewise kept clear the grounds around the building. Orders were given that there was to be no disturbance.

A few white-clad sailors were standing on the lawn in front of the building when the defendants and spectators came out. The others present were mostly Hawaiians.

Expects No Disturbance.

Commander R. W. Bates, head of the Navy Shore Patrol, said he expected no disturbance in the city and would not order additional sailors for patrol duty.

"I don't think it is necessary," he said. "The personnel can take care of itself."

William B. Pittman, attorney who represented Kahahawai in the attack trial last December which ended in a jury disagreement, and who now represents one of the remaining four accused men, said he had asked police to guard the home of his client, Horace Ida.

Shortly after the attack case jury disagreement, Ida was seized and beaten by about 20 men in a vain effort to get him to confess. Ida and the others remaining to be retried went to jail for their own protection until recently, and at the same time under bond, but in recent weeks had been staying at their homes.

Ben Ahakeulo, another of those accused by Mrs. Massie, recently has been working on a road project. His attorney, William H. Heen, said he did not intend to ask any protection for him.

Cannon's Counsel Criticize Appeal

Ask Dismissal of Action on Grounds That U. S. Chose Wrong Court.

Holding that the Government erred in taking an appeal from the ruling of Justice James M. Proctor in dismissing the indictment against Bishop James Cannon, jr., and Miss Ada L. Burroughs, to the District Court of Appeals, instead of to the United States Supreme Court, attorneys for the militant churchman yesterday asked the Appellate Court to dismiss the appeal.

Attorneys Robert H. McNeill and Levi H. David contended that under the criminal appeals law the appeal by the Government should not have gone to the Court of Appeals, since the only question upon which Justice Proctor based his decision concerned the construction of the corrupt practises act, upon which the indictment was based.

The attorneys charged that the contributions received by the Anti-Smith Virginia Committee in the last presidential campaign were not covered by the corrupt practises act for the reason that the contributions covered by the indictment were "indirectly" made.

Secret Return for Alleged Kidnaper.

Kansas City, April 29 (A.P.).—James R. Page, county prosecutor, said today Martin Depew, charged with the kidnaping of Mrs. Nell Donnelly, would be returned secretly to Kansas City from Johannesburg, South Africa, where he is held as a deserter from the steamship City of New York.

SOVIET PLAN CALLED SUPERCAPITALISM

Dr. Walsh Says It Lacks Virtues of Its Regenerated Competitor.

Russian communism was branded supercapitalism; embodied and enthroned in an impersonal, soulless state which is rapidly accumulating the worst vices without the virtues of its regenerated competitor, by the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, of Georgetown University, in an address last night.

The lecture was ninth of a series comparing the civilizations following the American Revolution and the Russian revolution. Dr. Walsh is vice regent of the university and regent of the School of Foreign Service.

"Capitalism," he said, "it must be conceded, has failed to provide adequately for those two elements which haunt the lives of workers the world over—sufficiency and security."

"On the other hand, individual capitalists have contributed to human progress in a manner it were churlish to deny—by princely generosity in support of religion, medicine, education and the fine arts, by daring, by pioneering, by risk in leadership, by exploration, by research and by enlarging all possibilities of higher endeavor," he asserted.

"There must be a new conception of capital which should include the building up of a reserve in favor of the workman over and above mere salary," he stated. "The need is for a voluntary and frank examination of every constructive social reform advanced by Soviet theory without its odious complications of crass materialism, Caesarism, obscene irreligion and arrogant internationalism."

Kentucky Auto Law Invalid.

Frankfort, Ky., April 29 (A.P.).—The Kentucky automobile law exempting automobile owners from liability for injury to nonpaying passengers, unless the owner or driver intentionally caused them injury, was held unconstitutional by the State Court of Appeals today.

Auditorium Blaze Evokes Incredulity

Players in Estern Star's Pageant Convinced Only When Firemen Arrive.

Five hundred members of the cast of the Eastern Star Bicentennial pageant who were rehearsing at the Washington Auditorium last night, thought some one was playing a joke on them when the cry "Fire!" rang through the building, but the joke was on them—there was a fire.

C. H. Maher, who was installing amplifiers in the main auditorium, discovered the fire in a refuse room in the basement. He ordered the Eastern Star members from the building and then turned in an alarm. But the jealous members of the pageant cast did not take his warning seriously, and not until firemen burst into the building did it finally dawn on them that there really might be a fire.

The blaze was confined to one room in the basement and firemen soon had it under control. The amount of damage was slight. The origin is unknown.

Burns Suffered 2 Weeks Ago Claim Life of Boy

Burns suffered April 14 when a can of gasoline exploded as he attempted to build a fire in the furnace of his home, 3002 Twelfth street northeast, proved fatal last night to Charles McDonald, 16 years old. He died shortly before midnight in Garfield Hospital.

Charles is the second member of the family to succumb to burns. A sister died some time ago after her dress caught fire from a gas stove. The boy received his injuries when a stubborn fire refused to ignite and he used gasoline.

UNKNOWN MAYAN CITY FOUND BY SCIENTISTS are dated, of which the expedition deciphered about half."

Dr. A. V. Kidder, chairman of the division of historical research, considers the discovery of Calakmul one of the most important ever made in the Mayan field. Its importance is due to the fact that it was obviously a very great religious center and that decipherment of its many recorded dates will add greatly to our knowledge of Old Empire history. Moreover, the city's geographic position should permit the making of most significant comparative studies with sites already known.

The expedition remained at Calakmul long enough to map all the monoliths and buildings and to give rather full examination to details. Of great importance in obtaining opportunity to explore this site has been the assistance of President Yates, of the American Chicle Development Co., and J. C. Brydon, who furnished the first information regarding the locality.

WINCHESTER AWAITS QUEEN SHENANDOAH

Town in Gay Attire on Eve of Annual Apple Blossom Fete Next Week.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., April 29.—With its streets gayly decorated in festive garb of pink, green and white, Winchester today awaited with avid interest arrival tomorrow of Miss Helen Ames Washington, of Overbrook, Pa., a collateral descendant of George Washington, who next Wednesday afternoon will be crowned Queen Shenandoah, the ninth of the Apple Blossom Festival, by Ambassador Paul Claudel, of France.

The arrival of Miss Washington will usher in a week of festivity and social entertainment glorifying the blossoming of 11,000,000 apple trees in the Shenandoah-Cumberland-Potomac apple belt, which is brought to a grand climax by the two-day fete Wednesday and Thursday, when 100,000 persons from every section of the United States are expected to pay tribute to "the bounties of nature that are the gift of God."

Miss Washington will leave the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lafayette Washington, at Overbrook, early tomorrow, traveling to Washington, D. C., by special train over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. There she will be met by a group of festival officials, including Director General Nelson F. Richards, Mrs. B. B. Dutton, Mrs. Clarke Cooper and former Mayor W. W. Glass, together with the fete queen's maids of honor, Misses Anne Brooke Kearn and Grace Elizabeth Bosserman, of Winchester.

Will Be Mrs. Byrd's Guest.

From Washington, Miss Washington and party will journey over the Lee highway to Luray for lunch at the Mimslyn Hotel, thence to Endless Caverns for a tour of that underground wonder. After dinner at the Caverns Hotel, Miss Washington and party will motor to Winchester. On arrival here, she will go to the home of Mrs. Richard Evelyn Byrd, mother of the explorer, whose guest she will be during the festival.

On Monday and Tuesday, Miss Washington will be entertained in local homes and on Wednesday will be joined here by her parents. Early Wednesday morning the festival will get under way.

At 11 o'clock Wednesday morning, "The Parade of Human Blossoms," in which 5,000 school children from Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, in festival garb, will participate, is scheduled to move through local streets. The parade will be followed by a concert of cadet, concert and military bands in Handley High School Stadium at 2 o'clock.

Coronation Ceremony.

At 3 o'clock Miss Washington will be crowned Queen Shenandoah IX by Ambassador Claudel. A glee club of 35 voices from State Teachers' College, Harrisonburg, Va., will furnish music for the coronation. Misses Bosserman and Kern will be maids of honor attending the queen and the retinue of her court will include princesses from practically every State in the Union, attractively attired in pink chiffon dresses, short velvet jackets in deeper pink, big picture hats of green straw and slippers to match pink dress. The royal train will be carried by little Miss Anne Dudley Fields, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fields, and little Miss Jane Myers, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Myers. Little Miss Dorothy Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cooper, will bear the jeweled crown on a black satin pillow. The trainbearers will wear colonial costumes, while the crownbearer will be dressed in flowered organdy colonial costume.

Immediately following the coronation the pupils of Winchester public schools will present a pageant, "The Harvest of the Years," a story of historical development. More than 800 pupils and teachers will take part.

Aerial Show and Parade.

Other events for the first day include an aerial show at Admiral Byrd Airport at 4:30 p. m., band concerts at 5 o'clock, a torchlight parade of local and visiting fire companies at 8 o'clock and numerous dances beginning at 9 p. m., together with a reception of her court by Queen Shenandoah IX.

Thursday's program will open with a presentation of the pageant, "The Harvest of the Years" in Handley High School Stadium. At noon Queen Shenandoah IX and her court will be guests at a luncheon.

At 2 p. m. "The Trail of the Pink Petals," the grand feature parade of the fete honoring the blossom queen, will move through Winchester streets. The parade will be over 5 miles in length, officials state, and one solid division of the line of march will be historical in nature paying tribute to George Washington in keeping with his association with his section when a youthful surveyor for Thomas Lord Fairfax. Queen Shenandoah IX and her court, after riding in the parade, will review the march from a position in front of the grandstand at Winchester Fair Grounds.

GRAIN EXPORT PLAN CALLED "INJUSTICE"

Financing Scheme Criticized by Head of New York Produce Exchange.

(Associated Press.)

Wheat export conditions etched in optimism were pictured for the Farm Board yesterday while the Senate agriculture committee was hearing a plan for Federal financing of grain and cotton sales abroad termed an "injustice" to American merchants. Almost simultaneously, spokesmen for farm organizations were urging approval of a relief plan drawn up by them.

George S. Milnor, general manager of the Grain Stabilization Corporation and the Farmers National Grain Corporation, said after a visit to Chairman Stone, of the Farm Board, that "undoubtedly large amounts of our wheat can be sold abroad if credit is made available." He said conditions "as I see them are mighty pleasant for us."

Herbert L. Bodman, president of the New York Produce Exchange, in a telegram to Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, opposed the financing plan.

Such Sales Branded "Gift."

It is provided for in a resolution by Chairman McNary (Republican), Oregon, to appropriate $100,000,000 of the Reconstruction Corporation's funds to extend long-term credit to foreign countries for buying the Farm Board's wheat and cotton.

Bodman's telegram termed such sales "practically a gift," and asserted the proposal was a "grave injustice to the American grain merchant," and to American taxpayers who would supply the money.

An explanation of the unified relief plan submitted Thursday by the National Grange, American Farm Bureau Federation and the National Farmers Union, was given the committee by Chester Gray, of Washington, of the federation.

Equalization Fee Backed.

Then John A. Simpson, union president; E. A. O'Neal, federation chieftain, and Fred Brenchman, representing the grange, added their indorsements to the measure.

It provides for the equalization fee, long sponsored by the federation, the export debenture plan, advocated by the grange, and an allotment plan for crops for domestic consumption, urged by the union.

O'Neal put into the record letters from Bernard M. Baruch, New York financier, indorsing the equalization fee principle, and one from former Gov. Lowden, of Illinois, urging further development of farm cooperatives and in general approving the federation's relief proposals.

In the Senate, meanwhile, Howell (Republican), Nebraska, said something must be done quickly to restore farm values and help the farmers back on their feet. He said 38 per cent of farms were mortgaged for more than half their value and, in addition, the farmers owed more than $4,500,000,000 of other debts.

General Index Lowest.

"Congress has done nothing to meet this heart-rending situation except to offer to lend more money," he said.

The Department of Agriculture announced, meanwhile, that another sinking spell in farm prices last month brought the general index level to 59 per cent of the prewar average—the lowest point since the department began keeping records, 20 years ago.

With all commodities except fruits and vegetables selling lower, the index declined 2 points on April 15 from the March 15 figure of 61, which represented a 1-point advance over the February 15 level of 60 per cent.

At the same time, prices paid by farmers for manufactured articles dropped 1 point from 115 per cent of the prewar average, to 114. The ratio of prices received to prices paid was 52 against 53 for the previous month.

Jury in Auto Death Gives Widow $5,000

Verdict Returned in Brown Suit in Prince Georges; Sentences Given.

An award of $5,000 damages for the death of her husband was made yesterday to Mrs. Clara A. Brown by a jury in Prince Georges County Circuit Court. Mrs. Brown had filed suit against Charles F. Man Gets 6 Months on Rum Count.

Willie Nichols, who was already under indictment for another liquor charge, yesterday was convicted in Marlboro, Md., Police Court of possession and sentenced to six months in the House of Correction. Nichols' home in Punkintown was raided by county police a few days before the Prince Georges County grand jury returned an indictment against him on the basis of an earlier raid.

Living Hearts and Lungs Seen by New Chest Window

Naked Eye Can Observe Action of Organs by Means of Latest Scientific Discovery; Use in Treatment of Humans Forecast.

Philadelphia, April 29 (A.P.).—The naked eye can see living hearts and lungs through a new kind of chest window demonstrated to the Federated Societies of Experimental Biology here today.

The window is a strip of clear photographic film, which in effect becomes a layer of strong, transparent skin, behind which the obscuring muscles and tissues can be parted like a curtain.

It gives science for the first time a clear view of the heart and lungs working without any artificial stimulation whatever.

It opens the possibility to sending healing rays directly into the interior of the body.

Rabbits and cats live comfortably, the report stated, with these windows in their chests. Human uses were forecast in treatment of diseased conditions of the thorax.

The device was described by its inventor, Dr. Walter L. Mendenhall, professor of pharmacology of the Boston University School of Medicine.

"Direct observations of activity in the lungs and heart," he said, "have always been complicated by the fact that artificial respiration has been required to keep the animal alive. With this window artificial respiration is not needed except during the moment of placing it in position."

Under anesthesia an oval section of chest skin is removed and replaced by a piece of film fashioned to fit the opening. Like a house window, the film is larger than the opening. Its overlapping edges fit under the surrounding skin. A suction catheter draws air from the chest cavity for a moment. Immediately outside atmospheric pressure seals the skin against the overlapping edges and the window is airtight.

The animal, said Dr. Mendenhall, is capable of carrying on its own respiration for many hours with the window in place. So large an area of heart and lungs is exposed to view that microscopes can be used to observe details, section by section.

Rum Car Wrecks Three Police Autos

Two Occupants of Machine Escape After Crash; None Is Injured.

Three Montgomery County police cars were wrecked last night by a pair of alleged rumrunners on the Columbia pike between Snell's Bridge and Ashton, Md. The two occupants of the rum car escaped. No one was injured.

The policemen, led by Sergt. Roy Snyder, of the Takoma substation, and Policeman Jerry Hobbs, of the Silver Spring substation, had just arrived on the scene and were turning around preparatory to waiting for the rum car, when it arrived at a high rate of speed and tore through the cars. The car speeded on for about 450 feet before it stopped and the occupants escaped in the confusion.

The same car has escaped from the rum squad two nights before by use of a smoke screen and the police were waiting for it last night. While most of its cargo was broken in the crash, police said there had been about 480 quarts of alleged liquor and a smoke screen apparatus on the car.

U. S. Agents Seize 8 in Raid on Still

Dry Men Interrupt Picnic; Store of Liquor Taken; $1,000 Bonds Set.

Eight persons, all colored, were arrested yesterday when a large squad of Federal dry agents raided a still in Calvert County, Md., below Mutual. The prisoners, whose ages ranged from 16 to 64, were each held in bond of $1,000 on charges of manufacture of liquor, possession, and possession of articles for the manufacture.

The agents reported that a picnic was apparently in progress at the still when the raid was made. A 750 gallon still, 7,000 gallons of alleged mash, and 218 gallons of finished liquor were found, it was reported.

Those arrested were Harrison M. Parker, 38 years old; Herman Gant, 16; William J. King, 64, all of Island Creek. Md.; Richard Moore, 30, of Richardsville; James Forbes, 30, of Marlboro; James Johnson, 22; Albert Johnson, 24, and Guy N. Murray, 39, all of Mutual.

It is expected that the members will consider the possible effect of the new State road law under which the State highway department will take over the maintenance and construction of all county roads on July 1, provided the voters of the county do not sign the petition addressed to the circuit court of Fairfax County asking for a special election on whether the county will withdraw from under the provisions of the law on August 9.

The American Legion represents 1,100,000 former service men and when it takes action at its national convention represents very fairly a cross-section of veteran views, B. Schick Test Is Advised For Children of Fairfax

The increasing number of cases of diphtheria that have developed recently in the vicinity of the town of Fairfax has caused the county health unit to issue a warning to all parents to have their children take the Schick test to determine their susceptibility to the disease.

Endeavoring to impress the fact on the parents of the advisability of such a test, Dr. A. W. Garson, county health director, will give the test free to the children of the county this morning beginning at 10 o'clock. It is stated that the test is simple, leaving no ill or harmful effects and determines positively whether or not the child can contract diphtheria.

$20,000 Suit Filed Against Policemen

Washington Man Claims Injuries When Arrested in Fairfax County.

Suit for $20,000 damages was filed in the Circuit Court of Arlington County yesterday by Lurty Holsinger, of Washington, against Carl McIntosh and L. L. Finks, members of the Fairfax County police force, through his attorneys, H. W. Dudley, of Arlington County, and Wilbur C. Hall, of Loudoun County.

The suit grew out of injuries alleged to have been suffered when he was placed under arrest in 1931 on the Chain Bridge road, in Arlington County. It is alleged that he was shot by Policeman McIntosh.

Both policemen were indicted by a grand jury, but the case was nolle-prossed at the February term, this year, by Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas.

MONTGOMERY DRIVE FOR POOR LAUNCHED

Objects and Methods of Social Service League Told at Dinner.

Launching the annual drive of the Social Service League of Montgomery County for funds to carry on its work among the poor of the county, a dinner was held last night at the Manor Club near Norbeck at which district chairmen were prepared for their parts.

The meeting was opened by Dr. J. W. Bird, president of the league, who, after an invocation by the Rev. G. H. Crook, of the Poolesville Episcopal Church, turned the chair over to W. B. Armstrong, chairman of the finance committee, in charge of the drive. Dr. Bird outlined the plans of the league for 1932-33 and Mr. Armstrong spoke on the campaign. Miss Willie Greene Day, executive secretary of the league, gave a summary of the services of the league in the last year. She said that two-thirds of the work of the league is social aid which requires little or no funds. She especially lauded the work of the Emergency Work Bureau, which has given temporary work to 950 persons and found permanent work for more than 100.

Dr. Edwin W. Boome, county superintendent of schools, said that social service and school work are intertwined and lauded the cooperation between the league and the schools. Robert E. Bondy, emergency relief director of the American Red Cross and Bethesda district chairman, pointed out that Montgomery County through the league has shouldered its own relief burden without looking to a far away "uncle" for aid.

Thomas C. Kelley, chairman of the publicity committee, said that Washington and county newspapers are cooperating excellently in the work of the league. O. W. Roby, recently appointed director of public welfare, pledged his cooperation and Judge R. Granville Curry, of the county juvenile court, urged that the personal touch of the league work be depended upon rather than cold figures.

George Davis, chairman of the unemployment relief committee, told the workers to go to their prospects with pride that they were offering them a chance to join in the service of love. W. I. Cleveland, Kensington chairman, also urged direct frontal attack. Miss Lavinia Engle, county member of the Maryland House of Delegates, said that community participation is contingent upon community appreciation of the class of work done. Dr. V. P. Ellicott, newly appointed health officer, pledged cooperation. Others who spoke were Miss Estelle Moore, chairman of the home welfare committee, who said that 2,432 children were clothed last year by her committee; Horace E. Alexander, Mrs. J. Darby Bowman, Mrs. Robert Palmer and other branch chairmen.

MONTGOMERY FILES AUDIT SUIT ANSWER

Commissioners and Clerk Reply to Action for Writ Against Payment.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4208.

Answers to the suit of Richard M. Osborne and Harry C. Howes, seeking to enjoin the Montgomery County commissioners and the county treasurer from paying an additional $14,000 to R. G. Rankin & Co., for the recent audit of the county books which developed an alleged shortage of approximately $55,000 in the accounts of the clerk to the county commissioners, Berry E. Clark, were filed yesterday in Montgomery County Circuit Court by the defendants.

The law firm of Whiteford & Cissel, counsel to the county commissioners, appeared for both defendants. J. Forest Walker, county treasurer, stated that he had received no order to pay such an amount and was powerless to do so until he received a voucher from the county commissioners.

The county commissioners state that they are advised that the matters complained of by the plaintiffs deal with matters of administration wholly within the discretion of the commissioners and are not subject to review except where fraud or corruption in office are alleged, which are not part of the complaint.

The commissioners further state that the audit had never contemplated including the books of the county school board and that the commissioners are not sure of their power to order such an audit. The auditors did inspect the books and find that they are being kept in accordance with the State school law and in good shape, the defense states.

REAL ECONOMY FAILS.

Once more the House of Representatives has shaken the faith of the country in the stability of Congress. Control of the House on Friday passed to the insurgent clique which struck the manufacturers' sales tax from the revenue bill. This time the insurgents have worked havoc with the economy bill, which is a twin of the tax measure in the common cause of balancing the budget.

It is apparent that members of the House are in favor of economy so long as it does not interfere with the supply of pork for their constituents. There was not the slightest excuse for striking from the bill the proposed saving of $7,167,000 now spent on vocational education, except to save a few votes for spineless congressmen. When items straight from the pork barrel can not be eliminated in these times of distress there is not much chance for the achievement of real economy.

In nearly every instance the proposed economies that have been eliminated from the bill bear a close relationship to the privileges of congressmen. Evidence shows that the Government is losing money and the American merchant marine is losing patronage by the maintenance of Army and Navy transports. Yet the House voted to continue this uneconomical service. The transport systems provide free junket trips for members of Congress and their families, with only nominal charges for meals. This action is an insult to distressed citizens who cry for economy.

The economy committee sought to limit to $9,000,000 the amount that may be spent for printing by the legislative branch of the Government. But the House added another $1,000,000. How can congressmen be expected to cut down the number of pamphlets that are franked to constituents during an election year? The wrecking of this economy measure is a warning to the public not to expect anything constructive from the insurgent House.

Economies approved to date amount to about $30,000,000, nearly all of them being at the expense of Government employes. The proposed economies which have been stricken from the bill amount to $67,000,000. It is uncertain as to what part of the economy program will be approved, but indications are that no substantial savings can be expected from this source. Every attempt to reduce the size of the pork barrel seems doomed to failure. The House is not a deliberative body trying to face the dilemma of a $2,500,000,000 deficit, but a mob of uncontrolled politicians who are trying to make a gesture in the direction of economy while retaining all the advantages of extravagant and wasteful expenditures in their own behalf.

The Senate finance committee has not added to the confidence of the people by striking important items from the tax bill, but there is still hope that the committee will approve a measure carrying sufficient revenue to balance the budget. Primarily, the new wave of uncertainty and disappointment can be traced to the action of the House. Leadership has once more broken down. The Democratic majority is incapable of facing the economy issue squarely and of upholding its own policy. For a second time during the present session the House has been put to a major test and has failed miserably.

SOVIET TRADE SNARES.

The United States has refused to recognize Soviet Russia, says Representative Sabath, largely because this Government has listened to British propaganda. He implies that Britain wanted Soviet trade for herself and thus sought to discourage American interests. While Mr. Sabath was indulging in this nonsense, Walter Runciman, president of the British Board of Trade, was discussing in the House of Commons the advisability of breaking the trade agreement between Great Britain and Russia.

British interests are thoroughly disillusioned as to the "advantages" of trade with the reds. A few years ago Premier Ramsay MacDonald opened his arms to the bolshevists because of arguments very similar to those being advanced at present in the United States. The Soviet made lavish promises of profitable trade. But as soon as the agreement was concluded Soviet purchases were transferred elsewhere. In 1930 British exports to Russia amounted to less than $30,000,000, while the Soviet dumped on the British market goods valued at nearly six times that much. It is not surprising that the government, now under control of the Conservatives, is anxious to terminate its trade relations with the Communists.

After having lured Great Britain into trade relations, the Communist regime put its best foot forward in the hope of winning recognition at Washington. Orders were plentiful in 1930 and during part of 1931. American exports to Russia were several times as large as imports from that country. The Soviet failed in this manipulation of trade for political purposes. It could not change the attitude of the Washington Government. Now its business has been transferred to Germany.

When the experiences of Britain and the United States with Soviet trade are considered together they put a stamp of falsehood as well as absurdity upon the claims that recognition of the Moscow dictatorship would open a vast new market for American industries.

An expert of the Department of Commerce was asked as to the trend of American-Soviet trade. He replied that there is and can be no such trend. The Moscow machine places its orders where they are apt to wield the greatest political influence. Suppose that the Soviet did have substantial purchasing power and that it should make extensive purchases in this country? Without a moment's warning the Soviet government, which controls all the trade of Russia, might cut off its purchases and transfer them to another country. The Communist political machine is in a position to inflict sudden injury to any country with which it deals, and it will do so in its campaign to destroy capitalism. No nation can trade with the Communist dictatorship without exposing its domestic enterprise to assassination.

INVITING A VETO.

Seldom has a piece of legislation been more conducive to a veto than the Democratic tariff bill which Congress has sent to the White House. From beginning to end the bill was made to veto. It does not contain the elements of a statute, but only spikes and timber for the Democratic platform. Indeed, it seems that the Democrats deliberately framed the bill in such outrageous form that the President would not be able to resist the temptation to knife it.

The measure reeks with inconsistency and absurd provisions. The Democrats pretend to believe that the tariff as a whole is too high; yet they have voted to destroy the flexible provision through which duties may be adjusted on the basis of equalizing costs of production here and abroad. They ask the President to initiate international negotiations for the reduction of tariffs at the very time when Senate Democrats are running wild in the finance committee in their efforts to get protection for various products of their home States. While giving lip service to economy, they vote to set up a new bureaucratic agency to aid importers in their fight against American enterprise.

The most insincere and vicious section of the bill is that calling upon the President to initiate a movement for an international economic conference. Under the language of this section the proposed conference would proceed to lower "excessive tariff duties," to eliminate "discriminatory and unfair trade practices and other economic barriers affecting international trade."

Hypocrisy leers from every line of the so-called international sections. While Congress is threatening to add several items to the tariff list, it invites the President to negotiate with foreign governments "reciprocal trade agreements under a policy of mutual tariff concessions." This sounds like a bold move to reduce the tariff, but it is not. The President would be authorized only to talk about tariff reductions and concessions. He would have no authority to act. That prerogative is reserved for Congress. In short, the President is invited to involve the executive branch of the Government in foreign entanglements which Congress could repudiate, thus making political capital for the Democratic party.

No indication is given as to what American industries should be sacrificed under the policy of mutual tariff concessions. Nor is the President informed what tariff rates are too high. The Democrats did not dare to be specific. Every one knows that tariff bargains putting American industries or agriculture on the spot can not pass through Congress. Every attempt to permit foreigners to fix American duties will be a dismal failure. Democrats who wrote the bill realize this. They are merely trying to impose a piece of political chicanery upon the President.

If the Democrats think that it will be an embarrassment to President Hoover to veto this fake tariff remedy, they are mistaken. Mr. Hoover stands for protection of American labor and industry, and believes that a flexible provision is essential to make that protection complete. The President has been first among those opposing an international conference in which the woes of the world could be dumped upon the shoulders of American taxpayers. Consequently, a veto of this counterfeit tariff measure may be anticiptaed as a matter of course.

THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY.

Negotiations between the United States and Canada, preliminary to the signing of a treaty for the international seaway to the Great Lakes, are making progress. The ambitious project, which will rival in importance the Panama Canal, encounters numerous difficulties that have to be ironed out, particularly on the Canadian side. The parliament at Ottawa has recently been demanding information from Premier Bennett, but the government maintains the British custom of perfecting treaties and submitting them for adoption or rejection, rather than negotiating compromises with the legislative branch in advance.

The greatest stumbling block to the great improvement is found in the Province of Quebec. Opposition to the waterway was the leading issue last summer in the election of Premier Taschereau in Quebec. He promptly cemented this ratification of his position by having the Liberal legislature of the province pass a resolution opposing the waterway on the ground that it would impair the value of established power plants and impose heavy tax burdens. Montreal, too, is fearful that ships with unbroken cargoes plying between the Atlantic and the Lakes would leave that city a mere way station and end its importance as a railroad-steamship terminal.

Premier Bennett finally has secured the promise of the Quebec leader to visit him for a conference, but it is evident that it will be no easy task to win him over. The opposition in the Eastern province is asked to consider the alternative disadvantages to Canada if an all-American route should be built to Buffalo. In the province of Ontario the present Conservative government is working in better harmony with Ottawa. The claim of Toronto to the 2,000,000 horsepower that will be developed along the "international section" of the canal for its publicly-owned hydroelectric company has not been opposed. The province is not in a position to finance the work in that district, but a tacit agreement appears to have been reached whereby the United States would advance the money to construct the international section, to offset Canadian expenditures already made.

The international aspects of the proposed treaty have been the subject of numerous conferences with the two governments through the American Minister at Ottawa, Col. Hanford MacNider, and the Canadian Minister in Washington, Maj. W. D. Herridge. New York has been somewhat seriously concerned regarding the disposition of power and the State's share in it, while at the other extreme Chicago's interest has centered in the question as to whether, in connection with the waterway project, any attempt might be made to curtail her heavy drafts upon the waters of Lake Michigan.

Neither Canada nor the United States is in a position just now to appropriate the great sums necessary for the St. Lawrence seaway, so there is ample opportunity to adjust difficulties on both sides of the border before making a draft upon either national treasury.

CENOTAPH TO THE UNKNOWN

By WILLIS J. ABBOT,
In the Christian Science Monitor.

In England the Unknown Soldier is buried in Westminster Abbey. But with what has always seemed to me a fine recognition of the need for having some place in the midst of the busy walks of men where there could be a moment of contemplation of the past and of meditation on war's heroisms and war's infamy, the English people erected in the very midst of Whitehall the cenotaph which stands as the nation's memorial to its heroes.

Past it in the ordinary course of the day's work go tens of thousands of people every 24 hours. The war has receded far into the past, but when I was last in London, some eighteen months ago, I noticed that practically every passer-by, even those in vehicles, lifted his hat. The base of the cenotaph is always banked high with flowers, little nosegays and great "floral pieces" testifying alike to some expression of sorrow and of love.

In Paris, too, the Unknown Soldier lies where the multitudes of men, equally unknown, pass to and fro on their daily tasks. A never extinguished flame under the Arc de Triomphe marks his resting place, and there men can easily do homage to the sentiment for which his sepulcher stands.

America has seen fit to establish her shrine far from the busy haunts of men. There is dignity in such aloofness, poetry in the surroundings, but a loss of something which one finds in the more central sites. At the break in Pennsylvania avenue where it ends at the Treasury is a triangular park faced by the Department of Commerce Building, and the Washington Hotel. It is, perhaps, the best site available in Washington today for a memorial which does not require great space.

Here, if a cenotaph could be erected to the memory of the Unknown Soldier, literally every visitor to Washington would see it. The spot is in the very center of tourist activities. Moreover, the Pennsylvania avenue cars pass directly by it and the Fourteenth street cars within a block. The average Washingtonian has to go by it frequently in the course of business. A dignified and impressive memorial at that point would be in the very center of the Nation's political Capital.

It seems to me that no use could be made of this really monumental site equal, in appeal to the patriotism and the sentiment of the people, to that which would be offered by a stately stone raised in memory of war heroes, as personified by the Unknown Soldier. Ever before the people of the United States would thus be kept the heroism of those who fought for it on foreign battlefields. We then could witness among Americans evidence of the devotion and gratitude which the English and the French daily lay before the memorials to their Unknown Soldiers.

To Promote Confidence.
Schenectady Union-Star.

It must be stressed that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is established for a definite purpose. It is not a grabbag, from which anybody can take all he wants. It is only an expedient to meet unusual conditions. It is priming the pump to get business started. In banking phraseology, it is inflation. It long has been recognized that deflation has gone far enough, and that recovery depends upon getting money into circulation. There is no magic in it. It is only a starter. The Government is not going to support you. It seeks to encourage people to go ahead with confidence, and step out.

No Unity.

There is little in common between the Democracy of the North and the Democracy of the South and West. The Democracy of the North is conservative and liberal; the Democracy of the South is conservative and illiberal; the Democracy of the West is plain radical.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

My dear Louise: Once more, young fellow, I wish to call your attention to a bit of ancient wisdom that will pay you a profit.

"Be sure your sins will find you out."

Which means, in the language of our day, that you can't get away with it. And the point I wish to make is that bright people don't invite humiliation by trying a thing that can't be done.

Let's suppose that you cut school and go with a number of your classmates to a carnival in a neighboring town. Let's suppose that you do that or similar things a number of times. And suppose, further—which is a very easy job of supposing—that you tell me nothing about it.

It may not be helpful to discipline, but I concede that neither the cutting nor the going is an unpardonable sin. When one is young and spring is in the air, kid pranks are as natural as the running of other sap.

But what about the deceit? You tell me nothing because you know I wouldn't approve. Your silence is as much an effort to deceive me as though you had told me an outright falsehood. Isn't it?

But it doesn't deceive me long. Somebody sees you away from school and tells about it. Always there is somebody to tell. Always. And you are shamed by exposure.

What, then, can you hope to gain by silence? Since the purpose of it is to deceive, and it never works, why risk it? You can't profit by it, for murder will out; and you invite the certain punishment of a guilty conscience, humiliation and loss of self-respect.

Why magnify a small offense by sneaking when you know the sneaking won't hide the offense?

Stupidity, however, isn't the worst of it.

This business of doing forbidden things secretly becomes a habit. It is the kind of thing that this generation calls "two-timing." And a girl who gets the habit of two-timing a dad who supports and trusts and loves her will as readily two-time a husband who supports and trusts and loves her.

I don't mean that cutting classes is an offense equal to that of betraying a husband, but I do mean that the habit of sneaking soon gives a permanent warp to the character, and a girl who habitually deceives her parents to escape criticism will later deceive her mate and her neighbors when similarly tempted.

Sometimes, my dear, it takes a little courage to be square, but there's a lot of satisfaction in feeling respectable. Love, DAD.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Using Veterans as Tools.
Detroit Free Press.

The point we wish to make is that advocates of inflation in Congress and out are using the gratitude of the country for what the ex-service men did in the World War to screen their movement to put over on the country today a fiscal measure that would be disastrous to the country and consequently to the very men they profess to be so solicitous about. They are using the uniform the boys wore overseas as a talking point. They are waving the flag those boys defended to create a new hysteria during which they hope to push "cheap money" through. They are, to put it frankly, using those ex-service men who have been duped into demanding their "bonus" at this time as tools for shaping a fiscal measure that is illogical in its conception and would be fatal to our credit in its completion.

Roosevelt's Visit.
Sioux Falls Argus-Leader.

Gov. Roosevelt's foray into the Northwest was quite disappointing. The allegedly wise man of the East came and saw, but it cannot be said that he conquered. His public utterances were vague and indefinite. He spoke to us as if we were little children, susceptible to political blandishments that have grown hoary with age. His remarks about improving the status of the farmer were couched in meaningless generalities that have been heard many, many times before. He avoided tangible assertions. He came with the reputation of a fighting leader; he departed with the rating of a vote-seeking politician.

Banking Crisis Passed.
Houston Post.

The President is within the facts when he declares that the banking crisis has passed. The actual reports from the financial world bear out the truth of the statement. This is one of the most encouraging signs of the return of the country to stable economic conditions. In itself it will stimulate new confidence, and it is agreed on all sides that one of the principle needs at this juncture is greater confidence. Fear, much of it unwarranted, has prolonged the depression. Dissolution of fear is hastening the resteration of normal activity.

The trouble with the Democratic party is that too often it hangs out the sign, "Business suspended during altercations."

It Might Be Worse.
Coffeyville Journal.

Sometimes we hear this referred to as the worst slump we ever knew. But is it? At the present time one railway in America—the Wabash—is in receivership. In the middle nineties every railway west of the Mississippi River, with two exceptions, was in the hands of a receiver.

Fact Often Overlooked.
Minneapolis Journal.

If the lists were cleared of all cases of unmerited relief, and if the bonus should be rejected, the United States would still be dealing far more liberally with its war veterans than any country in all history.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reader Praises Editorials and Discusses Public Confidence.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Permit me to commend most heartily your many recent excellent editorials, especially two which I have before me, "True and False Economy," of April 22, and "Credit and Confidence," of April 27.

It has been said that with confidence there is enough money in the United States to run the world, but that without confidence there is not enough money in the world to keep this country going. To put it another way, probably 75 per cent or more of our business is carried on on the basis of our faith in the demand for goods, &c., reliance on the belief in continued demand and the ability and intention of people to buy and pay.

Material conditions have not changed; neither have the desires of people for good things to eat, good things to wear, comfortable homes, beautiful surroundings, amusements, diversions, &c. Granting this fact, why should stagnation in business continue?

On August 8, 1931, the writer made the following suggestion to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce:

"If one member of each organization affiliated with the United States Chamber of Commerce, who has discontinued or curtailed operations because of present conditions, would announce to the world: 'On or before ——— 1931 (let the date be what you will, 60, 90 days, 6 months ahead) I will start up my factory, or enlarge my operations to the basis prevailing before the loss of confidence came about,' each such member would say, in effect: 'I have absolute confidence in the return of normal prosperity and am now backing up that confidence with this practical determination to do my bit toward bringing about a speedy resumption of business activity throughout the Nation, and am willing to risk a further temporary loss, if need be, to bring about that result.'"

Suppose such a pledge should be obtained from every member of the organizations making up their chamber. If this could be brought about, one can visualize such a wiping out of fear and return of such confidence as to make this Nation, and the world, respond joyously and move rapidly toward recovery.

Visionary? Well, all great accomplishments have begun with visions.

Not a Minor Play, Says Shakespeare Scholar, Replying to Mr. Appelbaum.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Elk Appelbaum, writing to The Post, refers to "Midsummer Night's Dream" as "a minor play" of William Shakespeare. Perhaps your readers will be interested in the opinion of the same work expressed by the poet, A. C. Swinburne: "The young genius of the master of all our poets finds its consummation in the Midsummer Night's Dream. The blank verse is as full, sweet and strong as the best of Biron's or Romeo's; the rhymed verse as clear, pure and true as the simplest and truest melody of Venus and Adonis or the Comedy of Errors. But here each kind of excellence is equal throughout; there are here no purple patches on the gown of serge, but one seamless and imperial robe of a single dye." H. D. FRUIT.

Correspondent Discusses Union's Interference in Theater.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If the account in The Post of the closing of the season at the National Theater because of the demands of the Musicians' Union is correct, I should like to enter a very vigorous protest against this latest example of racketeering to appear in the Nation's Capital.

Sixty people are to be thrown out of employment at a time like this because, forsooth, the union decides that six musicians must be employed, and the management can not afford to do so. Rule or ruin seems to be the union's motto.

There is general resentment throughout the city at the union's stand in this matter. The public is to be deprived of entertainment and the number of the unemployed is to be increased to suit the selfish interests of a few. How long are we to endure this sort of thing?

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

JUST A SUGGESTION.

I am no shrewd economist; it's not for me to say
To statesmen how they ought to meet the problems of the day.
I haven't any fancy scheme for curing public ills,
I'm just an ordinary chap who likes to pay his bills;
But this is how it seems to me, the way to run a town,
Before you put the taxes up, is cut expenses down.

The citizens who pay the bills have had their incomes cut;
The owner of the little home has suffered losses, but The politicians' clerks are all enjoying good-times pay.
In two long years of sacrifice they haven't lost a day.
And so if I were running things I'd risk my little crown
By thinning out the public crew to cut expenses down.

I wouldn't think up further schemes to hit good citizens,
I'd do what farmers always do with old, nonlaying hens;
I'd chop some heads off here and there; I'd sort the sheep from goats,
And give more thought to ways and means and less to getting votes.
I'd cut the bills of government, not caring who may frown,
And ere I shot the taxes up I'd shoot
expenses down.

Gigli Quits 'Met' Opera; Refused to Accept Cut

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—The Times says Beniamino Gigli, the Italian tenor, has severed his connections with the Metropolitan Opera Association rather than take a reduction in salary. Gigli's contract, which has three more years to run, was reported to have been broken by mutual consent.

Faced with a financial stringency, the opera recently began a retrenchment program with Giulio Gatti-Casazza, general director, taking the initiative by indicating his willingness to waive his entire salary of $30,000. All of the company took a 10 per cent cut in midseason.

Firestone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey B. Firestone, of Akron, Ohio, was announced tonight at a dinner given by the parents of the bride-elect.

Sister's Alibi Again Frees Man Held After Still Raid

Dixie Curry, of Leonardtown, Md., who was released on Federal liquor charges last fall when his sister furnished an alibi for him, was freed again yesterday when another sister furnished another alibi.

Last September Curry was arrested after a raid on a still and given a hearing before United States Commissioner J. Frank Parran. His sister testified that he was at her house at the time the raid was made. Commissioner Parran freed him. In October another raid was made. The Federal agents said they saw a man they thought was Curry run from the still. Last week he was arrested for the later raid, and yesterday he appeared before Parran again. Another sister testified that he was at her home at the time of the raid. Parran released him again, and Curry started out.

"How many more sisters have you?" Parran called after him.

"Three," Curry answered.

"Mmmmmmm," said Mr. Parran.

Driving in Safety Zone Costs Motorist $100

Convicted of driving through a safety zone, in which a man and woman were standing, James M. Gibson, 1761 R street northwest, yesterday was fined $100 by Judge John P. McMahon in Police Court.

Policeman B. W. Carroll, of the Eighth Precinct, overtook Gibson's car on Connecticut avenue, a few blocks from the safety zone. He placed a charge of speeding against Gibson as a result of the chase, and on that charge he was fined $25.

Church Conclave Votes To Fight Wet Candidates

Burlington, N. C., April 29 (A.P.).—A resolution expressing disapproval of agitation for repeal of the eighteenth amendment was adopted today by the Southeastern Convention of Christian and Congregational Churches in session here.

Criminal Surgery Ring Investigated

Two Dead Coeds Thought Only Latest of Operation Victims.

Oklahoma City, April 29 (A.P.).—A sinister trail of malpractice drew investigators today as they peered behind the scene of the death of two University of Oklahoma coeds.

Officers sought Dr. Richard E. Thacker, 62-year-old physician, charged with murder for an alleged illegal operation, and prepared to resist the efforts of an osteopath, Dr. J. W. Eisminger, to obtain release from the cell in which he is held on a similar accusation.

Shadowy private homes and alleged paid "go-betweens" in what he said was a virtual "criminal operation industry" were probed by County Attorney Lewis R. Morris.

Investigators assert Mrs. Frank Lee, secret bride of a University of Oklahoma athlete, and Virginia Wyckoff, both university coeds, are only the latest of ten or more victims of recent criminal operations here.

St. Johns, Newfoundland, April 29 (A.P.).—Legislation to authorize the operation of lotteries in Newfoundland was passed in the House of Assembly yesterday.

Duty on Foreign Wheat Is Reduced by Germany

Berlin, April 29 (A.P.).—The duty on foreign wheat has been reduced 50 marks to 180 marks (currently about $42.60) a ton until June 30 as 15 of the 100 flour mills permitted to grind foreign wheat. It was announced today.

The step was taken to cover the country's wheat shortage, and American officials estimated that the amount imported under the decree probably would run around 100,000 tons.

Joliet Warden Accepts New U. S. Prison Post

Man Goes to Chair After Staging Riot

Doomed Prisoner Attacks Guards; Is Overcome and Electrocuted.

Eddyville, Ky., April 29 (A.P.).—The grimmest drama ever enacted within the walls of Western State Penitentiary here marked the execution early today of three Negroes in the electric chair. Only after a guard had been stabbed and tear gas bombs brought into use to subdue the third of the trio were the executions completed.

After resisting for an hour and a half efforts of officers to lead him from his cell in death row to the small room in which the electric chair is located, Walter Holmes, 31, of Chicago, surrendered and followed his two companions in death. The other two men, A. B. Cooksey, 28, of Madisonville, Ky., and Charles Rodgers, 23, of Chicago, went to their deaths peacefully.

When prison officers then went to Holmes' cell, Holmes threw a bucket of water on them. The water previously had been put in the cell for drinking purposes. Holmes then brandished an iron pipe, broken from a water connection, and defied the guards to take him. Finally tear gas bombs were used to dislodge the prisoner.

Christian Science Churches

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all the Churches of Christ Scientist tomorrow. The golden text is from Galatians vi.1: "Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such an one in the spirit of meekness." Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Behold, the Lord's hand is not shortened, that it can not save; neither his ear heavy, that it can not hear: But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, that he will not hear. And the Redeemer shall come to Zion, and unto them that turn from transgression in Jacob, saith the Lord." (Isaiah lix.1,2,20). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Work out your own salvation,' is the demand of life and love, for to this end God worketh with you. Justice requires reformation of the sinner. Mercy cancels the debt only when justice approves."

FRUITS AND BERRIES SUPPLY TASTY TOUCH

Typical Letter Shows How Interested Women Are Reading Recipes.

Fruits and berries coming into season afford new chances to homemakers to provide their families with tasty desserts. These new seasonal foods are reflected in the recipes coming to this page. The Food Page Editor is anxious for homemakers to pass on these recipes to other women, who will use them in their own menus after seeing them printed on this page.

Cooperation and helpfulness make up the spirit back of the contributions to this page. That is shown again and again in letters received by the Food Page Editor, of which the following epistle is typical:

"Having prepared this recipe many, many times for my guests and receiving compliments on it each time, I decided to place it in your hands for your recipe column. I know it will suit your taste if you have it tested, and appeal to your many readers who look forward to your column, as the housewife is always looking for something new to place before her family.

"I read your paper every day, find it interesting also the food space I find helpful in every way. I make use of your recipes, and they are worth while, and we do appreciate them so much. Thanks."

The winners of prize recipes will receive books or honorable mentions for their kindness in sending in these recipes. The recipes follow:

Macaroon Icebox Dessert.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

½ lb. sweet cream butter (Land o' Lakes), Sanitary Grocery Co.
1 cupful confectioner's sugar
6 eggs (Sanico)
1 dozen macaroons

Soften butter in a bowl with a wooden spoon. When very creamy, add gradually the sugar which has been sifted, stirring continually until the sugar is thoroughly blended with the butter. Then add the yolks of the eggs, one at a time, beating the mixture well after the addition of each yolk. To this butter mixture add the macaroons which have been dried and grated. Then fold in thoroughly the whites of eggs which have been beaten until stiff and dry.

The mixture is then ready to pour into molds. This may be done in a variety of ways, for the mixture is such a rich one that it may be blended with a goodly quantity of sponge cake or lady fingers. Cover the bottom and line the sides of large or individual molds with lady fingers split or strips of sponge cake. Then fill the remaining cavity with the mixture. Place in the refrigerator and let stand at least 24 hours. Turn out on glass plate and serve.

This desert may be garnished with a little unsweetened whipped cream and topped with a cherry. The cream is not needed for richness and may be omitted entirely.

MRS. WILLIAM A. ROHRMAN.

Then add tomato soup, mustard, Worcestershire sauce and seasoning. Cook 15 minutes, stirring continually. Beat the eggs and add them to the mixture. Cook 5 minutes longer and then serve on toast or crackers.

RECIPES NECESSARY FOR WEEK-END MENUS.

SATURDAY again, and the very eve of May Day. Well do I recall my pigtailed era of youthful May baskets of lovely (and many of doubtful) appearance. Those were gay and carefree days of splendor, New England in springtime, arbutus blooms fragrant with promise of summer, and children seemingly everywhere in the early twilight with their May baskets on their arms, wandering here and there while they waited for dark to fall that they might hang them on the doorbells of their choosing. My best and most beautiful basket was always for Miss Margaret, teacher beloved of Sunday school class down at "Old South Congregational." Although an Episcopalian by family custom, I had managed a change of class because of Miss Margaret. Imagine my horror of a May basket night to learn that a young man was calling and I couldn't see her! However, Miss Edith, older and perhaps more sensitive to the ills of disappointment, knew where cake could be found, and lemonade and candies. A well-fed person, so they say, can stand up under almost anything, so I managed to survive my chagrin and enjoy my evening with Miss Edith. That cake I remember distinctly. It was chocolate fudge cake with a fudge icing. In honor of our old custom it shall go into this little column today, for this is again the eve of May Day.

Rolled Shoulder of Lamb.

Have blade removed from shoulder and fill with the following mixture, then sew up or tie together. Mix a cupful of breadcrumbs, a quarter cupful of butter, two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley, one tablespoonful chopped onion, the juice of half a lemon, a teaspoonful of salt, a pinch of pepper and an egg, beaten, also a pinch of thyme. Place meat in a roasting pan with a little water and roast, allowing fifteen minutes to the pound, basting often. When roast is done, remove to platter, pour off grease from pan, adding a cupful of water in its place. Stir to blend the meat juices with the water and thicken slightly to form a gravy. Celery or mushrooms may be added to the stuffing if desired.

Scalloped Asparagus.

1 bunch asparagus
2 cupfuls white sauce
½ cupful breadcrumbs
½ cupful American cheese—grated
Scant ¼ cupful butter

Clean and cut the asparagus in 1-inch pieces. Reserve the white ends for soup. Cook until tender. Brown the breadcrumbs slightly in the butter. Place a layer in a buttered baking dish, add a layer of asparagus and repeat until all materials are used, adding crumbs last. Cover with the cheese, dot over with butter and bake in a moderate oven until brown.

Pineapple Dream.

½ cupful pineapple—diced
½ pint whipping cream
12 marshmallows—diced
12 maraschino cherries—diced
½ cupful chopped nuts
1 teaspoonful vanilla
1 tablespoonful confectioners' sugar

Whip cream until stiff, fold in the pineapple, marshmallows, cherries, nuts, sugar and vanilla. Chill and serve in sherbet glasses.

Chocolate Fudge Cake.

1 cupful sugar
2-3 cupful butter
3 eggs—separated
1 cupful milk
¼ cupful chocolate—melted
2½ cupfuls flour
1 teaspoonful baking powder
½ cupful English walnuts

Cream butter and sugar. Add the beaten egg yolks, the melted chocolate, then the milk alternately with the flour and baking powder sifted together. Lastly, fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and the nuts, if desired.

Salads Solve the Problem

Salads offer a delightful solution to the refreshment problem of innumerable occasions, but because they are such a reliable standby it is more difficult to attain distinction. To aid the particular hostess, however, Nancy Carey has prepared a folder giving a number of interesting recipes for unusual salads. The folder is entitled "Salads for Every Occasion," and may be secured by sending your request, accompanied by self-addressed, stamped envelope to Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey: I am one of those unfortunates about whom people say, "My, it's a shame she is so fat. She would be so pretty if she wern't." And it hurts like everything to hear that. I started on a diet, but it would cost a fortune to eat the things it said, as there are just two of us and I would have to feed my husband something different. I exercise morning and night. I am 23 years old, 5 feet 7½ inches tall and weigh 235 pounds. I've always been plump, but in the last few years have gained considerably. Please help me and let me hear from you soon.

MRS. J. H.

I should like very much to help you, Mrs. J. H., and shall most certainly do all in my power to aid in getting rid of as much of your surplus weight as is possible. And we can do a great deal, too, you and I together, provided you make up your mind to follow directions and to stick with me every step of the way. We cannot expect to accomplish results too quickly, for you are about 100 pounds overweight, and to reduce this weight successfully will require months of patient and cautious eating habits. After all, we can hardly expect to correct habits of years' standing in several weeks or even months, but you are much too young to consider a lifetime ahead with the burden of overweight you are now carrying. Once rid of it, you will feel so much younger, so much more healthy and peppy; more healthy and peppy than you ever believed you could feel.

As for the diet indicated to lose weight, you will find that no special foods are required. It would not only be inconvenient to have to plan double meals, but it would be an expense entirely unnecessary and foolish.

If you will just let us have your name and address on a stamped envelope, we shall be very glad to send you our reducing menus and suggestions. You will see from these that you may eat the same things your husband does and, provided you are careful to count your calories each day, still succeed in reducing.

Let us hear from you soon before you can possibly change your mind or lose heart. Just keep thinking of how much better you will be in every way when the scales finally show, as they will, a loss of even 50 pounds.

PIE RECIPE CHOSEN FOR POST $5 PRIZE

Mrs. Charles C. Kennon Is Voted Award in Contest for Week.

Desserts jumped into the foreground in this week's Post recipe contest. Many of the entries were formulas for pies, cakes and other forms of pastry. The $5 first prize award went to a pie recipe.

The winning recipe was submitted by Mrs. Charles C. Kennon, of 3120 Thirty-eighth street northwest. It was for a graham cracker pie with a cocoanut cream filling.

To be eligible in the Post's weekly contests formulas for food creations must use some product which is advertised on the Saturday Food Page of the Post.

The recipe follows:

CRUST.

(This recipe makes the regulation size pie.)

Roll about 17 large graham crackers fine and reserve a tablespoonful to be placed on top of pie. Mix the crumbs with ¼ pound melted Land O'Lakes butter and 1-3 cup sugar. Cover sides and bottom of pie pan.

FILLING.

Put 2 cups milk in double boiler with 10 cent can Bakers Cocoanut, when hot add 4 tablespoonfuls Gold Medal Flour mixed with ½ cup sugar, little salt. Then add 3 well beaten Sanico Eggs, lump Land O'Lakes Butter and 1 teaspoonful Sanitary Vanilla. When thick pour into the crust made from the cracker crumbs. When cold and ready to serve, cover all over with 1 cup full of whipped cream and sprinkle with the reserved tablespoonful crumbs.

Chicken TapiocaOmelet.

4 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¾ cup milk
2 tablespoons granulated tapioca
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup diced chicken

Scald the milk and to it add the tapioca and seasonings and cook 20 minutes in double boiler, stirring frequently. Separate the eggs, beat the yolks until thick and the whites until stiff. Add the butter to the tapioca and pour over the egg yolks. Add the chicken and finally fold in the egg whites. Turn into a hot buttered skillet and cook in a moderate oven (350-375 degrees F.) for 20 minutes.

OUR DAILY FOOD

By COLONEL GOODBODY

"CHEESE IT—IN YOUR COOKING."

"WHAT shall we have for dinner today?

A light and fluffy cheese souffle?"

That jingle sounds as if I were in for a spell of spring fever. Besides the cheese souffle, stewed tomatoes and broccoli, and a lettuce salad, rolls and butter, and for dessert an old-fashioned raspberry plate cake, and coffee.

There are some 200 kinds of cheese in all. There are the sharp-biting cheeses that men seem to like particularly. Then there are the white cheeses delicious with pie or in salads; the soft creamy types like Camembert, and the hard firm cheeses that are usually served in grated form. Each cheese has its ardent supporters—people who would go to any lengths to prove their favorite was superior to anything else in the cheese kingdom.

He is luckiest who likes almost all types. For a variety of cheeses certainly keeps dinner from becoming a monotonous affair.

For many, many years cheese has been a large part of our American diet. In this country we eat 370,000,000 pounds of American cheese every year.

American cheese may appear at any course during luncheon or dinner—as an appetizer, spread on crackers and toasted, grated in soup, or with the fish course.

A delicately flavored fish, such as filet of sole or filet of haddock is often served with a Mornay sauce—a cream sauce enriched with butter, and Parmesan and Gruyere cheese.

If cheese hasn't appeared in the fish course, perhaps it will be in the vegetables—in scalloped potatoes or in potato croquettes, on broccoli or fresh asparagus or tomatoes. Halves of tomatoes, topped with a slice of American cheese and then broiled, are welcome with the meat course.

Or cheese may come to dinner in the salad or desert course—if it arrives with dessert it's usually in the old-fashioned way, with a piece of hot apple pie.

I've seen cheese used as a centerpiece, too. At a stag party I attended not long ago a red Edam cheese, on a large silver tray, took the place of the usual roses. We had rare beefsteak that night, and baked potatoes and onions, and all we could eat of the centerpiece. That was a grand dinner. With the cheese we had a choice of half a dozen kinds of toasted crackers. And, of course, black coffee.

That's a real man's meal, all right. I've noticed that many men like cheese and crackers for evening refreshments, too. I've seen cheese trays in some of the department stores—polished oak boards set in silver frames. Of course, an ordinary tray serves the purpose. A cheese tray usually has at least four kinds of cheese on it. A good assortment includes thin slices of Swiss cheese, some sections of French Roquefort, American cheese, and a little cake of cream cheese for good measure.

By the way, remember that cheese should be cooked at a low temperature. High temperatures toughen it and make it stringy. And when you buy cheese, keep it in a cool place. Special dishes made for keeping cheese properly have tight covers and a compartment for vinegar to keep the cheese moist. You can improvise such a cheese container at home, though. Put a little vinegar in a bowl, invert a saucer over the vinegar and place the cheese on the saucer back. Keep the bowl covered, of course, to prevent the cheese from drying out in the air.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Powerful trucks, in greater numbers than usual, have been coming swiftly to Washington this week from the Carolinas. Most of them have been traveling by night. Their speed has been necessary whether spring rains poured or spring winds blew, for their cargoes are nothing less important than the luscious red-ripe strawberries that Washington is now enjoying. These berries are the food sensation of the week because seldom, if ever, have they been so plentiful, so good and so cheap in April. The almost uniform price has been 25 cents a quart.

Growers, buyers and berries are assembled thickly in the Carolinas for the grading, bidding and selling, according to a well-known fruit dealer in one of Washington's principal food markets. This fruit marketer has visited the strawberry growing districts. He reports this year's crop conditions unusually flourishing. The heavily loaded trucks, each carrying more than 100 crates, leave in the early evening, planning to arrive at Washington in about 24 hours. Two drivers are on each truck, practically always, to allow periods of rest. The recent experience of a lone driver of an egg truck on the Richmond pike, who overturned his truck and smashed his highly perishable cargo after he had gone to sleep from weariness, has placed many relief drivers on trucks with valuable loads.

"Never in my 21 years of experience have I seen strawberries so low priced and so good this early in the season," the authoritative representative of the retail fruit industry told the Meanderer.

Asparagus, this week's runner-up for popularity and interest with strawberries, continues to go lower in price. Generous bunches of thick-tipped asparagus, weighing not less than 1½ pounds, were selling for 20 cents in many markets. Asparagus is now coming from the Carolinas, too, displacing in many cases the California shipments.

The season for fresh pineapple this year should be very good, one dealer in a market out Fourteenth street way prophesied to the Meanderer. By the time June arrives 10 cents should buy an excellent fresh pineapple.

"Spring salad" is the label on a crisp, appetizing salad ready for discriminating buyers in one corner of a big, centrally located general food market. Shredded cabbage is the base of the salad, with touches of crisp relishes added. Another appetizing salad offered is made of celery, olives, peas, corn, pimentos, and pickles. Potato salad is there, too, of course. Deviled crabs, pickled pigs feet, pickled lamb's tongue and lattics potatoes are other choice bits ready for the table, that this appetizing corner displays.

Fish-hauling schooners, a dozen or more, were anchored about the busy wharf of the municipal fish market one bright morning this week when the Meanderer decided to investigate the fish offerings for Washington housewives. There would be many more dinners built about fish if the housewives should visit the very interesting local sea-food market occasionally. The Washington fish markets are probably the cleanest in the world. Sanitary regulations for sellers and buyers are very strict.

On the boats anchored about there must have been a total of approximately 125,000 pounds of fish, one boatman estimated. A large schooner's capacity is about 20,000 pounds. Most of the boats were carrying only parts of loads. Glimpses into the hold of the schooner that a kindly fish seller allowed the Meanderer to board, showed masses of croakers, herring, roe and shad roe very cleanly iced. Most of the fish on these boats were bought from individual fishermen around the mouth of the Potomac. Very few boats at the wharf carry men who have done the actual fishing.

Live lobsters, heavy and choice, sell for the low price of 45 cents a pound in one retail shop along the wharf. In the same shop fancy fresh shrimp from Mississippi—the best fresh shrimp should be greenish in color and large, the marketer told the Meanderer—are only 25 cents a pound. Shad roe is there for 50 cents a pound and roeshad for 20 cents a pound.

Wheels of cheese from Italy, made near Rome, weighing 30 to 40 pounds, are several years old, according to a dealer in fancy as well as plain food in a market out Seventh street way. This Roman cheese sells for 90 cents a pound.

The size of prunes is indicated by dealers with the markings 15-20, 18-24, 20-30, 30-40, and so on, running up to 100-110. The markings mean that number of prunes to the pound. The regular price on a small though excellent grade of prunes from Santa Clara, Calif., at a certain prune dealer's store on Seventh street is 25 cents for 4 pounds, and at times this dealer sells four pounds for 19 cents. In another shop in a business section of Fourteenth street northwest, where special health foods are sold, there is a prune, known as the Italian prune, or alkaline prune, which can be used with safety by persons suffering with acidity. The alkaline prune is tart, more appetizing to many persons than the ordinary prune.

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me why the leaves of my begonias are all in the condition of the one I am inclosing. MRS. W.

When the leaves of a begonia turn as yours have turned, it is usually a case of too much water and too little fresh air. This particular plant, I believe, requires more sun than it is getting. I would suggest watering it only every other day and would keep it in an eastern window, where it will receive the morning sun.

What can I plant in a cemetery urn besides geraniums and variegated vincas? I have considered pansies, but they last so short a time.

MRS. J. V.

I think the most beautiful plant for a cemetery urn is common English ivy. It is beautiful at all seasons and can be kept within bounds if given the proper training.

Could tulip bulbs be left in a vase all winter, and would they bloom as well in a garden vase as they would in the open border?

MRS. VIRGINIA F. P.

Yes, provided the vase was in the sun and they were given a light covering of leaves, peat moss or well-rotted manure.

I am anxious to transplant two small orange trees which I grew from seed. These seedlings are now three inches tall and are growing in a large pot. When should they be transplanted, and would it be best to plant them in my garden or should I keep them in pots? Of course, they would never live through a winter in a northern garden. I have a sun porch where they would have plenty of sun if I can raise them. BILL.

Transplant them into 6-inch pots at this time, one plant to a pot. Keep them where they will have plenty of heat in winter and on your porch in summer, provided your porch is open. Water them every day throughout the year and see that they have plenty of ventilation and that the soil in the pots is always loose. They should develop into rather decorative, small trees.

I have a heliotrope which, while healthy, has not bloomed of any account all winter. I have had it in an eastern window. Would it do to move it now to a southern window, where it will receive more sun?

MRS. HERBERT S.

Yes. Also keep it well watered and give it some plant food, only one application. Such stimulation may assist it in setting buds.

What can I do with an evergreen bush that is covered with little white specks which are not alive? The leaves are turning brown and falling off. MRS. H. A. D.

If specks are not alive they will not cause injury to the foliage, though you likely have reference to a scale insect which does not move about. Or perhaps it may be a case of red spider. Both these pests may be exterminated by syringing with a soap or miscible oil solution.

How should a crown of thorns be cared for? Does this plant require much sun or water? I have never had this plant before. PEGGY S.

The crown of thorns should have a sunny window and should be watered sparingly, increasing the amount when the plant is in active growth.

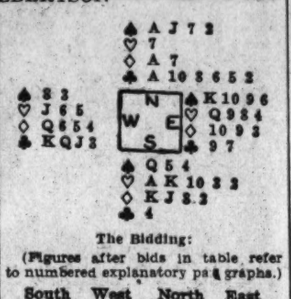
INADEQUATE DEFENSE

OCASIONALLY, a hand is played at the Contract table, the results of which are so amazing that, in analyzing them, it is almost impossible to determine how they were reached. Either the Declarer fails to realize the tricktaking possibilities of his hand, or defending players fail to utilize the defensive power of theirs, so that cards, otherwise almost worthless, assume, for the moment, the guise of Aces and Kings and take tricks with triumphant abandon.

Such a hand is one, played recently in a team-of-four match at the Deschapelles Club, New York.

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♡	Pass	2♣	Pass
2NT	Pass	3♠(1)	Pass
4♠(2)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—North's three spade bid is perhaps questionable, but the unbalance of his hand suggests trying out all the suit roads to game before selecting the shortest, but perilous notrump route.

2—South has adequate support for the spade suit, although realizing that North does not hold more than four spades. The failure to support hearts, and South's singleton club, suggest the danger of play at notrump.

Against the contract of four spades, East opened the Ten of diamonds. The Knave was played from Dummy, West played the Queen and North won with the Ace. North now led the singleton heart and followed with the King from Dummy, discarding a club. A small heart was then led and trumped in the closed hand. North now led the Ace of clubs and the deuce of clubs was trumped with a low spade in Dummy. The King of diamonds was then led, followed by a small diamond, which Declarer trumped. The next lead from the North hand was a club, upon which East elected to discard the heart Queen. This was a bad play and gave the Declarer an extra trick. The trick was trumped with the spade five in Dummy, and the last diamond led and trumped with the spade Ace. East, of course, was forced to undertrump. North now led another round of clubs, and nothing East could do could prevent the Declarer from making another trick.

The Declarer thus had the satisfaction of scoring all the tricks but the two final ones on a hand upon which game appeared doubtful, if there was an unfavorable break in trumps.

The plan of play adopted here was the only one through which game could have been made. To have played the hand other than as a cross-ruff would have resulted in losing control of the trump situation entirely.

At other tables, this hand was played at notrump by South, but the unfavorable distribution of all the suits caused the defeat of a game contract wherever it was undertaken.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The play of a hand at Contract Bridge not only involves a good plan, but the immediate capitalization of defensive errors by the opposing players. Inadequate defense permits the making of many a lost contract.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES McDONALD

She Was Once a Wall Flower.

DEAR Frances McDonald:—I saw the letter in today's Post by a "Couple of Wall Flowers" and also your letter. I can't resist answering. Your advice was exactly right, but I thought the "Couple of Wall Flowers" might think (as I have so often), that the advice was coming from an older person who just didn't understand the tribulations of youth!

To start with, I am 20 years old, and have been out of high school almost three years. When I was a senior I spent my days, and a good many of my nights wondering "how come" I wasn't popular. I must admit that I did have one great love, but he also became disinterested just about the time I graduated. So, for about a year afterward, I was just about the most complete wall flower that ever lived.

When I was in high school I belonged to a couple of clubs, had minor parts in plays, &c., but I just didn't seem to become one of the elite. I know now what was the trouble. For instance, one of the clubs I belonged to was the debating society. I never talked about it to my friends, because, to tell the truth, I was a little ashamed of it. I had an idea that the realy fascinating people didn't debate—that only people like me did things like that. I have no doubt that if I had yelped about it all over the place and told some of the really amusing things that happened during the debates, I should have gotten along much better.

About six months after I graduated I received a bid to a sorority—and not such an awfully good one, either. But I accepted, and that did things to me. Not right away. But eventually I myself became very much interested in it and the girls. And I discovered that, lo and behold! the girls were as much interested in me as I was in them. Now I'm president of the national board, and have a great time.

I used to hate to work instead of going to college as my friends did, but now I regale my friends with some of the silly things I have to do. (I'm one of these secretaries who has to do simply everything from taking care of the boss' children to taking care of the office! and I find that they're interested—not so much in my job—but in me!

Just so that I won't give the impression that I never have dates (as that is what the wall flowers are interested in) if I don't receive a proposal at least every six months, I think business is bad—very bad! Also when I was in high school I secretly thought that the girls who were popular were very probably also wild. Now I don't go out with boys who drink—at least not when they're with a girl—and I don't go in for petting. But I am friendly with the boys—we talk about what we do and what we think, and flirt not a little.

Everyone should become interested in themselves, and I don't mean conceited. I know a simply fascinating girl, who was at one time considered about the dumbest person around, who suddenly started saying, "My dear, I haven't had a date for simply ages!" and talking about what she had been doing—such as the movies she'd seen, the play she'd seen last month, and her tennis lessons—in a very enthusiastic manner. And it wasn't very long until I saw her dancing in one of the best hotels in town with a very nice boy. And yet it wasn't anything sensational that started her on the road to popularity—just being interested in the things that we all do, and telling about them in an interesting way.

So don't give up—but stop dreaming about what you'd like to do—and start talking about what you are doing. C. M.

How to Be Beautiful

Expert Answers Questions Propounded by Readers.

SHORTY: (1) A red nose may be caused by poor circulation, improper diet, an unusually sensitive skin that is affected by exposure to cold and also to changes in temperature, tight, constricting clothing or constipation. Be sure to eat wholesome, nourishing foods, plenty of fresh fruits and green vegetables, avoid fatty foods, rich desserts or excess sweets; avoid excess tea, coffee or stimulating drinks, as well as spicy condiments, &c. Be sure to exercise every day and keep elimination regular. For local treatment, massaging with a good skin food and brisk patting with a skin tonic should help to alleviate the redness. Use a little zinc oxide ointment at night before retiring. (2) I am sure you are underweight as 99 pounds is not enough for 5 feet, but you do not give me your age. (3) The following colors should be very flattering to you: Black, with color contrast, lingerie touches, &c., deep warm, rose-gray or blue gray to exactly match your eyes; orchid, soft shades of red, like old rose tones; soft, off-white shades; yellow if it exactly matches the hair. Be careful to avoid any colors that have a darkening or sallowing effect on the skin.

F. R.—Yes, dandruff and eruptions often go together. Wash your hair once a week. A dry shampoo occasionally will help. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for my hair bulletins and repeat your question on dandruff. Also send for my bulletin on blackheads and eruptions. You should weigh about 109 pounds. You may wear your hair off the forehead, but do not expose the ears, as that tends to make face look fuller. Green and brown (light brown) make a very nice color scheme. Plucking the eyebrows should not cause pimples. A good rouge will not harm the skin. Use it sparingly, however. I do hope this answers all your questions, and hereafter if you wish personal advice on so many questions, won't you send self-addressed, stamped envelope, so that I can include the necessary bulletins giving full information.

Constant Reader—I am sorry I can not mention trade names in my column. There are any number of excellent skin tonics and protective preparations on the market. You are wise to start now to protect the skin against freckles and sunburn. A skin tonic should be used after a cleansing cream, to cleanse and tone the skin, stimulate the circulation and keep skin clear. A bleach does not prevent freckles; it dims them. There are many powder bases on the market, both cream and lotion, that protect the skin against the sun and wind and at the same time help the skin to keep powder clingy for a long time.

Friend—Yes, evening rouge may be much brighter than that used for day-time wear.

Woman Given $9,000 Auto Injury Damages

Mrs. Jean Rushmore Patterson, 2501 Massachusetts avenue northwest, yesterday was assessed $9,000 by a jury in Justice Peyton Gordon's court because of injuries her automobile inflicted upon Mrs. Etta H. Brown in February, 1929.

Mrs. Brown, it was testified, was standing in a safety zone on Wisconsin avenue when Mrs. Patterson's automobile, driven by her chauffeur, struck her, inflicting permanent injuries. The case, which had been on trial all week, was prosecuted by Attorneys Michael M. Doyle and Frederick A. Thuee.

"TAURUS."

IF April 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to midnight. The danger hours are from 8 a. m. to 10:30 a. m. and from 8:30 p. m. to 10 p. m.

Fate will seem to be for, not against, you on April 30, and it will not be difficult to materialize plans and to execute ideas. It will be a good time to spring difficult requests or to try doubtful experiments. Favors travel.

The child born on this April 30 will find itself in a difficult world because of its disposition and nature. It will be lacking in self-confidence, and will have a blunted sense of humor. It will be extremely conscientious, and will strongly desire to do and to be right.

Born on April 30, your exterior self is fascinating and you create wonderful first impressions, and are at once recognized as a significant human being. It is easy for you to adapt yourself to gay and general intercourse, and you know how to please your audience. Your interest, however, in every one is largely selfish in what you can get from them or through them. You are a sentimentalist—a taster of emotions. On the one hand, you have keen perception, unusual gifts and decided charm; on the other hand, you are cold, cruel and fickle.

You are not fond of hard work, and you always use your wits to save your hands and feet. You are always willing to accept a lift, but you give few lifts to others gratis. You can dream, plan, promote or organize, but you are not fitted to execute your own plans or those of others. You are a most convincing talker or writer, but a poor doer. You make many friends who are able to help you, in both a social and business way.

Your position in life will be raised through marriage. Your greatest sorrows and disappointments in life will come through those of the opposite sex. Your eyes are blind when your heart is touched. You are not strong enough to resist flattery.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Sun suits, play suits and pyjama housewear for the very young miss. (Dah-ray designs.)

NEW YORK, April 29.—Busy mothers never seem too busy to hunt short cuts to chic in their kiddies' clothes. No wonder! For the chic is the practical, these days.

And every mother has to consider the upkeep of a child's garment, quite as much as its style. This is either money upkeep, or time upkeep, if she does her own laundry—and either one has to be shortened as much as possible for the modern mother.

The latest wrinkle for children is play pyjamas. And wrinkle it is, one that has taken the children's hearts by storm, but mother only groans at the task of washing and ironing them! Still, in the materials that do not require ironing, children's pyjamas are not bad.

Sun suits for the tiny ones are all the vogue now, and rightly, since we have discovered the importance of sun to health. And these, being nothing more or less than panties on suspenders, are not hard to wash. While a play suit is not a sun suit, for slightly older sister, is the latest practical thing for sister and mother. Kiddies can get too much sun, of course. And too much sun mother must guard against. So the sun suit goes on only for a short while, then the play suit, as sketched in the right hand corner. The sun suit is sketched in the center, and a pyjama suit, not too hard for mother to make and keep up, at the left.

And a leaflet is ready, or will be ready when you send your stamped, self-addressed envelope for it, telling you how to make a sun suit like the one illustrated, a play suit, and play pyjamas for little girls. These take very little time to make, materials are delightfully inexpensive, and you had better get that stamped, self-addressed envelope off to the Dare Department of The Washington Post before you forget it!

Organdy ruffles are seen everywhere, white, lightning black and navy blue at neck and wrists, often in vestees and modesty pieces. I have always loved organdy for the touch o' white! It is so fresh and crisp, so undeniably flattering. One puts lots of handwork on these ruffles, embroidery, or tiny gathers, shirring, pleats, tucks—anything. And then one gets the most out of the first few wearings—organdy does lose its crispness after repeated washings, and is difficult to starch back to its original loveliness.

Lovely open weaves in wool approach wool lace in effect, yet are not, merely woollens woven with so open a mesh that the crowding together in spots of the warp and wool make the weave look like a lace design.

• • • •

Isn't it nice that handwork is so popular—and so expensive? Because just the will to do it, clever fingers, and spending odd moments at it will make any woman's wardrobe look like Mrs. Van de Veres herself. Try it—you never know until you try, whether you can do handwork or not. Incidentally, making tiny tucks, gathers and things on your sewing machine with the attachments isn't a bad idea, especially if you use fine thread that scarcely shows—and looks like handwork.

Last chance to send for the leaflet full of little nothings you can do in the house to decorate it for spring!

Au revoir!

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

TAMMANY Tiger's tail got a twist yesterday when Station WNYC, owned by the City of New York, was eased off its frequency of 570 kilocycles, where it had not been working in harmony with Station WMCA, a first-class New York commercial station. WNYC was assigned to a daylight channel of 810 kilocycles, where it is calculated the municipal station will not bother other stations. Station WCCO, at Minneapolis, is on the same channel, but it is so far away that it is not believed the two stations will conflict.

It was a victory for Station WMCA, represented by Littlepage, Littlepage & Spearman, which is now allowed to share its channel with WPCH, New York, formerly on 810. WMCA and WPCH are owned by the same people, Donald Flamm and M. K. Gilliam.

The vote of the commission was 4 to 1. Commissioner Starbuck, Democrat, of New York, supposed to represent the Tammany interests on the Radio Commission, cast the negative vote.

Complaints are being received that the Arlington time signal interferes with Station WLW, Cincinnati, at 10 p. m. broacasting "Amos 'n' Andy." Because this feature now comes at 6 o'clock many miss it and tune in at the later hour. WLW is one of the best outside stations to pick it up, but WHAS, Louisville, is also usually good.

ROSE CHANELLE, dark-eyed little contralto, who is singing her way to local radio fame in the Torridheat Ensemble Hour on WMAL each Monday and Friday at 6:45 p. m., didn't have an idea in the world of a radio career two months ago. In fact, it was an almost forgotten program back in 1928 which won her the place she now holds.

Four years ago she sang at a dinner in a local hotel which happened to be broadcast by a local station. A few weeks ago the announcer of that program, no longer connected with any station, called her up and arranged for an audition which secured her the leading spot on her current program.

Her real name clearly indicates her Italian blood. She was born 27 years ago in New York, one of five children. At the age of 3 she moved to Washington with her family.

She began to sing in public at recitals and musicals at the age of 12. A few years later she began to study seriously at the Washington Academy of Music. Later she worked under Oscar Seagle in New York.

In addition to singing in local church choirs, she starred for several seasons with the St. Patrick Players. At present she is contralto soloist at St. Peter's Church.

She can fill an auditorium in a concert appearance, but is barely audible to others in a studio when she is on the air. She is rated as the easiest artist to handle on the air by WMAL engineers.

A SPECIAL "Radio City program," with S. L. "Roxy" Rothafel as master of ceremonies, will be broadcast for an hour and one-half tonight. The headliners on the special progarm will include "Amos 'n' Andy," Mme. Schumann-Heink, Gene and Glenn, the Sisters of the Skillet, the Southernaires and the Cavaliers.

The program also includes five former members of the famous Roxy Gang, which made radio history—Gladys Rice, Carolyn Andrews, Betsy Ayres, Elizabeth Lennox and Viola Philo. Erno Rappee will direct the orchestra.

Other "names" included in the schedule are Fred Hufsmith, the "Three Graces," J. Alden Edkins, Taylor Holmes, Louise Scheerer, Theodore Webb, Sylvia Froos, Dave Apollon and Borah Minnevich.

"Amos 'n' Andy" will not appear until nearly midnight their act being scheduled next to the last feature. "Roxy" and M. H. Aylesworth, president of N. B. C., will tell of plans for Radio City, huge amusement center now under construction in New York.

THE Rev. Dr. John A. Ryan, rector of Catholic University, representing the National Catholic Welfare Council, will be among the speakers on unemployment before a meeting of the Joint Committee on Unemployment here today, to be broadcast over WRC, beginning at 1:30 p. m. Other speakers include Dr. Reinold Neibuhr, of the Union Theological Seminary of New York; Dr. Edward L. Israel, chairman of the committee on social justice, Association of American Rabbis, and Sidney Hillman, of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

Having won national prominence as the leader of the independent radio industry in its fight to dissolve the so-called radio trust, Oswald F. Schuette has been retained by the National Association of Broadcasters to direct the copyright activities of the radio broadcasting industry. Mr. Schuette has been given wide authority to represent the broadcasting industry as such, and will give immediate attention to a study of the entire field of music. He will also personally supervise the legislative fight in Congress to secure just protection for broadcasting as a major user of music.

The voice of Rose Ponselle, soprano, which will be heard during the special G. E. Circle program tomorrow afternoon, will be picked up from the S. S. Saturnia, 1,200 miles at sea. She will be accompanied by Tullio Serafin, Metropolitan conductor, who is also aboard the Saturnia.

International complications were encountered in arranging for Miss Ponselle's participation. Consent first had to be secured from the Italian government, which supervises wave lengths assigned to Italian ships, and from the Marconi Co., under whose jurisdiction radio equipment is installed on Italian liners.

The Italian government gave the necessary permission, and the arrangements were made for installation of a 200-watt voice transmitter on the Italian liner—the first to have such equipment installed, but it came so late that it was necessary for N. B. C. engineers to sail on the liner in order to set up the broadcasting apparatus. Weeks are required ordinarily to install such equipment.

The special program, featuring twelve famous operatic names, will be on WRC for one hour tomorrow afternoon, beginning at 4 o'clock.

EFFECTIVE today, K-7, the dramatized experiences of American and foreign secret service operatives during the World War, will be presented on Saturday nights (WRC, 8 p. m.).

Mayor Walker and Dr. John H. Finley will speak during the dedication of the replica of old Federal Hall, now nearing completion in Bryant Park today (WJZ, 3 p. m.), a George Washington Bicentennial event.

Other celebrations today include a reenactment of Washington's famous farewell scene from Paunce's Tavern, still standing at 84 Pearl street in the heart of Manhattan's financial section (WMAL, 10 a. m.). The WJZ network will carry a description of the Washington Day parade, which will commemorate Washington's inauguration, beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

The mighty heart of Jack Hightower, circus giant, will boom out over the country this afternoon (WRC, 5:30 o'clock), when Jack will hold up his 8 feet and 6 inches in front of a microphone, and O. H. Caldwell, editor, will strap electrodes to his wrists. These will catch the electric currents generated by the giant's heart action, and carry them to the radio network.

Caldwell will also demonstrate scientifically the effect of spring upon a young man's fancy, using John S. Young, announcer, as a subject.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

VEGETABLE MILK.

IF, for any reason, a baby can not digest milk, the mother has a choice between substitutes. One is vegetable milk.

Dr. Dorothy E. Lane, of San Francisco, gives the following directions for making vegetable milk. The necessary ingredients are: Unbleached almonds, peanuts, whole wheat flour (genuine), shorts, soy bean flour, cornstarch, sugar, salt, and several vegetables, such as celery, chard, carrots, string beans, and lettuce. This list of vegetables might be extended considerably, although she specifies that plums, prunes, cranberries, and spinach are not to be used.

Method of Making.

Unbleached almonds are ground to make an almond meal. Unroasted peanuts are also ground to a flour or near that.

Three level tablespoonsful (¾ oz.) almond flour is added to ½ tablespoon of peanut flour. These are mixed. To this mixture is added ½ tablespoon of whole wheat flour, ¼ tablespoon shorts, 1 tablespoon soy bean flour, and ½ tablespoon cornstarch. These are mixed well.

The vegetable juice puree or extract—whatever one wishes to call it—is made as follows:

The vegetables chosen are washed thoroughly. They are ground raw in a meat grinder and mixed well. They are then covered with water and set in a refrigerator and left overnight or for several hours. In the morning the juice is extracted twice, the first time cold. After that water is added to the vegetables and they are brought to a boil. The second extraction is that with the hot water.

A little of the cold vegetable water is added to the mixed flours and the whole is well mixed. Then the remainder of the vegetable extract is added and the mixture of flours and vegetable juice is boiled for three minutes. It is then rubbed through a fine puree sieve to get rid of the fiber and coarser material. One tablespoonful of sugar is added. Dr. Lane used dextromaltose and increases the quantity slightly if the baby is a boy. (Boys seem to be in need of more sugar than girls; that is, in babyhood. In adolescence it may be the other way.) To the mixture a little salt is added.

Not counting the hours in which the vegetables steep in water in the ice box this vegetable milk can be prepared in one-half hour.

The young baby on mother's milk is gradually changed over to vegetable milk. A very little is given the first day, more the second and more day by day. At three months of age the use of mother's milk is wholly discontinued and the baby is living on vegetable milk, fruit juice and one of the fish liver oils. After a short while crackers are added to the diet.

RIALTO'S PREMIERE MAGNET TO SOCIETY

Hollywood Atmosphere Is Given Presentation of "Doomed Battalion."

By NELSON B. BELL.

Hollywood Boulevard moved across the continent to Ninth street last night.

Crowds lined both sides of the street from the corner of G almost to H, as if an inaugural parade might be about to pass; blinding searchlights played over the front of the Rialto Theater; the Veterans of Foreign Wars' Band played martial music as governmental and ambassadorial dignitaries debouched from their shiny limousines and filed smilingly with the flower of Washington society into the theater as motion picture cameras ground the fact of their arrival into celluloid and Herb Gordon's Whispering Orchestra greeted them with less strident melodies as they entered the Temple of Apollo foyer, festooned with the flags of all nations.

It was, indeed, a gala evening in the theater; one of the most notable first nights ever recorded in the theatrical annals of the Capital and by far the most recherche event the Rialto has celebrated since the night of its original opening back in December, 1918, this world premiere of "The Doomed Battalion."

Powerful Story of Film.

Above everything else, the Rialto management is to be congratulated upon having gotten its program under way at approximately the appointed hour and having sent a happy crowd out into the street at the reasonable hour of 10:30. Considering the elaborateness of the preliminary ceremonies, this in itself was an achievement.

The merit of "The Doomed Battalion," a Universal picture produced by Carl Laemmle, jr., and sponsored by his father, the veteran Carl Laemmle, justified the extravagance of the circumstances surrounding its presentation.

In the period of the World War, with the Dolemite Alps furnishing a background of imposing grandeur, this unique film presents drama of something the epic quality of the siege of Verdun. It is tense, vivid, stark drama, played close to death, with little attempt at "comedy relief" but a substantial thread of warm heart interest woven into its warp and woof.

Oddly enough—or perhaps not so oddly—the passing of the years has mollified the bitter prejudices of the war until we find ourselves, in contemplating the development of this story of two friends, one an Austrian, the other an Italian, at war in a no-man's-land pitched on peaks that pierce the clouds, lending our sympathy wholly to the Austrian, an erstwhile enemy. This is the role played with simple directness and genuine forcefulness by Luis Trenker, one of the authors of the story. Artur Franchini is Victor Varconi, no less effective than his staunch friend and worthy enemy whom he seeks by a gigantic task of sapping to blast from the position that must be cleared before the Italians can launch their "big push." The young wife and mother, whose husband is marooned on the mountain tops and whose opposing commander is billeted in her home, is portrayed with an appealing charm and infinite pathos by Tala Birell.

Cabinet Members Attend.

Roles of lesser importance are in the capable hands of such familiar players as Albert Conti, Gustav von Seyffertitz, C. Henry Gordon, Gibson Gowland and Henry Armetta.

The projection of the major feature was preceded by a new issue of the Universal News, with Graham McNamee amplifying the pictured events with running comment, and one of John Hix' Post features, "Strange as it Seems," executed in natural color.

The members of President Hoover's Cabinet in attendance were Attorney General and Mrs. Mitchell, Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of Commerce Robert Patterson Lamont, Secretary of War Patrick Hurley, Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and Secretary of Agriculture Arthur Hyde.

The Ambassadors included Nobile Giacomo de Martino, Italy; Mr. Paul Claudel, France; Herr Friedrich W. von Prittwitz, Germany; Mr. Katsuji Debuchi, Japan; Mr. Paul May, Belgium; Mr. Edgar L. G. Prochnik, Austria.

In addition to the Ambassadors named, the military and naval attaches of all the legations in Washington attended.

The members of the Senate foreign relations committee attending were: Senators William E. Borah, George H. Moses, Arthur Capper, David A. Reed, Simeon D. Fess, Robert M. La Follette, jr., Arthur H. Vandenberg, Arthur R. Robinson, Otis F. Glenn, Bronson Cutting, Key Pittman, Joseph T. Robinson, Thomas J. Walsh, Pat Harrison, Walter F. George, Robert P. Wagner, Hugo L. Black, Tom Connally, James Hamilton Lewis and Henrick Shipstead.

Army Well Represented.

United States military dignitaries included Maj. Gen. Fred C. Ainsworth, Maj. Gen. Robert H. Allen, Maj. Gen. Fred T. Austin, Maj. Gen. Harry G. Bishop, Maj. Gen. William M. Black, Maj. Gen. THE NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

FOX

"THE TRIAL OF VIVIENNE WARE." Fox picturization of a story by Kenneth M. Ellis, adapted to the screen by Phillip Klein and Barry Conners, featuring Joan Bennett, Donald Cook, Lillian Bond, "Skeets" Gallagher and ZaSu Pitts. Directed by William K. Howard. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Here is the most expertly contrived of all the courtroom dramas.

By a swift-moving transition from trial room to the actual scene of events, the visualization of testimony being given on the witness stand as well as of broadcast reports being put on the air and a deft utilization of the device of voice coming through extraneous scenes, William K. Howard, the director, has done a well-nigh perfect job of picture-making.

This is not at all to say that the story is bullet proof, any more than the victim of the murder of which Vivienne Ware was accused, or some of the witnesses at the trial were, but if one can take melodrama with a grain or two of salt and still like it the more for the seasoning, this is a great dish.

The formula is a familiar one—perfidious roue, innocent young heiress, jealous chorus girl sweetheart, equally jealous gangster running the night club where the chorus girl is employed, and all that sort of thing, but a new twist is given these usual ingredients of upper-and-lower-crust affairs by making the attorney for the defense the former betrothed of the lovely young woman on trial and himself a suspect in the case. It may sound a bit involved but, as a matter of fact, it is not. And it travels at a mile-a-minute clip with never a let-down from first flash to the final verdict—and it will be necessary for you to view the film to find out what that is, so far as this department is concerned.

Joan Bennett, whom I have always deemed most believable and most beautiful of all the gifted daughters of a distinguished father, has never been better than in her present role, and never half so gorgeous to look upon. Donald Cook, in the opposite part of the young attorney, also acquits himself with honor, both as an actor and as a gentleman, and numerous others contribute high-pressure performances. Not the least of these is Lillian Bond, as the chorus girl for whom it looks pretty dark for a while when the lawyers get after her there on the stand.

"Skeets" Gallagher and ZaSu Pitts, as the radio announcers, inject a welcome and witty line of chatter over an ostensible microphone that constitutes the comedy vein that the play could hardly do without.

On the stage is one of the most colorful and picturesque of all the Fanchon & Marco "Ideas"—"La Plaza." They probably called it "La Plaza" because it is laid in a patio! At any rate, it abounds in clever dancing, excellent singing, some astonishing acrobatics and a succession of ensembles that are no less than dazzling.

Two remarkably trained fox terriers, Jack and Jill, put on an amazing gymnastic routine with one Brancel as their stooge. Danny Grayson is a tap dancer who works after the fashion of both Bill Robinson and Will Mahoney and, as far as he goes—and he goes pretty far—is the equal of either.

Phil Lampkin continues as a spirited and capable master of ceremonies and this week tells an amusing story with the aid of the orchestra, much in the style of Tom McNaughton's famous "Three Trees."

The Fox Movietone News is particularly rich in items of interest and was one of the most applauded features of the bill at yesterday afternoon's first performance—largely due to the fact that the prohibition poll went almost 80 per cent wet!

This is a bill not to be missed by the judicious.

COLUMBIA

"NIGHT COURT." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production based on a play by Mark Hellinger and Charles Beahan, featuring Phillips Holmes, Walter Huston, Anita Page and Lewis Stone. Directed by W. S. Van Dyke. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

If you do not object to six reels of conventional treatment of judicial intrigue and corruption, a palpable case of "framing," and the depiction of other attributes of the demi-monde, the last three reels of "Night Court" will well repay you for all the milder introductory sequences. In those closing reels there is the swellest trial scene that has been screened, the only series of sequences in which the histrionic ability of this "all-star" cast is fully realized.

Throughout the weaving of the fundamental developments of the plot, there is a definite lack of enthusiasm on the part of the company, and the story of how Judge Moffett frames the innocent Mary Thomas, wife of a taxi driver, to protect his own hide from the disclosures of the clean-up judge, Osgood, drags on and on, dwelling now on Moffett and his girl friend, now on the domesticity of the Thomases, now on Osgood's crusade.

Until Thomas "abducts" Moffett and tries a variety of third degree on him, you have seen nothing. At that point, however, the play takes on a new lease of life, and when Thomas literally drags the recalcitrant judge into night court, there is action and plenty of it. To divulge the nature of the climacteric outburst of dramatic pyrotechnics would appreciably lessen the thrill of the final verdict.

Heading a cast which is nothing if not worthy is Walter Huston, presiding over the night court in a creditable manner—histrionically only, if you please. The unfortunate Mrs. Thomas is played by Anita Page, whose emotional explosions are excellently depicted. Phillips Holmes is entrusted with the role of the taxi driver and, in his outbursts of righteous anger, is everything that could be desired. Nothing need be said about Lewis Stone, as the crusading judge, for it is apparently quite impossible for him to deliver himself of a job even remotely suggesting mediocrity.

No less convincing are the lesser members of the cast: John Miljan, as the far from incorruptible counselor; Tully Marshall, as Moffett's right (and, perhaps, left) hand; Noel Francis, as Moffett's mistress, and Jean Hersholt, as a janitor.

For the first of the picture's failing to elicit more than a tired sigh, the Messrs. Hellinger and Beahan must stand accountable. The intrusion of superfluous characters and situations and the employment of soliloquies cause most of the delay. Had these extraneous matters either been telescoped or eliminated, there is no question but that the finest exposition of corruption in high places would have resulted.

The tenseness of the closing scenes of "Night Court" is counter-pointed by "On the Loose," a Mack Sennett comedy, costarring ZaSu Pitts and Thelma Todd, with Claude Allister and John Loder much in evidence, and a fleeting fade-out with the inimitable Laurel-Hardy combine. A release of the Paramount News rounds out the bill.

PALACE

"WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of William Johnston's novel, "Limpy," starring Jackie Cooper, with Chic Sale and Ralph Graves. Directed by Harry Pollard. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

It's really too bad. They could have (and certainly should have) stopped with that grand Cooper kid and Chic Sale, but they knew better, trust them not to miss a trick. They got out every known or remembered tear-jerking device, some of them so hoary that this must be a bicentennial year for them, too. The result is not only damp, it's pretty dismal.

And as for this "$4.40 musical comedy" business, "Girl Crazy," in two acts and six scenes, is rather stereotyped without much entertainment to offer except one very graceful and good blonde dancer, some lovely costumes, and several Gershwin tunes—"Bidin' My Time," "Embraceable You," "I Got Rhythm" and "Delilah." Frances Upton and Hal Thompson are pleasant as the principals, though a bit lackadaisical; Bert Gordon might be funny if he had a chance; Vivian Janis does well by her torch numbers, but the whole affair lacks the sparkle and speed and freshness we might hope for from so heralded an innovation.

Back to "When a Feller——

Poor little Coop, with that Chevalier lip of his, will be playing "Hamlet" next, if he doesn't watch out, for these bright Hollywood lads.

If one tear is good, two must be twice as good, according to their simple arithmetic, and a sob is worth its weight in gold, so Jackie plays a lame lad who has hardly any fun and who cries from the beginning until almost the end. In one or two dry intervals for Jackie Chic Sale loses his job and gets ready to move to the poor farm, just to add to the merriment. Such sniffing you've never heard!

Uncle Jonas (Dead-Shot Tucker in the war with Spain and during Indian fightis with Buffalo Bill; Knock 'Em Out Tucker of the prize ring, and the Alaskan supervisor of fish who drove salmon from the Klondike to the Columbia River without losing a fish, all in one) is the only person who wants little Limpy to forget his lameness and timidity and be like other boys. Father and mother, strangely overdrawn and underdrawn characters, respectively, are too fearful of the boy's health, and so he grows up eternally afraid and unable to fend for himself. Eventually he comes into his own, and, thank heavens, licks his bullying, impossibly vicious Cousin Freddie.

Jackie is again his amazing little, lovable, actor self, undaunted by poor material. Chic Sale, as old Uncle Jonas, is unusually good, and between them they do wonders with a lame story. They have considerable fun between showers, and glory be, end smiling.

Ralph Graves, as the father, overacts horribly in one strangely burlesqued scene, then steadies down to better things. Dorothy Peterson is attractive as the negative mother, while Cousin Freddie is a young fiend incarnate.

The newsreel completes the bill.

METROPOLITAN

"BEAUTY AND THE BOSS." Warner Bros. picturization of the play, "The Church Mouse," by Paul Frank and Ladislaus Fodor, featuring Marian Marsh and Warren William. Directed by Roy Del Ruth. Reviewed Friday night by Don B. Reed.

This sprightly comedy offers Marian Marsh an opportunity to do the best work she has done for Warner Bros., her characterization of "the church mouse" being one that will long be remembered by those who see the film. The church mouse, in this particular instance, is just as poor, if not poorer, than the proverbial rodent inhabiting the edifices erected for worship.

Having a comedy to produce, a cast of comedians was necessary and the selections in "Beauty and the Boss" are excellent. Miss Marsh proves herself an actress of considerable proportions in handling this light, fluffy and yet rather difficult role, and she is assisted ably in the general fun-making by Frederick Kerr, Charles Butterworth and David Manners, all of whom seem to enter into the spirit of the play.

Warren William, likewise, in not entirely bereft of a sense of humor despite the fact that he works like a machine in his bank; drives his employes, completes great mergers and in general controls a great deal of business and money. Incidentally he finds good-looking secretaries annoying until Miss Marsh is suddenly transformed from a church mouse into a ravishing beauty. Need the rest be said?

Women are wild about Baron Von Ulrich, multimillionaire. He plays with them at night, but bars them during business hours. Having just fired one secretary for being too attractive, he is approached by a determined, but innocent young woman who talks herself into the job. She is a perfect secretary, he finds, and she finds him the object of her love. Not until she does her transformation act, however, does he realize his true feelings.

Mr. William is convincing as the busy business man and delightful as the pursuer of "research work" during his evening hours. As said before, Miss Marsh goes him one better in the role of the poor little stenographer suddenly become the idol of all the men in sight.

The rival love interest is furnished by Mary Doran, while Messrs. Kerr, as a friend of Von Ulrich's, and David Manners, as the Baron's brother, do their best to keep Susie, the church mouse, from falling too easily for the Baron. Charles Butterworth, as the Baron's financial secretary, wanders in and out of the action, always droll, always funny in appearance and always with a laugh-producing remark on his lips.

"The Cole Case," an S. S. Van Dyne mystery yarn, with a trick finish that is clever; a musical short called "Old Songs for New," featuring Georgie Stoll and his band, in which "The Washington Post March" plays an important part, and the Paramount Sound News complete the program. And if El Brendel doesn't describe a lot of battleships in the newsreel, somebody ought to investigate.

RKO-KEITH'S

"SYMPHONY OF SIX MILLION." Radio Pictures' filmization of an original story by Fannie Hurst, adapted to the screen by Bernard Schubert and J. Walter Ruben, featuring Ricardo Cortez and Irene Dunne, supported by Gregory Ratoff and Anna Appel. Directed by Gregory La Cava. Reviewed (second week) by Don B. Reed.

Based on life in New York's Ghetto, revealing all the humor and pathos which accompanies the struggles of the poor in their efforts to reach the heights, this Fannie Hurst story is calculated to arouse the emotions—and does.

It is intensely realistic in its presentation of characters; it offers sufficient humor to keep the sad realities of life from making the picture depressing and it is splendidly done by a capable cast, headed by Ricardo Cortez and Irene Dunne.

The pivtotal character in the play is Cortez, the ambitious son of a tailor. His success as a surgeon brings the family up in the world, but with riches he loses his sense of duty to his profession with the result that children suffer and finally his own father dies because the son has not the skill to save him.

"Symphony of Six Million" is an excellent mixture of tears and laughter, done in workmanlike manner.

Auxiliary subjects include an issue of RKO-Pathe News and "Magic Art," a short reel.

LOEW, INC., TAKES OVER FOX THEATER

Will Operate That House in Addition to Present Holdings Here.

By NELSON B. BELL.

The arrangement whereby Loew, Inc., owners of the Palace and Columbia Theaters, in this city, take over the 20-year lease of the Fox Theater and assume operation of that house in addition to their present holdings, the last proposal of which was exclusively announced in The Post on April 6, was consummated yesterday afternoon, when Carter Barron, managing director of the Loew Washington interests, took charge of the Fox property.

Final determination of managerial personnel and policies for the Fox, Palace and Columbia Theaters will not be made known until Loew home-office executives arrive in the Capital tomorrow.

It is looked upon as a certainty in informed theatrical circles, however, that the present Palace policy of combined feature pictures and Loew stage units will be transferred to the Fox and the Columbia's straight picture policy, with no fixed limit to length of run, will be simultaneously shifted to the Palace. This insures an approximate increase of 1,000 in seating capacity for both. The Columbia, under this arrangement presumably will become a second-run "grind" house.

The final accomplishment of a consolidation that has long been contemplated will result advantageously to the motion picture patron by making available for the Palace and Fox screens a wider choice of first-run film product than it has heretofore been possible to choose from for the major bookings.

The Fanchon & Marco "Ideas" that have constituted the stage portion of the bills at the Fox will be automatically eliminated from presentation in Washington. Contrary to previous reports they will not be contracted for by any other Washington exhibitor interest, according to present plans.

It was further definitely stated by Mr. Barron yesterday that the assumption of the lease of the Fox Theater and control of that playhouse in no way involves control or operation of the National Press Club Building in which the theater is located, as has also erroneously been reported.

Choir to Sing On Air Network

St. Olaf Lutheran Group to Make Radio Debut Next Sunday.

The St. Olaf Lutheran Choir will be heard for the first time on a Coast-to-Coast network Sunday, May 8, when they will sing a sacred concert from 1:30 to 2 p. m., Eastern daylight saving time, over the Columbia Broadcasting System. The broadcast will originate in the studio of Station WCCO, Minneapolis, Minn. The program follows:

"Built on the Rock the Church Doth Stand," L. M. Lindemann; choral anthem with barytone solo; Alvin Lewis, soloist. "Agnu Dei," B. Kallinikoff. "This Is the Sight That Gladdens," J. Crueger; 'Lost in the Night," Finnish folksong; soprano solo with choir accompaniment; Gertrude Boe Overby, soloist; "O Sacred Head Now Wounded," H. L. Hassler. Two German Christmas songs, arranged by Albert Kranz; (a) "Heiligste Nacht" ("Holiest Night"), folksong from the Tyrol; (b) "Geistliches Wiegenlied," sacred cradle song from upper Silesia. "Praise the Lord," Peter Sohren.

Boy in Critical State From Mysterious Hurts

Cornelius Manihan, 12 years old, of 1724 Seventeenth street northwest, is in a critical condition in Children's Hospital with a possible fracture of the skull.

The boy was found late yesterday lying unconscious on the sidewalk at Seventeenth and R streets northwest by James E. Gilmore, of 1529 F street northwest. Police were unable to learn how he was injured.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THE second annual music week festival got off to what may conservatively be termed a flying start yesterday. The local organizations participating in the opening day's prize cup competition acquitted themselves with fine credit and supplied a program feature of genuine entertainment value.

Today will be heard the Fox Theater Military Band, under the direction of Capt. J. B. MacKenzie, at 12:46; the T. N. T. Glee Club, of Central High School boys, at 3:35; the Lyric Club of Central High School girls at 6:20, and at 9 p. m. the Central Songsters, a mixed chorus from Central High School.

The schedule for tomorrow calls for the appearance of the Mount Vernon Methodist Church Choir of 70 voices, the American University mixed chorus, the Maryland Collegians, a ten piece orchestra, and the Central Concerteers.

Victor McLaglen, star of the stage portion of the bill at the Rialto during the past week, took sudden leave of the Capital yesterday afternoon and was not present to welcome the distinguished audience to the world premiere of "The Doomed Battalion" last night.

Having been apprised of a rush engagement in the films, Vic boarded a plane at 5:30 yesterday and started the long flight to the West Coast in the hope of reaching there by Sunday.

Happy landings, old scout!

Speaking of the Rialto and the premiere of "The Doomed Battalion," of which something is said in other columns of today's issue of The Post, the motion pictures of the official, social and professional celebrities entering the theater will be presented on the Rialto screen as a regular part of the film program beginning today. They were rushed to New York for development and printing and, incidentally, are being similarly rushed back.

Having viewed but one of the new week's offerings as this is written, I can not say that they are not duplicated in all the other newsreels in town, but the current Fox Movietone News carries at least three subjects of more than ordinary interest.

One is the able and concise declaration of what the country must do in the present emergency made to the conference of governors by President Hoover; another is the revelation that something over 4,000,000 votes in the Literary Digest's poll on the prohibition law shows a net result of approximately 23 per cent for and 79 per cent against—and there was loud cheering, believe you me—and that only two States voted dry, they being Kansas and North Carolina, and the third is the remarkable demonstration of the spirit and vigor of youth on the part of the poet Edwin Markham on his eightieth birthday.

It is such items as these that make the newsreel an indispensable part of present-day screen entertainment.

When Wesley Eddy comes back to the Palace for an indefinite stay next Friday he will have behind him a Loew stage unit bearing the title of "Frivolities," in which the principal comedian is "Slim" Timblin.

This is a pretty rapid repeat for "Slim." It will be recalled that he was headlining at a local theater the week of the M. P. T. O. A. convention at the Mayflower and was the star performer at the exhibitors' banquet there the night of March 15.

The only redeeming feature is that "Slim" is so extraordinarily facile a blackface comic, fortified with such explosive material, that the oftener he comes around the better.

Gregory Ratoff, whose performance as the senior Klauber in Fannie Hurst's "Symphony of Six Million," now in its second week at RKO-Keith's, has won him a long-term contract with Radio Pictures, will make his next appearance on the local screen with Constance Bennett in her new stellar vehicle, now in the making, "The Hollywood Merry-Go-Round."

Lest today's issue of this reliable family journal be mistaken for a theatrical trade paper, you will perceive I am sure, the wisdom of holding the column short. So this is. . . .

The end.

Kedroff Male Quartet Warmly Received Here

The Kedroff Male Quartet gave a program of Russian music yesterday, all in the Russian language, in the National Theater presented by the Community Institute. The quartet was worthy of a larger audience, but it was an appreciative and enthusiastic audience. The barytone and the bass, the two Kedroffs brothers, stood out as the leading artists of the organization. N. N. Kedroff, the barytone and director, also was shown on the program as a composer and "arranger." They sang a number of Russian folk-songs, several harmonized by N. N. Kedroff, "The Bells of Novgorod," the most effective and beautiful.

A group of Russian dances composed by Kedroff followed and aroused much enthusiasm, eliciting several encores.

Cesar Cui's cycle of songs drew forth another encore and they sang delightfully Borodin's "To a Lady." The Bacchanalian Song, a poem by Pushkin, set to music by Tschaikowsky, is a beautiful work, full of pep, and the quartet was obliged to sing again, though it was the last number on the program. For encore they gave a waltz by Johann Strauss, their effective rhythm and lovely tone quality giving it new beauties. Another effective encore was the familiar Volga Boatman which they sang with a tempo unfamiliar to audiences here, much slower than ever, but which was very understanding.

The only English word sung during the program was an effective "Good-By" at the end of the Strauss waltz and the end of the delightful program.

WEAVER TWIRLS NATS TO 2 TO 1 VICTORY OVER MACKS; ALLISON-VAN RYN CONQUER CANADIANS, CLINCH MATCH

U. S. Doubles Pair Easy Victor

Wright and Rainville Bow, 6-2, 6-1, 6-2, in Vital Match.

Mrs. Hoover Watches Americans Rout Invading Pair.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

WILMER ALLISON and John Van Ryn, born thousands of miles apart, total strangers until a few years ago, possessors of entirely different methods of clouting tennis balls, and yet withal the most unified and perfectly matched doubles combination in this country, moved these United States into the second round of Davis Cup play yesterday afternoon when they blasted Dr. Jack Wright and Marcel Rainville, of Canada, off the Chevy Chase courts by the score of 3—2, 6—1, 6—2.

Witnessed by one of the most distinguished sports gatherings of the year, including Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Mrs. Henry Clay Folger and members of the diplomatic and official circles, Allison and Van Ryn's victory gave America three straight wins in the current Davis Cup Tie, thus making the team eligible to meet Mexico two weeks hence in New Orleans, and more or less clearing the path for the Australian match in Philadelphia late next month.

Shields Plays Today In Final Singles.

Stripped of the pomp and circumstance of competition the show goes on today, because 32 years of Davis Cup tradition rule that five matches must make up each tie. Starting shortly after 2 o'clock Frank Shields, a major domo on last year's team, but now fighting to shake off his poor form and retain his place on the 1932 squad, will meet Dr. Jack Wright, who pressed Ellsworth Vines to five sets Thursday. Vines will meet Rainville in the second match of the day.

The referee would have stopped yesterday's double match if it had been a fight. Allison and Van Ryn, the latter at last rounding into the form he showed last year, lashed out at the ball as if the men across the imported fish netting owned the Davis silverware, not a couple of Gauls on the other side of the ocean. They directed a totally merciless fire at the Canadians, showing no quarter, refusing to let up, and completely putting the losers to such utter rout that it was all but a breach of international etiquette.

Americans Win Nine Straight Games.

From Allison's thunderous overhead smash, which gave him and his partner a 1—0 lead in the first set, it was no contest. Canada hung on to service until 2—2, but the eventual winners applied pressure and reeled off four straight games for the set, breaking the services of both visitors. In fact, they won nine straight games with the score 2—2 in the first, for they went to 5—0 in the second set before Dr. Wright, throwing everything he had into his service and a final overhead smash, stopped for the moment the oblit-

Walker Wins Fight With Levinsky

Is Knocked Down at Start But Rallies to Gain Decision.

Margin of Chicagoan Wiped Out After Fourth Round.

By CHARLES DUNKLEY.

CHICAGO, April 29 (A.P.).—Mickey Walker, a great little fighter, outweighed 23 pounds, bounced off the canvass in the first round to conquer King Levinsky in a viciously fought ten-round battle in the Chicago Stadium tonight.

The verdict, however, was not unanimous, although it was generally popular with the howling crowd of 20,000. Referee Eddie Purdy voted in favor of Levinsky, while the two judges cast their ballots for Walker.

Knocks Walker Flat In First Round.

Walker, knocked flat on his back in the first round by a terrific left hook that followed a right hand blast to the head, jumped to his feet without taking a count. He was blinking and bewildered, but the courageous fighting instinct that brought him the welterweight and middle weight championships, enabled him to survive the storm of gloves that Levinsky threw at him.

As the round ended a few seconds after Walker was floored, the pugnacious New Jersey Irishman was so dazed he walked to Levinsky's corner instead of his own.

Levinsky apparently had the honors from then until the fourth, but from the start of the fifth Walker was a wicked fighter, dealing out terrific body punishment, with Levinsky missing punches to the head.

Experience Aids Walker.

Walker won because of his experience, his ringcraft and his ability to sink a murderous left hook deep in the pit of the kingfish's stomach.

The attendance was 19,995. Gross receipts amounted to $73,892, of which Walker and Levinsky each grabbed 30 per cent.

Walker scaled 172 to 195 pounds for the Chicagoan.

CENTRAL'S much-respected diamond forces clashed with the champion Eastern aggregation yesterday, and were vanquished by a score of 6-3, in a game regarded as the most crucial of the current high school series.

Central's downfall can be justly laid at the doorstep of one Mr. Edward Fitzpatrick, who spent most of his time at bat knocking Emmett Buscher's well meant curves out of the park. He patrolled center field in his spare time. The three home runs credited to Fitzpatrick constitute a new all-time record for scholastic baseball.

The victory he brought to Eastern, its twentieth consecutive win in championship series, boosts this record just a bit higher for teams of the future to shoot at.

The final score does not adequately portray the closeness of the game, for had Fitzpatrick been the victim of some of Coach Guyon's strategy and replaced by a substitute, Central probably would have won. Eddie's first clout came in the initial inning with Joe Mills, who had singled, on second. The hit cleared the right field fence by several healthy yards. His second came in the seventh inning with the pathways clear. It was a lengthy wallop to deep center field.

Fitzpatrick Hits Third Homer.

The record-making circuit blow came in the last frame with the bases again empty. It was another right field sock that went even farther than the first one. Eastern's only other run came in the second inning, the result of a single by Dicky Fitzgerald and a pair of Central errors.

Faced with the problem of selecting a starting outfield from a group of six capable men, Coach Guyon almost worked some of his famous strategy and seriously considered saving Fitz-

Sixth Straight Win Scored by Indians

Vosmik and Kamm Leaders of 3-Run Attack in 7th, Clinching Game.

Cleveland, April 29 (A.P.).—Cleveland staged a three-run rally in the seventh at the expense of the veteran Urban Faber to down the Chicago White Sox, 7 to 5, today and make it six consecutive victories for the Indians.

Joe Vosmik and Willie Kamm led the way in the winnnig rally and in the eighth Glen Myatt made a home run off Mal McKain, who replaced Faber. Hudlin started for Cleveland, but was hit hard, and Connally finished, receiving credit for the victory.

Betts allowed only six hits, three in the first inning, while the Braves collected a dozen off Hal Schumacher and Dolf Luque. The Giants made five errors, bringing their total for the season to 32.

Red Sox Make Five Runs Off Andrews in Fifth to No Avail.

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—The Yankees won their fifth straight game today, downing the Boston Red Sox, 8 to 7, despite the poor support they gave to Ivy Paul Andrews, rookie right hander.

The Yanks piled up a six-run lead off Russell, Moore and Welland in the first three innings, then lost most of it when they made two errors in the fifth while Andrews gave three hits, a walk and a wild pitch that netted the Sox five runs.

BROWNS RELEASE YOUNG.

St. Louis, April 29 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Browns today unconditionally released Russell Young, a substitute catcher, to Milwaukee, of the American Association. Young came to the Browns last season and appeared in sixteen games.

Chisox Trade 3 to Boston For Pair

Tate, Watwood, Jolley, Berry, Rothrock Figure in Deal.

BOSTON, April 29 (A.P.).—The Boston Red Sox management tonight announced it had traded Charley Berry, first-string catcher, to the Chicago White Sox for Outfielders Johnny Watwood and Smead Jolley and Benny Tate, a catcher. In another deal with the White Sox, Jack Rothrock, Red Sox utility outfielder for the past five seasons, was sold for the $7,500 waiver price.

President Bob Quinn explained he was seeking additional hitting strength, which the Red Sox have needed for several seasons. Berry, although one of the most dependable receivers in the league, has been a streaky but heavy hitter.

The acquisition of the White Sox trio, Watwood especially, Quinn predicted, would give his club added punch. They will join the club here in time for Sunday's game with the Athletics.

Red Sox May Use Watwood at First.

Quinn was unable to state whether any of the newcomers would be played regularly. That, he said, would depend on his conference with Manager "Shauno" Collins. It is likely, however, that Watwood, who saw considerable service at first base for the White Sox last season, will be used oh the initial sack. Al Van Camp, a converted outfielder, and Johnny Reder, a hard-hitting recruit, have been sharing the Red Sox first base job since the season opened.

Weaver Displays Nerve and Skill in Pinches and Starts Winning Rally With Single in Fifth; Helps With Clever Fielding.

Double Plays Twice Erase Hopes of Macks; Lone Run Follows Filled Bases With None Out; Judge, Cronin, Reynolds Heroes.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

IF there was any doubt in the minds of Washington fans as to whether Pitcher Monte Weaver is the real thing or simply one of those bloomers for which spring baseball is noted, it was removed yesterday when the former professor at the University of Virginia held the Philadelphia Athletics to five hits and beat them, 2 to 1. It was Monte's fourth successive victory of the young season, his third over the dethroned world's champions, and the Nats' fifth straight over the A's after having bowed in the first two meetings of the teams.

Of course, there were eight other Washington players on the field, but Weaver stood out over them like Goliath over David. Of the five safeties he allowed, two were bunts and none was good for extra bases, while Monte started two of the three double plays negotiated by the natives and also made the hit which was later turned into the game-deciding run.

Rookie Proves His Mettle.

With the score so close, the youngster was called upon to show his mettle from start to finish and every one of the 12,000 crowd, including many ladies' day guests, whose votes do not necessarily have to be counted, will subscribe to the statement that he is plenty game and, in addition, knows what this game of baseball is all about.

In the second, for instance, Weaver was a little wild and he walked the first two to face him. Then he forced Dykes to hit into a double play, which he started himself; granted Boley a scratch hit and threw out Earnshaw. Starting the third he walked Bishop. After Haas hit into a force play, Monte gathered in Cochrane's roller and started a second twin-murder.

But the real test came in the sixth. It looked as though it might be "curtains" for Monte when he again walked Bishop, Haas singled, and another pass, this time to Cochrane filled the bases. With three on, none out, the Nats only two runs to the good and Simmons up, shivers ran up and down the spines of every one in the park but the pitcher himself.

Even Manager Walter Johnson became worried and he had both Lloyd Brown and Frank Ragland speedily working the kinks out of their salary wings in the bull-pen. Neither was called on, however, for Simmons was held to a long looper to Manush, which let one run trickle over, and Foxx rolled sharply to Cronin, who started a double play, which Myer and Judge completed.

This was the end of the Macks for the day as only two others saw base life, Cramer, when he beat out a bunt leading off in the seventh and was stranded at first, and Simmons, who opened the ninth with a single, only to be left at second.

George Earnshaw held the Nationals to but seven hits, but six of these came in pairs in three different innings and the Nats scored in two of them. They passed up an opportunity in the opening round when, with two dead, West singled and Cronin doubled him to third. Reynolds failed to help the cause in this round, but it was his double in the fourth, which was turned into the first Washington run.

Reynolds Scores After Double.

With one dead, Earnshaw fed Reynolds a slow ball and he blasted it over Simmons' head for an extra sack. Judge then lashed out a clean single to left center, and the Nats were 1 up.

Weaver opened the next canto with a liner single and that he later scored may be blamed on Earnshaw himself. He had a double-play in sight when he gathered in Myer's roller, but tried to throw the ball before he had actually picked it up and had to be satisfied with merely getting the batter. Weaver, of course, reached second in safety, and, after West walked, Cronin singled home the run, which, as things turned out, carried the verdict with it. Judge, who opened the sixth with a single, was the only other native to get on the sacks in the last three frames.

Cronin and Judge, each with two hits and each credited with driving home a mate, took batting honors for the Nationals, while Haas accounted for two of the visitors' bingles.

Lefty Grove and General Alvin Crowder will be opponents on the pitching mound today in the final game of the Philadelphia-Washington series.

Grove, in a duel with Crowder two weeks ago, turned back the Nationals with one hit in the first seven innings, winning, 4 to 2.

BOUNDLESS DEEP WINS GRAW FEATURE IN DRIVING FINISH

Winner Bests Mouthpiece In Stretch

Ensor's Strong Ride Tells Near Finish of Buckingham.

Finnic Wins by Neck in Fourth; Boscobel Takes Sprint.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, April 30.—Jockey Buddy Ensor brought his riding comeback home to Maryland today and rode Boundless Deep, the property of Mrs. John Hay Whitney, to victory in the Buckingham, the day's feature race fashioned for 3-year-olds and upward at 1¼-mile route. Mouthpiece drove into second money ahead of the ancient and honorable William T.

It was the second victory of the day for the veteran jockey, who is convincing the horsemen and racing fans that he intends to make his comeback stick. If years away from the saddle have changed Ensor's judge of pace, it was not evident today.

Buddy took Boundless Deep to the front soon after the break and hanked the clubhouse turn with daylight beginning to show between his mount and William T. On the trip up the backstretch, Ensor rated Bounding Deep along while Mouthpiece was moving up to furnish the chief contention. In the stretch Mouthpiece all but took the lead, but Ensor shook up his mount and had a half length advantage at the end. William T. beat Delicacy a head for the show.

Ensor Given Ovation.

Despite an ordinary program, some 10,000 turned out and gave Ensor an ovation when he brought the son of Negofol back to the judges' stand.

For the first time during the Maryland season a field horse turned in a victory when Miss Puray, a Purchase filly and a first-time starter, led a group of a dozen to the wire. The field closed at 30 to 1 on the approximate odds board and paid a $45.90 mutuel. Illusive, another long one, was second, with Lazy Daisy third. Corrymeela, the heavily played favorite, broke slowly and appeared to be sore on the way back to the judges' stand.

Knights Cap, Audley Farm's representative in the second, defeated Fervor and Clear Knight. Buddy Hanford had the son of Bright Knight away from the barrier in front and stayed there for the remainder of the trip. Clear Knight made a battle of it until a sixteenth away from the wire, where Fervor moved up to win the battle for place money.

Boscobel Defeats Stepping Sister.

Buddy Ensor rode his first Maryland winner of a decade in the third race, bringing Boscobel home ahead of Stepping Sister and Bobby Bird. Boscobel stayed close to the pace set by Chloedair and Bobby Bird. Ensor took his mount to the front rounding the turn and Stepping Sister moved up but not enough to menace the winner.

Finnic, veteran gelding, won the fourth race in a driving finish from Black Tyrone. Dancing Mack was third. Dancing Mack and Black Tyrone set a fast pace to the stretch turn where Finnic came up with a rush to beat the tiring leaders.

Broadway Lights gave the crowd a surprise in the sixth, taking Happen and Worldly Lad into camp. General Lejeune after being up with the pace setters failed in the stretch.

The Doctor answered the call in the seventh, defeating The Break and Shantung.

ILLUSIVE, vigorously ridden the entire trip, closed stoutly in the final drive. LAZY DAISY held on well when challenged, but finished fastest of all when coming to the outside approaching the finish. Two-dollar mutuels paid—KNIGHT'S CAP, $7.00, $4.20, $3.60; FERVOR, $5.30, $4.00; CLEAR KNIGHT, $8.00.

KNIGHT'S CAP, quickest to get going, raced along under slight restraint while resisting early contention from CLEAR KNIGHT, responded to pressure in the final test and outstayed FERVOR. Latter, in tight quarters on the inside for the first half mile, secured racing room on the outside during the stretch run and finished stoutly. CLEAR KNIGHT forced a good pace for five furlongs and held on well thereafter. PADDOCK, well placed early, swung wide into the home stretch and could not reach the leaders. CALGARY KAY broke well, but dropped back immediately and was never dangerous thereafter. BLACK BOARD had no excuses. HIEAWAY could not improve his position. JIB BOOM stopped badly, as did PORGIE.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-old fillies. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:36. Off at 3:36. Winner, E. Smallman's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOSCOBEL, $3.90, $2.50, $2.20; STEPPING SISTER, $3.40, $2.60; BOOBY BIRD, $7.00.

BOSCOBEL, prominent from the start, reached the pacemaker midway of the turn, assumed command when straightened into the home stretch and was under stout urging to withstand STEPPING SISTER. Latter, going forwardly and well handled, continued stoutly for the final drive. BOOBY BIRD, hard ridden the entire trip, was gaining slowly at the end. VIBA worked her way up on the outside and finished with good courage. LADY GENERAL could not reach the leaders. FOREWARD raced evenly. LACE SHAWL tired. CHLOEDAIR quit after four furlongs.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start fair from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:06. Off at 4:06. Winner, Mrs. R. L. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FINNIC, $13.10, $6.00, $3.60; BLACK TYRONE, $4.70, $3.40; DANCING MACK, $3.80.

FINNIC, away fast and clear, was steadied in near attendance of the leaders, came determinedly when put to a drive and finishing in game fashion, wore BLACK TYRONE down in the final fifty yards. BLACK TYRONE, hurried to the front, raced DANCING MACK into submission in the first seven furlongs, was clear in the stretch turn, but faltered approaching the finish. DANCING MACK, in close pursuit of BLACK TYRONE, held on well after being displaced and Hanford outrode Meade when it came to a finish. BUBOLA broke slowly saved ground at the first turn, made a stout effort in the final drive, but was weakly ridden nearing the finish. FERVID was also away slowly and was never able to get to her field. BLIMP was forced wide at the first turn, and was outrun.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,400; allowances. The Buckingham. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:40. Off at 4:43. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOUNDLESS DEEP, $5.50, $3.00, $2.20; MOUTHPIECE, $3.90, $2.40; WILLIAM T., $2.60.

BOUNDLESS DEEP moved over sharply soon after the break and crowded those on the inside going to the first turn, was rated in front under slight restraint and, continuing willingly when placed to a stout drive, just lasted to stall off MOUTHPIECE. Latter, forced to be eased back directly after the start, went to the outside when reaching the back stretch, put up a strong bid in the final furlong pole, but tired in the final drive. WILLIAM T., a strong factor throughout, continued gamely in the final test. DELICACY was shuffled back going to the first turn and could not improve her position during the running. GUSTO was carried out at the first turn. BONNIE RUTH was overmatched.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:15. Off at 5:16. Winner, T. McCarthy's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BROADWAY LIGHTS, $25.70, $9.90, $5.70; HAPPEN, $6.60, $4.50; WORDLY LAD, $7.80.

BROADWAY LIGHTS, going in his best form and favored by improved handling, was kept clear of interference, responded stoutly when called on, wore the leaders down when entering the home stretch and was vigorously ridden until the finish. HAPPEN, a keen factor from the start, displaced GENERAL LEJEUNE when midway of the far turn, responded to punishment and fought it out gamely. WORLDLY LAD worked his way up steadily, slipped through on the inside during the stretch run and closed gamely. GENERAL LEJEUNE, hurried to the front, weakened in the final five furlongs. GENERAL COURT had no mishaps. HORATIA and SHIVA were outrun.

THE DOCTOR, outrun until midway of the back stretch, was taken to the outside when moving to the leaders, continued resolutely for the final drive and was up in the final sixteenth mile. THE BREAK, going forwardly, came courageously for the final drive. SHAN TUNG, rated under mild urging in the early running, finished stoutly in the final half mile. MAKE HASTE outran his field while under steadying restraint, saved ground, but faltered through the closing furlong. REJUVENATION finished with good speed. DUNFERN raced forwardly for the first mile and tired as if short. TOP HATTIE was held safe.

3 PENN RELAY MARKS FALL

Munger Wins Decathlon Title

Versatile Quaker Ace Beats Out Hall, of Florida.

McCluskey Sets New Time in Steeplechase Event.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

FRANKLIN FIELD, Philadelphia, April 29 (A.P.).—The first major offensive along the Eastern track and field fronts today developed Joe McCluskey, of Fordham University, as the foremost American candidate for 1932 Olympic steeplechase running honors.

In the most noteworthy of three record performances marking the first day's competition of the annual Pennsylvania relay carnival, McCluskey thrilled 10,000 spectators with a finish that overcame J. C. Watson, Indiana star, and carried the Fordham youth to a new American record for the 3,000 meter steeplechase. McCluskey's time of 9 minutes, 28.6 seconds, not only wiped out his own best previous mark of 9:37, made in last year's carnival, but came close to the unofficial world record of 9:21 4-5 set by the Finnish runner, Loukola, at the 1928 Olympic games.

McCluskey's Late Spurt Wins.

McCluskey looked like a beaten runner going into the last turn around the infield, over the hurdles and water hazards, a good 20 yards behind Watson. Then he put on a dazzling sprint that overtook the Indiana boy on the last turn and carried him away to win by 50 yards.

The 400 meter hurdle record was toppled by Eugene Beatty, Negro star from Michigan Normal. Beatty, leading all the way, skimmed the barriers in the fine time of 53.3 seconds to surpass the American collegiate and carnival mark of 54.4 seconds, made in 1924 by Ivan Riley, of Kansas State.

The Decathlon, usually one of the carnival's most spectacular features, drew only four entries and resulted in a decisive victory for George Munger, of Pennsylvania, over his outstanding rival, Joseph Hall, of the University of Florida.

Hall, away to a good start, led for the first seven events but fell off badly in the last three, the pole vault, discus and 1,500-meter run. Munger, growing better as the grind proceeded, wound up with a winning total of 7,324.5995 points. C. H. Saxe, of Colgate, finished third with 6,730.519 points and Henry Pohl, of Delaware, fourth with 5,938.115.

Washington Athletes Finish Second Thrice

Special to The Washington Post.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 29.—Washington representatives in the Penn Relay Carnival failed to come through with a triumph in the first day's program of the thirty-eighth annual carnival at Franklin Field this afternoon, but they made other stars step to near record time to carry off laurels.

In one case, Washington Central High School's quarter-mile relay team forced Mercersburg Academy to within three-fifths of a second of the record for that distance in the American interscholastic championship to land the laurels.

Eleven heats, due to the large number of entries, were required to reduce the field in the title test and Washington Central annexed the opening race in 44 2-10 seconds, the team of Ditzler, Price, Smith and Naylor, running home ahead of New Utrecht of New York and Moorestown, N. J. Mercersburg won its heat, the second, in 1-10 of a second faster than the Capital lads and when they met in the final, the Washington team forced the Cumberland Valley stars to sprint the distance in 43 seconds flat.

Vic Burke, of Georgetown, finished second to Beatty, Michgian Normal School's record-breaker, in the 400-meter hurdle test. The Western colored athlete won the final in 53 3-10 seconds.

Georgetown's quarter-mile relay team, after finishing second to Ohio State in a heat, also trailed the Buckeyes across the finish line in the American quarter-mile collegiate championship final. The Ohioans were clocked in 42 seconds flat for the final.

Klein's Homer, 3 On, Aids Phils to Win, 13-6

Philadelphia, April 29 (A.P.).—Chuck Klein, Philadelphia rightfielder, who has been one of the slugging sensations of the National League ever since he joined the club, gave a convincing demonstration of how much damage his bat can do as he led the Phillies to a 13 to 6 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers today.

Klein had a perfect day at bat with four hits, and batted in six runs. In the second, with the bases loaded, Klein slammed the ball over the rightfield wall for a homer.

CENTRAL DEFEATED BY EASTERN, 6-3

patrick for future work. But he confined his strategism to the pitching department, electing to send Cecil Hale to the mound rather than Dick Lanahan, who was expected to start.

Hale acquitted himself with honors, despite a black eye. He held his opponents to seven hits in the seven innings he toiled, and but for an error, would have had only one run charged against him. Guyon trotted out Lanahan in the eighth to the huge satisfaction of the crowd and the lanky portsider. He had Central at his mercy when he chose to bear down.

Looking at the future through the lens of yesterday's game, Eastern seems to be headed for its fifth consecutive championship, and twenty-fourth consecutive series victory.

The one redeeming feature of the game from a Central viewpoint was the fine work of "Shorty" Chumbris at shortstop. Chumbris accepted eight chances at his position, covering a wide radius of territory, without a miscue.

"A half a month I took and a half a month I get, so that makes a month for me free."

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

IN DEFENSE OF THE OLD HOME TOWN.

"THE old town where we used to live, the old hole where we used to swim, sound grand in song and story, but they often as not were tawdry, insanitary and disease producing. The pies that mother used to make represent all the gastronomic crimes of other years."—Mr. Harry L. Hopkins, an Eastern Health Association director.

* * * *

Dear Mr. Hopkins: Be yourself, Hopkins! You're just kidding the public. The ol' swimmin' hole lingers in your memory with a strange sweetness and you can't think of it without tingling to the recollection of its refreshing coolness on a summer day. You warm to the memories of the twisting lane that led to it around the river's bend; you chuckle at the recollection of the gymnastics of "Dinkey" Murphy and "Red" Carr as they disported in the lazy stream; you like to tell about the time "Squirrel" Stevens jaw-tied your clothes behind the mulberry bush; you'd rather leap into that ol' swimmin' hole right now, regardless of its germs, than into the most antiseptic pool in the big city.

* * * *

And what's this about the old home town being tawdry? Listen, Mr. Hopkins, it looks a little tawdry today, perhaps, to you, but that's because they've put so many orange-drink and hot-dog stands along Main street, cut down the old Franklin elm and put a gas pumping station where the Beecher estate used to be. The Lydia P. Hostetter Memorial Library has been replaced by a second-hand automobile depot and you'd never know the old Palace House, but it wasn't tawdry in the old days, and you know it.

* * * *

However, where you start something is when you take a sock at the pies that mother used to make. That's where you step over the line and come pretty close to treason. Either you never were a pie lover or you were kept off pastry because of some childhood ailment, and had to sit around and watch the other boys gorge themselves on those delicious apple, blueberry and custard pies made in the back kitchen.

Those big apple pies with the crust that would melt in your mouth (or would melt in anybody else's mouth, anyhow); those creamy custard pies with the nutmeg sprinkled on 'em; those raspberry pies oozing the deep purple juice—gastronomic crimes, did you say?

* * * *

Oh, well, there's just no use arguing with you, Mr. Hopkins. You're a lost man. You've been soured by life or something. You've a pie-hating complex. I wash my hands of you. You just go on living in the big city and writing about perfect health. I'm running back home to see the old town next week-end, and to look at the ol' swimmin' hole. And if I can get the old lady to make three or four pies, I'll eat them all—even if they're not up to her best standard. Gastronomic crime my eye, Mr. Hopkins! Yours truly,

ELMER TWITCHELL.

MARLENE DIETRICH has been suspended over a salary dispute. This gives the company the first leg.

OUCH!

These are the words that bring anguish, my son,
Clear from my head to my heels:
"Lissen, old man, don't be silly; no one Ever lost money in steel!"

THE LEAST THEY COULD DO.

Elmer Twitchell thinks the directors of our big corporations ought to hold out their hand and signal when they intend to pass a dividend.

"Two obsolete ferryboats offered by the city at auction were bought in by private bidders for $725 and $1,024, there being much mystery over what the bidders intended to do with them."—News item.

Markets and Business in Review and Outlook

By Lawrence Sullivan

THE Senate committee on banking and currency hung up a new low in investigations this month in its inquiry into short selling on the New York Stock Exchange. One honorable member didn't know the difference between a brokerage house and an investment bank; another argued seriously there is no essential difference between gambling and speculation; a third wanted Mr. Richard Whitney's studied opinion as to whether stocks and bonds should not be sold by serial number, to which the president of the stock exchange responded:

"Why, yes, senator; it would be just like plugging a number on a pig's ear in the stockyards at Chicago; but I don't see how it would materially affect the market one way or another."

* * * *

BUILDING up to a South Dakota climax, Senator Peter Norbeck, the chairman, produced an accountant from the offices of the United States Tariff Commission, one Edward P. Knight, who told exactly how brokers may juggle books against their customers.

Although this recital, under oath, was so palpably a "plant" by some of the less responsible members of the banking and currency committee that several newspapers, including The Post, did not print an account of the testimony, it was not revealed until several days later that Mr. Knight had been accused of juggling his own accounts in a New York brokerage house in 1929. Later, in applying for his civil service position, Mr. Knight neglected to state on the required form that he had been accused of grand larceny in New York.

* * * *

NEXT came the Honorable Fiorello H. LaGuardia, the Little Giant of the Air Corps, who produced a whole trunkful of documents obtained from a fellow who had been indicted more than a year previously for complicity in a scheme to forge some $5,000,000 worth of A. T. & T. bonds. This "evidence" was not aimed at the stock market community alone, but at the ancient and honorable profession of journalism as well. In a broader sense, it was aimed at everybody in the United States who has capital assets aggregating more than 39 cents, and against every institution in the land which is operated on the great principle that most people are honest.

So precious were these papers and documents to the Honorable Mr. LaGuardia that he impounded them with the Washington police for ten days before presenting them to the banking committee. Presumably, they still are equally precious. But since the hearing they have been scattered around the House and Senate Office Buildings like so much secretarial memoranda, and nobody has asked even to look at them much less attempted to make off with a sheet.

* * * *

THE most distressing aspect of such a performance is not, of course, that it displays professional muck-raking in its most sordid form within the Capitol of the United States, but the fact, rather, that members of the United States Senate can be persuaded, either because of their inimitable ignorance on the subject at hand or because of childish hobgoblin prejudices, to be parties to an awkward and infantile conspiracy against the good names and honorable reputations of American citizens and American institutions.

Norbeck, the well driller, would not permit such a conspiracy against any interest of South Dakota. Blaine, of Boscobel, would not sanction such a conspiracy against Wisconsin's cheese industry. Brookhart, the expert rifle shot, would not be a party to such a conspiracy against any Hawkeye farm or fireside. Nor would Mr. Couzens look complacently on a comparable assault upon the automobile industry. Yet all of these gentlemen, and others, permitted an "investigation" of the New York Stock Exchange under a suspension of all the rules of evidence, and of all the sturdy American traditions of honor and fair play.

* * * *

A LONG list of similar performances on the north edge of Capitol Hill during the last ten years were cited by Mr. George Wharton Pepper last fall as a ground for his suggestion that the Senate adopt a code of ethics to govern its exploratory rallies into folly and crime.

He pointed out that baseball in the more advanced cities is under a rigid system of self discipline. Prize-fighting also is so conducted save in those raw centers of civilization in which it is operated openly as a racket.

RETAIL LINES NOTE SEASONAL UPSWING

Major Industrial Activities Continue Quiet, Trade Reviews Report.

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—A moderate seasonal improvement was noted in retail trade in the past week, but major manufacturing and industrial operations continued in about the same state of dullness, according to the weekly mercantile reviews.

Dun's said retail distribution remained at a mean level during the week, but was able to hold the gain set down for it during the month. It was also asserted that seasonal influences and the beneficent gestures from Government and the Federal Reserve System are spreading confidence in all trade channels with the lighter industrial lines giving evidence of most rapid recovery.

Reports to Bradstreet's indicate a small seasonal upturn in department store and other merchandising centers, but this agency finds that the lull in manufacturing and industrial communities has continued except in a few cities in the central part of the country.

Harvester Guarantees Canada Wheat Price

Regina, Saskatchewan, April 29 (A.P.).—The International Harvester Co. of Canada, Ltd., has guaranteed a price of 77 cents a bushel, Winnipeg, for No. 1 Northern wheat, Charles Morrison, Chicago, director of sales in Canada, explained today to the company's Western branch managers.

The guarantee applies to the 40 per cent payment due this year on future 1932 purchases of any of the company's machines. Morrison said the plan is similar to the one recently announced by the company in the United States.

Finland Remains Off Gold.

Helsingfors, Finland, April 29 (A.P.).—The government today announced that Finland would remain off the gold standard at least until the end of the present fiscal year.

Kreuger Moratorium Extended.

Stockholm, Swede- April 29 (A.P.).—Extension until the end of May of the moratorium granted the Kreuger & Toll Companies was approved by the government today.

Exchange Ousts St. Louis Brokers

Mark C. Steinberg & Co. Suspended by New York for Insolvency.

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—The New York Stock Exchange today announced the suspension of Mark C. Steinberg & Co. for insolvency.

The company is a St. Louis firm for which receivers have been appointed, although the receivership petition filed in St. Louis said the firm was solvent, with assets substantially larger than liabilities.

Partners are Mark C. Steinberg, Paul E. Peltason, Spencer McCourtney, John Grunik, jr., Gordon Scherck, Charles H. Patton, Irwin R. Harris, Hunter Breckenridge and Robert A. Waddell.

The firm was organized in 1915 and admitted to the New York Stock Exchange on November 1, 1917.

The only other suspension of a stock exchange member firm this year has been Gurnett & Co., a Boston house, suspended for insolvency January 5.

The New York Curb market also announced suspension of Mark C. Steinberg & Co.

Chilean Nitrate Corp. To Default on Interest

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—Interest due May 1 on Anglo-Chilean Consolidated Nitrate Corporation 20-year 7 per cent sinking fund debenture bonds, due 1945, will not be paid, it was announced here today at the Guggenheim offices.

The entire stock of the Chilean company, which took over all assets of Anglo-Chilean Consolidated Nitrate Corporation, as well as these bonds, is owned by Cosach, the Amalgamated Chilean Nitrate Co.

Negotiations for reorganization of Cosach, under way in New York since the end of March, are still continuing, the announcement said.

Arrangements were made today for the sale of a New York Stock Exchange seat at $82,000, an increase of $1,000 over the previous transaction.

Stockholders of the Aviation Corporation have voted to change the company's common stock from no par to $5 par value. E. L. Cord, R. A. Lovett and L. R. Manning were elected directors to succed A. P. Barrett, Paul M. Mazur and Harvey L. Williams.

E. W. Sinclair, chairman of the finance committee of the Consolidated Oil Corporation, has been elected a director of the Petroleum Corporation of America, which owns a large block of Consolidated stock.

EXPORTS OF COTTON LIFTED 53 PER CENT

Heavy Buying by France, Japan and China Account for March Gain.

(Associated Press.)

France is the latest foregin customer to take advantage of the low prices prevailing in American cotton shops which are doing a rush export business.

That country took 87,000 bales in March, which was 50 per cent more than a year ago, and the largest French purchase for that month since the 1918-1919 season.

The total March exports were 927,000 bales, 53 per cent greater than last year, and the heaviest since 1914-1915 with the exception of the 1926-1927 marketing period.

This activity, the Agriculture Department said yesterday, was due largely to the continued interest of Japan and China in American cotton. Other foreign buyers are also taking more than last year's purchases.

Exports at 6,854,000 Bales.

For the first eight months of the present season exports amounted to 6,854,000 bales—an increase of 1,336,000 over the same months last year. Remaining stocks in the United States are, nevertheless, still large. On April 1 the apparent supply was 12,984,000 against 9,472,000 in 1931 and was the largest amount ever held at this time of the year.

At the same time as the department's report was issued, the cotton advisory committee was again in session with the Farm Board, considering a new sales policy for the crop year beginning August 1. It is expected to recommend a restricted and orderly selling policy, which may be largely confined to foreign countries.

The department said "there is little doubt that the world consumption of American cotton in March was higher than in the same period last year, since consumption of American cotton in the United States during March was about the same as last year, and consumption in many of the important foreign countries was larger than a year ago."

Farmers Reduce Erpenses.

Indications are, the department said, that Southern farmers now planting a new crop are again reducing their expenditures in response to low prices and incomes.

"This is being reflected," it said, "in the amount of fertilizer being sold. In addition, the cotton farmers who made considerable shifts to food and feed crops last year evidently found it to their advantage, and have indicated intentions of further increasing the acreage in such crops this year. During March sales of fertilizer tags in the eight most important cotton State (excluding Oklahoma) amounted to only 46.6 per cent of March, 1931, 33.5 per cent of March, 1930, and were the smallest for that month for more than a decade.

Europe Is Likely Buyer of Wheat

Milnor Says Conditions Are Ripe for Export if Credit Can Be Arranged.

(Associated Press.)

George S. Milnor, general manager of both the Grain Stabilization Corporation and the Farmers National Grain Corporation, told Chairman Stone of the Farm Board yesterday, that European market conditions for the sale of North American wheat were bright. He recently visited European wheat importing countries.

In an interview, he said that "undoubtedly large amounts of our wheat can be sold abroad if credit is made available. Conditions as I see them are mighty pleasant for us."

European countries, he continued, "are ready to buy if we either provide them with credit or make price concessions. I understand there is a proposal in Congress to provide funds for credit sales. That would help move out a good bit of wheat."

Milnor talked with German government officials while in Berlin, and it is understood that Germany, which bought 7,500,000 bushels last fall, is ready to purchase an additional 15,000,000.

Bankers Delay Bids For Kentucky Bonds

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—Municipal bond houses, which have been asked to submit bids on a new issue of $13,500,000 bonds of the State of Kentucky may recommend that the State withhold its new offering for another month.

The proposed issue, it was said today, has already been approved by Kentucky's General Assembly, but a question of legality has been raised. As a result, the State plans a test suit.

Under Kentucky law the State can issue no bonds except to "repel invasion and suppress insurrection" unless special provision be made for refunding or paying other bonds previously issued. Bankers explained that this provision is in the State's constitution. Steps are being taken to determine if the proposed offering would be contrary to the constitutional provision.

WITNESS AT STOCK INQUIRY SUSPENDED

E. P. Knight Quits Tariff Commission; Arrest in 1929 Revealed.

(Associated Press.)

The Tariff Commission said yesterday that Edward P. Knight, an employe of the Commission in New York and a recent witness in the Senate stock market investigation, has been suspended because of his arrest in 1929 for juggling accounts of a brokerage house, and also for failure to make a statement as requested by the Commission.

His application did not state he had been accused of a grand larceny offense, the fact of which was learned by the Tariff Commission since Knight testified last week before the Senate committee. The Commission asked him for a statement and when he failed to furnish one, suspended him.

At the Commission yesterday it was said each applicant for a position is required to state whether he ever has been convicted or accused of a crime or a misdemeanor.

The Commission said the suspension had nothing to do with the stock market investigation.

Members of A. I. B. Visit Sanitary Co.

Junior Bankers Study the Grocery Business as Part of Course.

In accordance with an annual custom, members of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, made a tour of the bakery of the Sanitary Grocery Co. at Eckington place and R street northeast yesterday under the auspices of the chapter's public affairs and public education committee, headed by James A. Soper, vice president and cashier of Lincoln National Bank.

These tours and inspections of local plants are in line with the committee's policy of acquainting junior bankers with the industrial life of the city. Approximately 75 members were in the inspection party.

Today the chapter will be host to the Security Club players of American Security & Trust Co., at the Shoreham Hotel. This is in recognition of the excellent performance the club gave at the chapter's spring open meeting, April 14.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Fri.	Thurs.
Number of advances....	82	84
Number of declines.....	376	308
Stocks unchanged	129	101
Total issues traded...	587	493

Stocks.

Led by the industrials, the list fell into new lows for the bear movement, with the leaders closing at the day's bottom, off 1 to 3 points.

Bonds.

While industrials and rails sagged to new lows the United States Government list continued firm, with a new 1932 high in one registered issue. There was evidence of heavy liquidation.

Curb.

Prices ebbed in a heavy market. The turnover was small. Jersey Central Power & Light, traded for the first time this year, was a feature.

Grain.

Corn, oats and rye were pounded down to 1899 lows, but wheat's close was partially sustained by reported prospects for large European exports soon.

Cotton.

The close was 25 to 33 points net lower, with July making a new low for the season at 5.81 cents a pound. Reports of domestic mill curtailment and weakness abroad, coupled with heavy liquidation of long accounts and considerable Southern selling on the spot markets made the day.

Provisions.

Lard and meats on the Chicago Board of Trade registered new lows for 1932.

U. S. Steel Promotes Two of Its Executives

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—Announcement was made today of the appointment of Charles S. Belsterling as a vice president of the United States Steel Corporation and of R. E. Zimmerman as assistant to the new president, William A. Irvin.

Mr. Belsterling, who assumes charge of traffic for the corporation, has been general commerce attorney for the organization since 1914.

Mr. Zimmerman has for some time been assistant to the vice president of the American Sheet & Tin Plate Co., a U. S. Steel subsidiary, and was director of the former concern's research laboratory.

STOCKS HIT ANOTHER BEAR CYCLE BOTTOM

Industrial Group Most Vulnerable; A. T. & T. Scores Fresh Low.

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—Attrition of quoted values continued in the stock market today, wearing down the industrial average to a new low and completing cancellation of gains painfully made by the rails in the last fortnight.

Declines were somewhat smaller than yesterday's, and there was scarcely enough change in volume to be significant. As usual, some stocks suffered sizeable losses, but most of the day pivotal issues were off only a fraction to slightly more than a point. The break in industrials pulled final level of 90 issues comprising the Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite, under the April 22 minimum. Sales totaled 1,166,600 shares.

General Motors Weak.

American Can, Eastman Kodak, American Tobacco "B," Liggett & Myers, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, U. S. Steel, Du Pont and General Electric, of the manufacturing companies, were particularly subject to fresh offerings, although net losses in some instances amounted to less than a point. General Motors sagged ⅜ to 10½, which bespoke the market's opinion that another dividend cut was coming. National Lead slumped 8.

American Telephone, whose next dividend meeting comes in the later half of May, set a new low at 98⅝, but cut its 1¾ point decline to ⅝. Since breaking par the stock has received better support. Western Union sold under 25, off a couple of points. Consolidated Gas and Peoples Gas also backed up.

Reconstruction Finance Corporation aid for the Frisco and Cotton Belt got little attention. A few rail stocks made new lows, among them such important carriers as Santa Fe, New York Central and Pennsylvania. Norfolk & Western dropped 7½ on a single sale; it did not trade on Thursday.

Another Exchange Casualty.

Notwithstanding the pessimism that prevailed during the late winter and early spring, only two stock exchange firms have been suspended for insolvency this year. Today's action against a member which had gone into receivership was the second casualty. The announcement, made soon after the opening, may have had some effect, but prices were already going down.

Whatever can be accomplished ultimately by the Federal Reserve's open market operations, it is apparent to many Wall street observers that attempts to discount beneficial results would stumble against several uncertainties. Aside from the domestic budget problems, there loom the important decisions that confront this summer's reparations conference, concern over financial affairs in Danubian countries, and expiration, in two months' time of the debt moratorium.

Sinking Spell Puts Bonds Down to New Low for Year

Industrial Issues Hit Hardest by General Wave of Liquidation; United States Loans Alone Hold Up; Most Rails Also Decline.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—The bond market sank to new low levels for the year today. Only the United States Government list maintained a comparatively steady tone in the face of discouraged liquidation of the corporate groups.

The average for 60 corporate securities declined seven-tenths of a point, the same as in yesterday's session, but the activity slackened somewhat.

Sales totaled $8,913,000, par value.

The fact that the Federal Reserve System added more than $113,000,000 to its holdings of Government obligations during the week did much to strengthen the position of the national category. While the majority of Treasuries and Liberties ended with fractional declines, Liberty fourth 4¼s (registered) reached a new high for the year, and minor gains were held by Liberty 3½s and the regular fourth 4¼s.

Announcement of the Interstate Commerce Commission's approval of loans by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to the Frisco, Central of Georgia and Salt Lake & Utah brought a spurt in some of the low-priced carriers. Although a few of these retained modest gains at the finish, the majority recorded losses.

The relapse in the speculative transportation liens came after the I. C. C. had later made public the terms of the Frisco loan. The commission, before giving its approval, stipulated that the road should present a plan whereby a substantial reduction in its fixed interest charges could be effected.

A bearish interpretation was placed on this restriction with the result that Frisco 4½s and 4s kept only ½ point of their previous advances and the 5s sagged 5¼ points.

Losses of 1 to 5 points were also registered by Allegheny Corporation 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, Chicago Great Western 4s, St. Paul General 4¾s, Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s, Great Northern 5s, 7s and 4¼s, Hudson & Manhattan 5s, Illinois Central 6½s, New York Central refunding 5s, most of the liens of Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, St. Louis Southwestern, Southern Pacific and Southern.

A few gains included Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, Chicago & North Western 4¾s, Rock Island refunding 4s, Denver & Rio Grande 5s, both Erie 5s, all the Missouri Pacifics, Nickel Plate 5½s and 6s and Western Pacific 5s.

The utilities suffered a sinking spell, but the industrials displayed better resistance.

Prices continued to ebb in the curb market today. Heaviness spread through virtually all groups. The turnover approximated 130,000 shares, or a little under yesterday's

In the oils, Standard of Kentucky lost a point in a fair turnover, and Indiana and Gulf receded fractionally. Humble and International Petroleum were about steady.

Electric Bond & Share and American Gas & Electric were active in the utility division. Both closed off ½ point, Bond & Share at the lowest of the day, and American Gas somewhat above the bottom.

Jersey Central Power & Light 7 per cent preferred made its first appearance of the year, at 75¾, off 20¼ since its last appearance.

In the industrials Diamond Shoe, another comparatively inactive issue, traded at 7½, off 15¼ points since its last appearance some time ago.

Ford of Canada A slipped off ¾ of a point to 7½, a new low

Mining issues were mixed, and largely neglected, save for one or two of the low-priced group. Bunker Hill appeared in a few transactions, closing at 17, off 1½.

New bond offerings in this district for the past week totaled $6,483,000, compared with $60,984,000 in the preceding week and $18,371,500 in the corresponding week in 1931.

Deposits of Seaboard Air Line equipment trust certificates under the plan of exchange formulated by the receivers for the road total close to the required 76 per cent of principal amount of the several series, it was reported today.

Arrangements were made today for the sale of a New York Curb Exchange seat at $18,500, a decrease of $2,500 from the last sale, and the lowest price paid for a membership since 1927.

Wall street continues to hear reports of drastic retrenchment in the motion picture industry. It was reported today that Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., has ordered a general 10 per cent reduction in salaries, effective May 1. This will be the third salary reduction by Warner since the start of the depression, it is said.

DOG SHOW ENTRIES CLOSE SUNDAY NIGHT

Blue Dan, $10,000 Animal, Is Among Exhibits to Be Seen May 7-8.

Sunday midnight is the deadline for entries in the third annual dog show of the National Capital Kennel Club, to be staged at the Washington Auditorium May 7 and 8.

Receiving the enthusiastic backing of local and Eastern dog fanciers and society folk, the show looms as the biggest attraction of its kind ever held here.

Heading the list of German Schnauzers, Irish wolf hounds, Eskimo huskies and various other striking canine types will be Blue Dan, quiet demeanored English setter, who outclassed a field of more assertive champions in the 1930 show to be adjudged the best entry.

Blue Dan, priced at $10,000, will be entered by the Happy Valley Kennels, famous dog breeders of Philadelphia.

Canines which gained top honors in previous shows will participate in a special event of the show on Sunday, May 8, at 7:30 o'clock when a "parade of champions" will be held.

Joseph C. O'Hare, president of the National Capital Kennel Club, has announced the judges for the show as follows: G. V. Glebe, Bryn Athyn, Pa.; A. Albright, jr., North Asbury Park, N. J.; W. Fred Ford, Media, Pa.; Julian M. Plantz, New York City; William E. Chetwin, Syracuse, N. Y.; Mrs. M. B. Smith, Philadelphia; Peter C. Barr, Cynwyn, Pa.; David Wagstaff, Tuxedo Park, N. Y.; Frank Downing, Baltimore; Miss Marie Louise Welch, Baltimore, and Harold B. Johnson, Westbury, N. Y.

Trophies will be awarded in the various events in addition to cash prizes, ribbons and certificates. Donors of the cups are: Pearson & Crain, jewelers, group 1, sporting; Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Simpson, group 2, sporting (hounds); Fred Buchholz, group 3, working dogs; the Star, group 4, terriers; The Post, group 5, toy dogs, and Mrs. W. R. Joel, group 6, non-sporting dogs. Shah & Shah, jewelers, will present a trophy for the best spaniel in the sporting group.

H. N. Simpson, 5020 Illinois avenue, secretary of the club, and Mrs. Nellie T. Bunch, Berwyn, Md., are handling the entries.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

C. J. METCALF, of Nacogdoches, Tex., reports the following: "Two men were injured in the same accident. They were transported to the same hospital in the same ambulance, died in the same room within the same hour, and were embalmed at the same time by the same embalmer. Their bodies were shipped on the same train to the same town, and buried in the same cemetery at the same time by the same minister." They were not even related.

The accident occurred in September, 1931, near Cushing, Tex., and the men were G. W. Payne and R. L. Jennings, of Athens, Tex.

Supt. HOLLER, of the Pendleton, S. C., public school, writes that at one time quite a controversy existed regarding the relative importance of his family and a family by the name of HILL. The HOLLER family was then living on top of a HILL in Greenville, S. C., and the HILL family was living in the HOLLOW at the bottom of the HILL. They are still trying to settle the question: Does it take two HILLS to make a HOLLER, or two HOLLERS to make a HILL?

TRAFFIC COLLATERAL SCHEDULE CHANGED BY COMMISSIONERS

Charges for First Offenders Reduced; Others Are Increased.

NEW RATES SUGGESTED BY POLICE INSPECTOR

Fees for Minor Violations Are Cut to $2 and $3 by City's Action.

A new schedule of collateral charges for traffic violations, designed to penalize second and third offenders and to reduce the fine on first offenders, was adopted yesterday by the District Commissioners upon recommendation of Inspector Ernest W. Brown, acting superintendent of police, and the indorsement of Corporation Counsel William W Bride.

Collateral specified for most of the minor traffic violations such as parking overtime or contrary to the customary regulations and the like, has been reduced to $2 and $3, whereas the charges for more serious offenses have been raised.

The highest fee for first offense is $25, which is required for obtaining an operator's permit by misrepresentation or for driving a motor vehicle with bad brakes. In the former instance the collateral for the third offense is $100, while for the latter it is $50.

Lack of Driver's Permit.

The collateral for failure to exhibit a driver's permit or a registration card has been reduced to $2 and remains the same for one, two or three offenses.

The charge for violating a red signal light is now $10 for the first offense, $20 for the second, and $50 for the third. For failing to stop at "stop sign" the fees are $5, $10, and $15. For driving through a safety zone, the fine is only $2 if it is unoccupied, first, second, or third offense; but, if occupied, the collateral is $10, $20, and $30.

Collateral of $5 is required for failing to give the pedestrian the right of way at a crosswalk, and this is increased to $10 and $15 for subsequent offenses. Similar fines are specified for failure to give right of way to through traffic or to traffic approaching from the right.

Schedule Two Years Old.

For driving so as to crowd vehicles or persons the fees are $5, $10, and $15. Failure to keep as near as practicable to the right-hand curb or in proper lane requires deposits of $2, $5, or $10. For passing a street car which has stopped to receive or discharge passengers, the fines are $10, $15, and $20 when there are no safety zones or loading platforms.

The charge for overtime parking ranges from $2 to $3 and $5, while that for parking within ten feet of a fire plug jumps from $5 to $10 and $25.

The former collateral schedule has been in effect since March 26, 1929.

Thief Gets Laundry Car And 17 Suits of Clothes

About seventeen customers of the Dollar Cleaners, 1731 S street northwest, had to break dinner engagements last night when an automobile thief drove away with one of the laundry company's trucks.

The driver of the truck, John Fields, of 500 T street, told police he parked the machine in front of 901 Rhode Island avenue to make a delivery.

"And imagine my embarrassment when I came out and found it gone," the driver said.

There were seventeen suits of clothes in the truck at the time, police were told.

Pen Women List Committee Heads

Leaders Are Announced by Mrs. Heflebower, New President of League.

Mrs. Clara Keck Heflebower, newly elected president of the National League of American Pen Women, presiding at a meeting of the national executive board of the league at the Willard Hotel yesterday, announced the chairman of committees recently appointed.

Mrs. Larz Anderson accepted the chairmanship of the club house committee; Mrs. Nina Swalm Clark, retiring president of the organization, accepted the chairmanship of the ways and means committee, and Miss Agnes Winn, who has been the associate editor of the league's official bulletin for four years, was ratified as editor, according to the announcement.

Many members who attended the convention which ended Thursday were present at the board meeting.

Cab Driver Foils Youth in Holdup

"Blond Boy Bandit" Uses Toy Gun in His Third Robbery Attempt.

The "blond boy bandit" made his third appearance in as many weeks last night, but was foiled in his attempted robbery by a taxi driver.

The youth, described as being about 18 years old with blond, curly hair, hailed the taxi of Fred Lacey, 37 years old, of 714 G street northeast, at Connecticut avenue and Chesapeake street northwest. They had proceeded only a short distance when the boy produced a gun and demanded cash. Lacey offered him 15 cents and said that was all he had. The youth took the money, but at the same time Lacey noticed the revolver he carried was a toy.

The boy admitted the gun was a fake, handed it to the taxi driver, together with the 15 cents, and fled. It was the third time a youth answering his description has held up taxi drivers during the past three weeks, police said.

J.C. KING DROWNING CALLED ACCIDENTAL

Witnesses Tell of Ineffectual Efforts to Rescue Man Whose Canoe Upset.

A verdict of accidental drowning was issued yesterday by Deputy Coroner A. Magruder Macdonald in the death Thursday of James Calvert King, 27, whose canoe capsized in the Potomac River.

Two witnesses to King's drowning were located yesterday by Sergt. H. K. Wilson, of the headquarters homicide squad. They were Zero Nichols, of Cherrydale, Va., and Rodney Smith, of 2031 F street northwest.

Both men were fishing from the Virginia shore when they saw King's canoe turn over. Having no boat Nichols and Smith said they ran down the river looking for help. They obtained the help of two women and a man in a boat, they said, but when they reached the spot where King went down could find only his jacket.

The man and woman took the jacket on to Fletcher's boathouse, where Harbor Precinct police were notified. After some dragging King's body was taken from the stream not far from the spot where he was seen to go under.

King lived at 1623 Thirty-fifth street northwest and was a former employe of the Bicentennial Commission. Funeral arrangements had not been completed late yesterday.

Wire-Bound Corpse Remains Unknown

Investigators Hold Theory Man Was Killed Far Up Potomac River.

A verdict of "death at the hands of unknown persons" at an unspecified place was given by a corner's jury yesterday in connection with the finding of the body of an unidentified white man in the Potomac River, near Key Bridge, April 22.

Intensive investigation by members of the homicide squad here has failed to establish the identify of the man. The body was clad in working clothes and appeared to be that of a man of middle age. Heavy wire was bound about the throat and torso of the man. Physicians testified before the jury that death was caused by strangulation and not by drowning.

The opinion has been expressed by investigators that the body may have been precipitated into the river many miles upstream and was brought down by spring freshets.

Taxi Robbers Get Total of 64 Years

Sentences Are Given Eight Men by Justice Proctor After Convictions.

Eight men, two of them white, were given sentences aggregating 64 years in prison yesterday when they were brought before Justice James M. Proctor following convictions of robbing taxicab drivers.

Three of them, colored, got ten years each. They are Rudolph Briscoe, Herbert Price, and Lawrence Boston. Charles E. Brown, who pleaded guilty, got 8 years, and George Taylor and Thomas Cleveland, also colored, were given 7 years each.

Charles E. Tankersley and William T. Barwick, white, got 6 years each. They, with Brown, robbed John T. Young, a cab driver. Brown got the heaviest sentence of the trio because he was the gunman. The other five held up William Long, taxi driver, on February 6. They bound Long to a tree and stole his cab.

CAMPAIGN OF G.O.P. TERMED DISHONEST

Utah's Governor Hurls Barbs at Administration Before Women Democrats.

Branding the Republican administration dishonest and unscrupulous in its alleged campaign to misrepresent the Democratic party, Gov. George H. Dern, of Utah, in an address last night at a dinner of the Women's National Democratic Club, at 1526 New Hampshire avenue northwest, declared that it was only through this means that the "Grand Old Party remained in power."

Gov. Dern, who recently returned from the governors' conference at Richmond, Va., was introduced to members of the club by former Gov. Nellie Tayloe Ross, of Wyoming.

"This country," Gov. Dern said, "is governed by the party system, hence the importance of having the party stand for something—or else it can not command the loyalty of its members."

The Democratic party has an excellent opportunity to win in the coming election, the governor pointed out, provided it has an enlightened program. This program, he said, should not be to follow the policies that have proved disastrous in the past.

"No matter how drastically we cut public expenditures," Gov. Dern said, "we can not hope to give the people relief from tax burdens by that means. This agitation for reduction of public expenditures offers no promise of relief to the suffering Nation," he concluded.

Gallinger Gets "Sleuth" In Lindbergh Kidnaping

A man who claimed, among other things, to be an investigator in the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby was sent to Gallinger Hospital yesterday for mental observation after he had declared himself to be a song writer, an artist, a singer and a detective.

He gave the name of Andrew DeVere and said he came here to see Speaker Garner, of the House of Representatives.

Grease Pit Burns Fatal to Youth, 17

Another Garage Employe Is Seriously Hurt as Fire Traps Him.

One man died last night and another is in Emergency Hospital in a serious condition as the result of burns suffered when trapped yesterday morning in a fire which broke out in a grease pit at a garage at 1224 Twenty-fourth street northwest.

The worker who lost his life is Robert Davis, colored, 17 years old, of 1138 Nineteenth street northwest. He suffered third-degree burns of the face, hands and body. Marshall G. Garmon, 30 years old, of 51 K street northwest, who was working in the pit with him, has second-degree burns over his body.

Claude B. Ryan, manager of the garage, said he heard shouts and ran from his office to see Davis fleeing from the pit, his clothes a mass of flames. The garage manager put out the burning clothing and hurried both of the injured men to the hospital.

VAST RADIUM STORE ON FLOOR OF OCEAN, SAVANTS ARE TOLD

American Geophysical Union Hears Scientists Talk of Discoveries.

GULF STREAM'S EFFECT ON WEATHER DOUBTED

Avalanches, and Valleys Beneath Sea, Described by Session Speakers.

That the "hole in the bottom of the sea" contains vast stores of one of the most precious of elements, radium, was one of many amazing facts described at the meeting of the American Geophysical Union yesterday.

Great avalanches on the ocean floor which may be known only through faint records on seismographs, and the fact that the Gulf Stream is not the weather breeder which it was supposed, were other revelations at the gathering.

It has been found, according to data quoted by C. S. Piggott, that sediments on the bottom of the Pacific Ocean are from four to twelve times richer in radium than rocks on the earth's surface.

Billions of Tons Estimated.

Mr. Piggott estimated the total amount on the floor of the deeps as a billion tons, which, at the present price of radium, would take more figures than there are in the budgets of all the nations of the world to put in dollars.

This concentrated radium, he said, influences happenings inside of the earth if the deposits containing it are very thick. It is sent to the bottom by oxidation in the sea water and is carried down also by skeletons of tiny sea animals, he said.

Valleys on the ocean's bottom are caused by avalanches and great landslides, Dr. Francis Shepard said. The sliding happens along the edges of continents where fine sediments are deposited. Temblors shake them loose.

Gulf Stream Discussed

There is little evidence to support the theory that the Gulf Stream changes position with the season, according to Dr. Philip E. Church. The stream probably has no more affect on the climate than other similar warm area waters.

Its effect is much less than that of the large warm water area to the southeast of it, he said. His observations were predicated on sea surface temperatures.

L. R. Hafsted, of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, described an instrument which can measure a nearly infinitesimal electric current. It can measure a current which is one quadrillionth of an ampere. An ampere will light an ordinary 100 watt electric bulb.

Board Begins Study Of Gas Tank Fight

Position of Rhode Island Avenue Citizens Is Explained by Head.

E. G. Sievers, president of the Rhode Island Avenue Citizens Association, yesterday explained the position of his organization in the fight against erection of a gas holder in the Northeast section as the Public Utilities Commission began its study of evidence gathered during the two previous days.

"We took no part in the protests against the original site at Riggs road and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks," he said, "as this was out of our territory. Neither did we oppose the so-called Terra Cotta location.

"But when the National Capital Park and Planning Commission submitted six prospective sites for the tank, we did protest against those in our vicinity as the gas holder would admittedly be of no benefit to our community. The sites we oppose are the Langdon, the B. & O. roundhouse, and that near the Mount Olivet Cemetery."

Mr. Sievers explained that his association was agreeable to any plan which would exclude the gas holder from the Northeast section.

Liquor Squad Sergeant Is Made Lieutenant

Sergt. George M. Little, of the police headquarters liquor squad, was promoted yesterday by the District Commissioners to the rank of lieutenant, effective tomorrow.

Sergt. Little fills the vacancy created by the promotion of J. W. Pierson to captain.

HORNBECK EXPLAINS POLICY IN FAR EAST

All Actions in Interest of Peace, State Department Man Tells Law Body.

The American Government is following a policy in the Far East of cooperating with every nation which chooses to act in support of peace and of the agreements and machinery which have been created for its maintenance, Stanley K. Hornbeck, of the State Department, yesterday told the American Society of International Law at its meeting in the Willard Hotel.

"In formulating its attitude * * * with regard to the current Manchuria and Shanghai situations," Mr. Hornbeck said, "the American Government has kept before it certain broad considerations of law, of policy and of interest.

"The United States holds no mandate to apply, interpret or enforce the obligations of the Kellogg-Briand pact. The pact itself does not prescribe or authorize any procedure for its own observance or enforcement. It is an instrument of renunciation, not a constitution of mechanism for enforcing peace. It must rely, for efficacy, upon the sanction of public opinion.

"The general policy of the United States with regard to China is expressed in the provisions of the nine-power treaty. The American Government emphasizes that treaty, not only because of the desirability that agreements should be respected, but because the provisions of that treaty envisage and express the practical interest, not alone of China, but also of Japan, of the United States and of the nations which are signatories. That treaty expresses the historical policy toward China of the United States and the principles agreed upon since the beginning of this century by the other powers that have rights and interests in the Far East. It contributes toward maintenace of an equilibrium in the Far East, safeguarding the ultimate interests of all the signatory powers."

Lovelorn Burglar Gets 10-Year Term

Hicks, Who Thrice Fled Police Custody, Closely Guarded in Court.

With a record of 105 housebreaking charges against him since 1922, and with the additional distinction of having three times escaped from police custody, George Emmett Hicks yesterday was given three ten-year sentences when he was brought up before Justice F. D. Letts in the District Supreme Court, following convictions of housebreaking and grand larceny. The sentences will run concurrently.

Hicks, 35 years old, is the man who gained fleeting notoriety when, while burglarizing the apartments of Government clerks, he wrote and left in the apartments passionate love letters.

He made the mistake of telephoning one of the young ladies in an effort to make a date. When he called to take her out half a dozen police pounced on him. His three escapes have made him a marked man, and the manner in which he was guarded yesterday showed that his fourth escape, if one there be, will be no mean feat.

2 LOCAL ARCHITECTS SELECTED OFFICERS OF NATIONAL GROUP

Horace W. Peaslee Is Chosen With Frank C. Baldwin at Closing Session.

E. J. RUSSELL, ST. LOUIS, INSTITUTE'S NEW HEAD

Development of Washington Talked at Bicentennial Conference.

Ernest J. Russell, of St. Louis, was elected president of the American Institute of Architects yesterday. He succeeds Robert D. Kohn, of New York.

Two Washington architects were named as members of the slate of officers selected at the closing day of the sixty-fifth convention of the Institute at the Mayflower Hotel.

They were Horace W. Peaslee, second vice president, and Frank C. Baldwin, secretary. Others elected were Charles D. Maginnis, of Boston, first vice president, and Edwin Bergstrom, of Los Angeles, treasurer.

The following regional directors were named: Middle Atlantic Division, James C. Betelle, of Newark, N. J.; Great Lakes Division, Herbert E. Hewitt, of Peoria, Ill., and Western Mountain Division, Raymond J. Ashton, Salt Lake City.

Frances White Emerson, of Boston, and William Sloan Coffin, of New York, were elected honorary members. The following were made honorary corresponding members: Fernando de la Cruz, of Chile; Herman Distel, of Germany, Carlos Obregon Santa Cillia, of Mexico, and Frederico E. Mariscal, of Mexico.

Bicentennial Conference.

Mr. Russell has long been prominent in the civic affairs of St. Louis. He has been a leader in the advancement of the profession of architecture and has been a first vice president and a director of the institute.

Assembled in a Bicentennial conference held in connection with the institute's convention, heads of civic and professional societies from all over the country adopted resolutions proclaiming their purpose to develop the City of Washington as "a worthy and living memorial to the ideals, visions and glory of its founder."

"We pledge our organizations to the principle that our National Capital should express in its physical planning and development the highest ideals and accomplishments of American art," the resolutions read.

"We propose that in the public buildings of the Capital the collaboration of the ablest architects, sculptors and mural painters be definitely provided under proper authorization and with adequate appropriation: that the employment of landscape architects of outstanding reputation be authorized for the proper setting of public buildings and parks," were further recommendations.

Participating Groups.

Horace W. Peaslee, vice president of the institute, presided at the conference in which the participating bodies were:

American City Planning Institute, American Civic Association, American Federation of Arts, American Institute of Architects, American Society of Civil Engineers, American Society of Landscape Architects, Association of the Alumni of the American Academy in Rome, Garden Club of America, Mural Painters, National Conference on City Planning, National Sculpture Society.

At the afternoon session, Francis Lee Stewart, of New York, noted engineer, urged the formation of a Productive Reconstruction Work Corporation.

This would be a corporation owned and financed by the Government, with a capital of one and a half billion dollars to be raised by sale of bonds.

Loans would be made by it to States, cities and public utilities for reconstructing slums and homes, for sanitary aspects of cities such as water, sewers and paving, for reconstruction of obsolete portions of plants of public utilities, and for public transportation aspects.

The closing event was the annual dinner last night at the Mayflower Hotel, in celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the institute. Speakers and their topics were:

Frederic A. Delano, Washington, "The Architect in Civic Affairs;" the Very Rev. Ignatius Smith, Washington, "The Future of American Architecture;" Irving K. Pond, Chicago, "The Seventy-Fifth Anniversary."

Sneak Thief Gets $325 From Desk in Garage

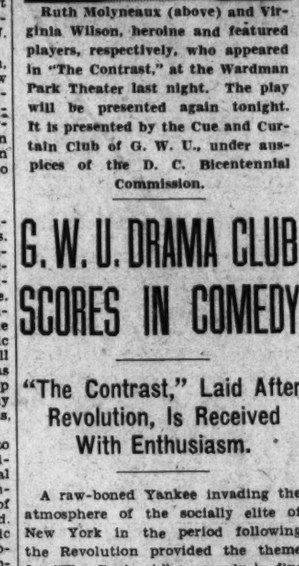
A sneak thief walked out of the Vermont Garage at 1118 Vermont avenue, yesterday morning $327.50 richer than when he came in.

Mrs. Helen McGraw, secretary at the garage, told police that she returned to her office after a short absence to find that her desk had been ransacked and $85 in cash and $242.50 in checks taken. Mrs. McGraw explained that the checks had been signed and might be cashed by anyone.

Dr. Simon Talks on "The Kiddush."

The first of a series of four lectures on Jewish life, was delivered last night before the Washington Hebrew Congregation by Dr. Abram Simon. His topic was "The Kiddush, or the Sacredness of the Sabbath." Dr. Simon will continue his lectures on the next three Friday nights.

IN PLAY



Ruth Molyneaux (above) and Virginia Wilson, heroine and featured players, respectively, who appeared in "The Contrast," at the Wardman Park Theater last night. The play will be presented again tonight. It is presented by the Cue and Curtain Club of G. W. U., under auspices of the D. C. Bicentennial Commission.

G. W. U. DRAMA CLUB SCORES IN COMEDY

"The Contrast," Laid After Revolution, Is Received With Enthusiasm.

A raw-boned Yankee invading the atmosphere of the socially elite of New York in the period following the Revolution provided the theme for "The Contrast," a comedy in five acts by Royall Tyler, produced last night by the Cue and Curtain Club of George Washington University at the Wardman Park Theater.

Playing to an enthusiastically receptive audience, the members of the student cast, costumed in the finery of the colonial period, diligently portrayed the sophistry of the snob, in contrast to the sincere but uninteresting Yankee, through all of the lines of comedy.

Michael Greene, playing the part of an old man imbued with a sense of his own importance, gave a good interpretation of the character. Virginia Wilson and Amanda Chittum were the principal exponents of the worldly wise in the feminine cast. Frank Westbrook and Sol S. Orleans played the part of dandies.

The Yankee element was supplied by Hazen Shea and Joseph Danzansky, the latter providing a comic background through his awkward actions. Ruth Molyneaux played the part of a dutiful daughter to her braggadocio father. Miss Constance Connor Brown, director of dramatics at George Washington University, directed the play.

Collegians Discuss Conflicts of Life

Sessions at Howard U. Are Seeking Solution of Many Problems.

The first annual intercollegiate social science conference began sessions yesterday at Howard University with members participating from Lincoln, Howard, Union, Georgetown and American Universities, Virginia State College, Bennett College and West Virginia Collegiate Institute. The general conference subject, treated in student discussions, was "Facing Conflicts in American Life."

Conflicts between black and white workers and between black and white voters were discussed from various angles, including extreme forms of communism, and conservatism in politics classed by various speakers as "fanatic."

Students' discussions today will seek a community of interests between black and white workers and voters. The final session tonight, at 7:30 o'clock, will be addressed by William E. Burghardt DuBois, editor of the national organ of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, and Dr. Raymond L. Buell. Leon Stolberg, in addressing the conference, advocated "desegregation" of critical faculties of the Negro, in opposition to building up of four strong Negro universities in the South, a development now in progress.

ELECTIVE EDUCATION BOARD IS SOUGHT BY CITIZENS AT HEARING

Only One Witness Scores Bill Before Senate Committee; Report Is Withheld.

MRS. W. T. BANNERMAN LEADS FIGHT FOR PLAN

Six White and Three Colored Members Aproved as Amendment.

Representative citizens' groups turned out in force yesterday in support of the Capper bill for an elective District Board of Education, but the Senate District committee, after extensive hearings, withheld report.

Only one witness, Evan H. Tucker, president of the Northeast Citizens Association, appeared in opposition to the plan. He argued "the best element" would not participate in school board elections; that citizens would only demonstrate incapacity for voting for President and Congress members. He favored the ballot in the latter instance.

Capper Indicates Support.

Representative William McK. Clayton attacked Mr. Tucker's argument as "inconsistent." If the "best element" would not participate in school board elections, it would not turn out for national elections, he contended.

Mrs. W. T. Bannerman, chairman of the joint committee for an elective school board, led the fight for the bill. Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, indicated he was sympathetic toward the measure, but thought his committee should take it under advisement.

Amendment Is Proposed.

Appearing for the bill were Harry N. Stull, Federation of Citizens Associations; Fred A. Walker, Park View Citizens Association; Herbert S. Wood, Public School Association; Mrs. Selma Borchardt, Teachers Union; Mrs. Daniel Murray, Federation of Colored Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Lewis J. Smith, of the Anacostia Citizens Association.

Mrs. Murray proposed an amendment, fixing membership on the board at nine members, six to be elected in the white school divisions and three in the colored. Mrs. Bannerman said she was agreeable to the amendment.

Raid Nets Alleged Beer And Alcohol; 2 Arrested

Sergt. George M. Little, head of the headquarters special squad, celebrated his appointment to a lieutenancy yesterday by leading a raid on a house at 17 N street northeast, in which, police say, 2 gallons of alcohol and 14 cases of beer were confiscated and two men arrested.

The men allegedly found in the house gave their names as William A. Keyes, 40 years old, of 1-S street northeast and Ellis Duke, 49 years old, of 17 N street northeast. They were charged with illegal possession.

Man Held for Grand Jury In Robbery of Taxi Rider

On a charge of robbery, Patrick Henry Newsome, 23 years old, yesterday was ordered held for the action of the grand jury when he was arrainged in Police Court. Judge Ralph Given set a bond of $3,000.

Newsome, according to testimony, asked T. Worth Jamison, jr., Baltimore architect, for some money while Jamison, attending sessions of the American Institute of Architects, was awaiting a cab at Fifteenth and H streets northwest.

Newsome received 25 cents, and then, telling a hard luck story, said he would like to ride to the Union Station where he could catch a train for his home. On the way over, he drew a knife and robbed Jamison of $30 and a watch and chain.

Jumping from the cab at North Capitol and E streets northwest, Newsome fled, but was captured by the driver of the cab, who held him for police. The cab driver who caught him was Joseph J. Smith, who turned Newsome over to Policeman H. F. Elliott.

Driver Pays $60 in Fines For 20 Traffic Violations

It took Policeman J. H. Hunt, of the Second Precinct, a long time, but he finally had the last laugh. He concealed his feelings very well, however, when Edward M. Meyers, 29 years old, manager of the National Investigation Bureau, paid out a total of $60 in fines assessed in 20 traffic-law violations.

Hunt told Judge John P. McMahon in Traffic Court yesterday that the violations ran from February 2 until last Thursday, when he lay in wait and finally succeeded in giving Meyers a personal invitation to attend Traffic Court.

Meyers had a habit of parking his car at Thomas Circle, opposite a loading platform. Tickets were left on the car, according to Hunt, but since Meyers was a resident of Takoma Park, Md., he disregarded them. When Hunt finally got hold of him he placed 20 charges of overtime parking and 20 charges of disregarding an official sign against him.

The assistant corporation counsel refused to issue papers on the official sign charges, but Judge McMahon, after hearing the testimony, charged $3 per violation on the overtime-parking counts, thereby setting some sort of a one-man violation record.
